CULBERSON WINS BY BIG MAJORITY

Strike Situation So Acute President Calls on Congress for Solution

REFUSAL OF RAILROAD OFFICIALS TO ACCEPT PLAN CREATES CRISIS

Members of Congress Hear Statement of Railroad Officials That Congress Must Guarantee Source of Revenues to Meet Demands of the Employes.

CONGRESS MAY FAVOR RATE INCREASE

Members of Brotherhood Leave for Home, but Leaders Declare They Are Not Breaking Off Negotiations and Have Not Abandoned Hope of Securing Agreement Which Might Avert a Strike.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The threatened railway strike took on such a grave aspect today that President Wilson turned toward congress for a solution of the problem.

Suddenly this afternoon when it became known that the railway executives were unanimous in their refusal to accept his plan of settlement President Wilson personally went to the capitol and laid before Majority Leader Kern of the senate, and Senator Newlands, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, the statement of the railroad heads that congress must guarantee some source of added revenue if they are to meet the demands of their employes.

How this should be accomplished, President Wilson did not suggest. Immediately afterward senators began discussion of proposals to have congress record itself in favor of a rate increase.

No arrangements were made today for the president to address congress on the subject, but it was considered likely that he might do so during the coming week if the situation continued critical.

Tonight the railway executives finished framing their answer to President Wilson's plan and notified the white house they were ready. President Wilson sent word he would pre-

ILLINOIS SOLDIERS LOSE THEIR VOTES

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26.—Governor Dunne decided late today not to call a special session of the Illinois general assembly to make it possible for Illinois guardsmen on the Mexican border to vote in the primary and fall elections, because he failed to receive assurance that there would be a two-thirds majority present in the legislature.

Schooner Arcas Is Found Dismasted

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 26.—The Gulf Fisheries schooner Arcas is at anchor twenty miles south of the Galveston bar with both her masts gone, according to a wireless report received from the American tank steamer Mexicano which sailed for Tampico today. The Arcas was dismasted during the hurricane of last week and had been able to get her present position by means of a jury rig. A tug has been sent to her assistance. She carried a crew of twelve men.

De Facto Mexican Government Fails to Respond to Appeal for Medicines and Food

El Paso, Aug. 26.—An appeal of the people of Aguas Calientes and Zacatecas to authorities of the de facto government in Mexico to send physicians, medicines and food to alleviate disease and famine rampant in the two states has been fruitless, according to private advices received here.

The reply said there was not more than enough food in the federal district to provide for the people there and that if there were physicians available they could do nothing for there were no serums to combat the typhus and smallpox epidemics.

Reports received by military authorities here indicated that about 4000 persons who have come from or passed through the stricken districts have reached Juarez recently. As a result increased precautions are being observed by the immigration authorities here. Some of them said that between 50 and 100 persons have been dying daily in the cities of Zacatecas and Aguas Calientes recently from disease and malnutrition.

Women Suffragists Finding Democrats More Favorable to Suffrage Than Republicans

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Mrs. George Bass, head of the woman's bureau at western campaign headquarters of the democratic national committee, issued a statement today in which she answers the leaders of the Congressional union and others who have criticised President Wilson's position on woman suffrage.

"The first step in the campaign for woman's vote in the suffrage states will be the presentation of proof that the democratic party has been more friendly to the cause of woman suffrage than the republican party," said Mrs. Bass. "The history of the suffrage cause contains proof of this.

"For the twenty years that suffrage was becoming a live issue, the republicans were in power. During that time the suffrage lobbyists in Washington failed to receive even courteous treatment. When the democratic party came into power four years ago, Senator Thomas of Colorado, one of the strongest advocates of woman suffrage in the country, was made chairman of the senate committee on suffrage. He asked for and received as members of his committee men interested in the advancement of suffrage and for the first time in the history of suffrage, congress has met the suffragists cordially and congress has been democratic.

"The Congressional Union, seeking the passage of the federal amendment for universal suffrage and representing only a small fraction of suffrage seekers, is waging a campaign against the democratic party because congress failed to pass the amendment.

"Outside of the congressional situation as well as within it, the democratic party has favored woman suffrage.

"The republican platform approves suffrage. The democratic platform recommends it. The republican candidate for president has just declared himself for suffrage. President Wilson voted for suffrage in 1915."

THEY'LL SPEAK AT BIG CONVENTION

One of the most important nights at the suffrage convention to be held at Atlantic City in September will be the occasions of discussions on why "Women Need the Vote."

MEXICAN RAILROADS NO LONGER UNDER MILITARY CONTROL

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 26.—Military and civil authorities throughout Mexico were ordered in a circular issued today by General Carranza to refrain from interfering with the transportation of merchandise on the railroads of the country, according to dispatches received at the local Mexican consulate. They were also forbidden to allow free transportation of individuals or goods.

It was pointed out here that the order is the first step in taking the railroads of Mexico from under the control of the military who have used them as they pleased, each local commander having absolute control over the lines in his district. The circular permits the commanders, however, to use the roads where necessary for the movement of troops or supplies.

SENATOR LIPPITT DECRIES WILSON POLICY IN SENATE

Rhode Island Senator Says Lifting Mexico Embargo Is Unforgivable Thing.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The administration's Mexican policy was attacked in the senate today by Senator Lippitt, republican, who said the "unforgivable thing" was the lifting of the embargo on army in February, 1914.

"Mr. Wilson could not have been in ignorance of the horrible deeds his actions in lifting the embargo would cause," said the Rhode Island senator.

"It was not done impulsively as the result of a crisis. A policy had failed, so President Wilson whose campaign cry is that he has kept the country out of war, used as an instrument the most horrible and indefensible kind of warfare and all the forces of murder, robbery, unbridled passion and lust were armed and encouraged to conduct a conflict in which nothing was sacred not even the altar of religion."

Many Guardsmen Are Discharged

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 26.—Fifteen hundred and eight guardsmen with persons dependant on them for support have been discharged from border duty, it was announced today at Fort Sam Houston.

SOFIA REPORTS REPULSE OF 18 SERBIAN ATTACKS

PARIS AND LONDON REPORT REPULSE OF GERMAN ATTACKS ON THE SOMME AND VERDUN FRONTS—ITALIANS ARE MAKING PROGRESS.

Fighting continues more or less violently on all the battle fronts in Europe, but no notable successes are chronicled. France and the region north of Saloniki has seen the most intense activity and in both fields, the initiative generally has been with the central powers.

Paris and London announce the repulse of repeated German attacks on the Somme and Verdun fronts. German efforts were especially strong at Thiepval, Guillemont and Maurepas, north of the Somme and on the right bank of the Meuse before Verdun.

BRITISH ADVANCE NEAR MOUQUET FARM.

London claims an additional British advance near the Mouquet farm. German trenches on a front of 400 yards along the Courcelette-Thiepval road were occupied.

Sofia records the repulse of eighteen consecutive attacks by Serbians northwest of Saloniki. The Serbian losses are said to have been large. Northeast of Saloniki the Bulgarians apparently without opposition from the Greeks have seized a good part of northeastern Macedonia for fifty miles along the Aegean.

BULGARIANS HAVE MORE FRONTAGE IN AEGEAN.

The Bulgarians now have an additional frontage along the Aegean and are nearing Orfano, fifty miles northeast of Saloniki, thus pressing in on the allied troops along the Struma. No allied advances are reported. London reports that British aeroplanes have bombarded camps south of Demir-Hissar at points recently within the Anglo-French lines north of the Struma.

Italian troops are making progress at several points in the mountain region near Trent. Rome also reports the repulse of Austrian counter attacks in the Alps. Vienna asserts that Italian attacks in the Fassa Alps have lessened, but Rome claims continued progress there.

ALMOST COMPLETE RETURNS FROM MOST ALL COUNTIES SHOW CULBERSON IS RENOMINATED BY MAJORITY OF 75,000

At Midnight Less Than 30,000 Votes Remained to Be Accounted for and Culberson Has 146,507 Votes as Against Former Governor Colquitt With 83,457—Very Few Counties Give Colquitt Any Majority at All.

WACO GIVES CULBERSON 1633 AND COLQUITT ONLY 607

McLennan and Falls Counties Each Give Culberson Strong Majorities—Colquitt Loses in Many Liquor Strongholds, Failing to Receive Majorities in Numbers of Southwest Texas Towns, Where He Has Always Received Heavy Support.

By the Associated Press.

Dallas, Aug. 26.—Virtually complete returns from practically all Texas counties in the democratic senatorial run-off primary today gave Senator Charles A. Culberson 146,507 votes as against former Governor Colquitt with 83,457. Less than 30,000 votes remain to be accounted for. The Dallas News will say tomorrow that Senator Culberson was renominated by a majority of 75,000.

The above Associated Press report of the election returns tallies with those received by the Waco Morning News through the aid of the Texas Telephone company and the Mackay Telegraph company, up to midnight last night. The returns gathered by the News are summarized as follows:

At midnight the vote stood: Colquitt 83,457; Culberson 146,507, showing that the senior senator has swept Texas in a veritable landslide.

All sections gave an imposing lead for Culberson.

Accounting for 229,964 votes at midnight, the returns showed a majority for Culberson over Colquitt of 63,050. One hundred and ninety-six counties had been heard from before that hour. Forty per cent were complete. Thirty-four counties had not reported, but these could not possibly change the result.

The vote was practically complete for many counties which had not given their final figures.

The above results are in accord with the repeated predictions of the Waco Morning News, and the phones in the editorial offices were kept busy until 2 o'clock this morning by people who had secured copies of the News' extra issued last night at 10:30 o'clock, congratulating the force on the results of the election and expressing their appreciation of the enterprise shown by the issuance of the special edition which made it possible for all to get the returns early in the evening.

Waco gave Senator Charles A. Culberson a majority of about three to one over O. B. Colquitt and the county gave the present incumbent a similar endorsement. With the total city vote showing about one-third the strength of the first primary, Culberson received 1,633 votes compared to 607 for Colquitt.

Voting in all six wards was light as contrasted with the full voting strength but for a run-off election the voting is declared to show an unusual interest in the election. There were 2,240 votes cast in the city yesterday, while in the first primary, July 22, there were 6,162 votes cast in the senatorial race for the six aspirants.

In the first primary Mr. Colquitt received a much greater vote than the senator, but the shake up from Brooks and Henry adherents appears to have turned the tide remarkably for Culberson. Colquitt received a greater vote in every ward on July 22 than Culberson, but the preference was uniformly reversed yesterday. All results were in early.

ANOTHER DALLAS MURDER MYSTERY MAY BE SOLVED

SELF-CONFESSED MURDERER OF DALLAS NURSE NOW UNDER DEATH SENTENCE BELIEVED MURDERER OF MERCHANT AT LISBON.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 26.—The mystery surrounding the murder of William Humphreys, an aged merchant at Lisbon, Dallas county, on the night of last April 8, has been cleared, police authorities stated tonight, through the finding of a ring and other property belonging to Mr. Humphrey's daughter, in a trunk which is alleged to belong to Houston Wagner, a negro, now under death sentence for his self-confessed murder of Miss Zaola Cramer, a trained nurse on the campus of a local school ground during the night of March 26. Humphreys' daughter who was seriously beaten and left for dead at the time of her father's murder, is said to have identified the property taken from the trunk and also it is stated identified Wagner as their assailant.

The Humphreys' murder baffled local police four months. On the morning of April 9, the merchant was found dead in his store, his daughter unconscious and the place looted. The murderer used a heavy stick of stove wood. The father and daughter lived alone in rooms adjoining the store.

No new charges have been filed against Wagner, his motion for a new trial for the death sentence in the Cramer case having just been overruled.

General Nafarrate Held in Mexico City on Charge of Murder

Brownsville, Tex., Aug. 26.—General Nafarrate, recently removed by General Carranza as commander of the Tamaulipas division of the de facto army, has been arrested and is being held in the penitentiary at Mexico City charged with the murder of Captain Gumrondo Hernandez, of the revolutionary army in Matamoros in July, 1913, according to unofficial, but apparently reliable reports reaching the border here today.

Nafarrate was absolved from guilt by a courtmartial at the time he killed Hernandez, his plea being self defense.

FEEL BILIOUS? CALOMEL SICKENS! CLEAN LIVER AND BOWELS MY WAY

Don't Lose a Day's Work! If Constipated, Sluggish, Headachy, Take a Spoonful of "Dodson's Liver Tone."

Listen to me! Take no more sickening, salivating calomel when bilious or constipated. Don't lose a day's work!

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath it bad or stomach sour just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone.

Here's my guarantee — Go to any drug store and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful tonight and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous by morning I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

The Man Who Loses

EX-GOVERNOR O. B. COLQUITT

Louisiana Mob Lynches Negro

Shreveport, Aug. 26.—A mob of 1,000 today took Jesse Hammett, a negro, from the jail at Vivian, twenty miles north of here, and hanged him to a telegraph pole. He was identified by a white woman as the man who attempted an assault upon her, armed with a butcher knife. The woman's parents were among those who pleaded with the mob to desist. Hammett, as a servant years ago, cared for the woman he was alleged to have attempted to outrage.

Mexico's New Army.
(Cartoons.)

The Mexican army of today is as different from that of the time when Porfirio Diaz thought he had 32,000 soldiers and woke to find barely 14,000, as is the German army that swept through Belgium different from our handful of 50,000 down in Texas. Six years ago the Mexican army was composed of the riffraff of Mexico, convicts, political prisoners, drab slaves who served because they owed money to some friend of the government, or wretches who had had the misfortune to marry women whose beauty attracted the eye of some other friend of those in power. Unlike the "rurales," who having been bandits and highwaymen, still preserved their air of freedom and independence because they had been bought and not enslaved, the regular army of the Diaz administration was herded to its work as the Russians were driven into battle at Port Arthur, or bound, as Guatemalan soldiers are chained to their barracks lest they flee.

Today the Mexican army is composed of free men, most of them bandits, it is true, many of them murderers, few of them to be trusted out of sight of their commanding officers, but all fighting because they want to fight, not because they have to fight. And those who judge the coming opposition of the Mexican army of 1916 by that which the forces of Santa Ana put up nearly seventy years ago are as mistaken as those who would attempt to compare the Armada with the British North Sea fleet.

ELDERLY WOMEN SAFEGUARDED

I am now well and healthy and recommend your Compound to other ladies."—Mrs. MARY RIDGWAY, Durand, Wis.

Blackstone, Mass.—"My troubles were from my age, and I felt awfully sick for three years. I had hot flashes often and frequently suffered from pains. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now am well."—Mrs. PIERRE COURNOYER, Box 239, Blackstone, Mass.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and dizziness, should be heeded by middle-aged women. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has carried many women safely through this crisis.

INCOME TAX BILL LOSES IN SENATE

Washington, Aug. 26.—A proposal to lower the present income tax exemption, written into the administration revenue bill by the senate finance committee and then stricken out when house leaders indicated they would not accept it, was voted down 31 to 19 by the senate today when Senator Underwood offered it as an amendment.

Discussion of the amendment was marked by a bitter exchange between democratic senators in charge of the bill and Senator Underwood, author of the present tariff law. Chairman Simmons of the finance committee reminded the Alabama senator that it was a long standing senate practice for senators to stand by the decisions of their party caucus and Senator Stone, also a member of the committee, declared Senator Underwood deserved severe censure for his attitude toward the bill.

MANY BROTHERHOOD LEADERS LEAVE TOWN.

The brotherhood leaders, after being in meeting most of the day, adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Many of them left town tonight. The refusal of the railway executives to accept the president's plan, including concession of the eight-hour day and proposing a counter plan such as previously has been outlined, will put the next move up to the brotherhood leaders. It probably will be communicated to them officially Monday after President Wilson has heard it from the executives.

The executives held several meetings during the day, but no change resulted in the position they took last night when they approved a rough draft of their reply to President Wilson. It was 6:30 tonight when the committee of eight which has handled the negotiations announced that they had asked for a conference with President Wilson and awaited his pleasure. After a two hours' wait the executives announced that President Wilson had informed them he would prefer not to see them tonight. The situation as summed up late tonight by those in close touch with it was this:

SUMMARY OF SITUATION LAST NIGHT.

President Wilson has seen the published reports of the reply the executives will make him Monday and does not wish to accept it. It would not surprise those in the confidence of the railroad officials to have him make a counter proposal at that time, retaining his original proposition for an eight-hour day, but offering the roads as compensation congressional assurances of a freight rate increase.

Among the executives tonight it clearly was evident that such a counter proposal probably would not be accepted.

The executive's reply will be divided into argument and statement of their position. The statement will show that they do not accept the eight-hour day with pay for ten hours as demanded by the men; that they maintain this demand really is one for an increase is a matter of arbitration and for settlement in no other way. It would make the arbitration retroactive and the roads would pledge themselves to create a fund to care for back wages if increases are approved by the arbitrators.

EXECUTIVES CITE THREE ARGUMENTS.

Three things are cited by the executives to back up this position. The first is that many of the big shippers of the country have declared themselves opposed to an abandonment of arbitration and have insisted that an eight-hour day must not be granted. The second is a conviction that to give in to the men under present conditions would undermine discipline on the roads and would leave far-reaching after effects. The third is that no matter what assurances are given they feel they cannot expect a rate increase.

Brotherhood leaders said tonight departure of a large number of the 640 representatives for their homes should not be interpreted as an indication that the men were breaking off negotiations or had abandoned hope of a settlement. Many more would leave tomorrow, the leaders said, but the heads and vice presidents of all the brotherhoods would remain and would have sufficient authority to deal with any developments.

Regardless of the outcome of President Wilson's negotiations, it was indicated tonight that a few of the brotherhood leaders probably would remain here longer than Monday.

The head of each organization met with his vice president tonight and discussed tentative plans for a strike. The manner in which the federal government has been injected into the situation would make it almost imperative it is thought that any strike be directed from here.

ONLY TWO WAYS OUT.

As the brotherhood men saw the situation tonight only two steps could prevent a walkout. Those are for the railroads to withdraw their insistence upon arbitration for all demands of the men, or for the government to take over the railroads for operation during the strike. Little confidence was expressed that the railroad heads would recede, but the men professed to see great hopes of government operation of the lines, particularly after the president's visit to congress.

STRIKE WOULD BEGIN IN A WEEK.

If a strike should come, it was learned tonight, it probably will not become operative for about a week. The brotherhood men, while they have the right to declare a strike from here, probably would not do so until the representatives leaving today and tomorrow had talked over the situation with their local committees. Some of them could not reach home in less than five days.

BAKER OPPOSES WOMAN'S PLAN.

Appeal for Funds for Border Hospital Denounced by War Secretary.
(New York Sun.)

Washington.—Secretary of War Baker has issued a statement denouncing the appeal which Mrs. J. Borden Harriman is making for subscriptions to establish a hospital at Brownsville. The committee in charge of this charitable enterprise is headed by the former secretary of war, Lindley M. Garrison, and is made up of widely known American men and women. Mr. Baker says the appeal is based on erroneous reports concerning the need for added hospital facilities for the army and the militia.

"The object of the appeal," says Secretary Baker, "is to collect $12,000 for the further maintenance of a small hospital at Brownsville, the purpose of which, I am told, is to extend relief to sick and disabled Americans and Mexican civilians in that region. The letter, however, mistakenly states that this small private hospital constitutes the only hospital facilities available today for thousands of our troops who center at Brownsville.

"There are seven field hospitals with the troops on the border, each having a capacity of 216 beds. This does not include the field hospitals of the organized militia. In addition the southern department has at its disposal for expenditures in General Funston's discretion $300,000 for additional hospitals and increasing the bed capacity of hospitals already built."

Louisiana Mob Lynches Negro

Shreveport, Aug. 26.—A mob of 1,000 today took Jesse Hammett, a negro, from the jail at Vivian, twenty miles north of here, and hanged him to a telegraph pole. He was identified by a white woman as the man who attempted an assault upon her, armed with a butcher knife. The woman's parents were among those who pleaded with the mob to desist. Hammett, as a servant years ago, cared for the woman he was alleged to have attempted to outrage.

Mexico's New Army.
(Cartoons.)

The Mexican army of today is as different from that of the time when Porfirio Diaz thought he had 32,000 soldiers and woke to find barely 14,000, as is the German army that swept through Belgium different from our handful of 50,000 down in Texas. Six years ago the Mexican army was composed of the riffraff of Mexico, convicts, political prisoners, drab slaves who served because they owed money to some friend of the government, or wretches who had had the misfortune to marry women whose beauty attracted the eye of some other friend of those in power. Unlike the "rurales," who having been bandits and highwaymen, still preserved their air of freedom and independence because they had been bought and not enslaved, the regular army of the Diaz administration was herded to its work as the Russians were driven into battle at Port Arthur, or bound, as Guatemalan soldiers are chained to their barracks lest they flee.

Today the Mexican army is composed of free men, most of them bandits, it is true, many of them murderers, few of them to be trusted out of sight of their commanding officers, but all fighting because they want to fight, not because they have to fight. And those who judge the coming opposition of the Mexican army of 1916 by that which the forces of Santa Ana put up nearly seventy years ago are as mistaken as those who would attempt to compare the Armada with the British North Sea fleet.

INCOME TAX BILL LOSES IN SENATE

Washington, Aug. 26.—A proposal to lower the present income tax exemption, written into the administration revenue bill by the senate finance committee and then stricken out when house leaders indicated they would not accept it, was voted down 31 to 19 by the senate today when Senator Underwood offered it as an amendment.

Discussion of the amendment was marked by a bitter exchange between democratic senators in charge of the bill and Senator Underwood, author of the present tariff law. Chairman Simmons of the finance committee reminded the Alabama senator that it was a long standing senate practice for senators to stand by the decisions of their party caucus and Senator Stone, also a member of the committee, declared Senator Underwood deserved severe censure for his attitude toward the bill.

MANY BROTHERHOOD LEADERS LEAVE TOWN.

The brotherhood leaders, after being in meeting most of the day, adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Many of them left town tonight. The refusal of the railway executives to accept the president's plan, including concession of the eight-hour day and proposing a counter plan such as previously has been outlined, will put the next move up to the brotherhood leaders. It probably will be communicated to them officially Monday after President Wilson has heard it from the executives.

The executives held several meetings during the day, but no change resulted in the position they took last night when they approved a rough draft of their reply to President Wilson. It was 6:30 tonight when the committee of eight which has handled the negotiations announced that they had asked for a conference with President Wilson and awaited his pleasure. After a two hours' wait the executives announced that President Wilson had informed them he would prefer not to see them tonight. The situation as summed up late tonight by those in close touch with it was this:

SUMMARY OF SITUATION LAST NIGHT.

President Wilson has seen the published reports of the reply the executives will make him Monday and does not wish to accept it. It would not surprise those in the confidence of the railroad officials to have him make a counter proposal at that time, retaining his original proposition for an eight-hour day, but offering the roads as compensation congressional assurances of a freight rate increase.

Among the executives tonight it clearly was evident that such a counter proposal probably would not be accepted.

The executive's reply will be divided into argument and statement of their position. The statement will show that they do not accept the eight-hour day with pay for ten hours as demanded by the men; that they maintain this demand really is one for an increase is a matter of arbitration and for settlement in no other way. It would make the arbitration retroactive and the roads would pledge themselves to create a fund to care for back wages if increases are approved by the arbitrators.

EXECUTIVES CITE THREE ARGUMENTS.

Three things are cited by the executives to back up this position. The first is that many of the big shippers of the country have declared themselves opposed to an abandonment of arbitration and have insisted that an eight-hour day must not be granted. The second is a conviction that to give in to the men under present conditions would undermine discipline on the roads and would leave far-reaching after effects. The third is that no matter what assurances are given they feel they cannot expect a rate increase.

Brotherhood leaders said tonight departure of a large number of the 640 representatives for their homes should not be interpreted as an indication that the men were breaking off negotiations or had abandoned hope of a settlement. Many more would leave tomorrow, the leaders said, but the heads and vice presidents of all the brotherhoods would remain and would have sufficient authority to deal with any developments.

Regardless of the outcome of President Wilson's negotiations, it was indicated tonight that a few of the brotherhood leaders probably would remain here longer than Monday.

The head of each organization met with his vice president tonight and discussed tentative plans for a strike. The manner in which the federal government has been injected into the situation would make it almost imperative it is thought that any strike be directed from here.

ONLY TWO WAYS OUT.

As the brotherhood men saw the situation tonight only two steps could prevent a walkout. Those are for the railroads to withdraw their insistence upon arbitration for all demands of the men, or for the government to take over the railroads for operation during the strike. Little confidence was expressed that the railroad heads would recede, but the men professed to see great hopes of government operation of the lines, particularly after the president's visit to congress.

STRIKE WOULD BEGIN IN A WEEK.

If a strike should come, it was learned tonight, it probably will not become operative for about a week. The brotherhood men, while they have the right to declare a strike from here, probably would not do so until the representatives leaving today and tomorrow had talked over the situation with their local committees. Some of them could not reach home in less than five days.

BAKER OPPOSES WOMAN'S PLAN.

(New York Sun.)

Washington.—Secretary of War Baker has issued a statement denouncing the appeal which Mrs. J. Borden Harriman is making for subscriptions to establish a hospital at Brownsville. The committee in charge of this charitable enterprise is headed by the former secretary of war, Lindley M. Garrison, and is made up of widely known American men and women. Mr. Baker says the appeal is based on erroneous reports concerning the need for added hospital facilities for the army and the militia.

"The object of the appeal," says Secretary Baker, "is to collect $12,000 for the further maintenance of a small hospital at Brownsville, the purpose of which, I am told, is to extend relief to sick and disabled Americans and Mexican civilians in that region. The letter, however, mistakenly states that this small private hospital constitutes the only hospital facilities available today for thousands of our troops who center at Brownsville.

"There are seven field hospitals with the troops on the border, each having a capacity of 216 beds. This does not include the field hospitals of the organized militia. In addition the southern department has at its disposal for expenditures in General Funston's discretion $200,000 for additional hospitals and increasing the bed capacity of hospitals already built."

ANOTHER DALLAS MURDER MYSTERY MAY BE SOLVED

SELF-CONFESSED MURDERER OF DALLAS NURSE NOW UNDER DEATH SENTENCE BELIEVED MURDERER OF MERCHANT AT LISBON.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 26.—The mystery surrounding the murder of William Humphreys, an aged merchant at Lisbon, Dallas county, on the night of last April 8, has been cleared, police authorities stated tonight, through the finding of a ring and other property belonging to Mr. Humphrey's daughter, in a trunk which is alleged to belong to Houston Wagner, a negro, now under death sentence for his self-confessed murder of Miss Zaola Cramer, a trained nurse on the campus of a local school ground during the night of March 26. Humphreys' daughter who was seriously beaten and left for dead at the time of her father's murder, is said to have identified the property taken from the trunk and also it is stated identified Wagner as their assailant.

The Humphreys' murder baffled local police four months. On the morning of April 9, the merchant was found dead in his store, his daughter unconscious and the place looted. The murderer used a heavy stick of stove wood. The father and daughter lived alone in rooms adjoining the store.

No new charges have been filed against Wagner, his motion for a new trial for the death sentence in the Cramer case having just been overruled.

General Nafarrate Held in Mexico City on Charge of Murder

Brownsville, Tex., Aug. 26.—General Nafarrate, recently removed by General Carranza as commander of the Tamaulipas division of the de facto army, has been arrested and is being held in the penitentiary at Mexico City charged with the murder of Captain Gumrondo Hernandez, of the revolutionary army in Matamoros in July, 1913, according to unofficial, but apparently reliable reports reaching the border here today.

Nafarrate was absolved from guilt by a courtmartial at the time he killed Hernandez, his plea being self defense.

FEEL BILIOUS? CALOMEL SICKENS! CLEAN LIVER AND BOWELS MY WAY

Don't Lose a Day's Work! If Constipated, Sluggish, Headachy, Take a Spoonful of "Dodson's Liver Tone."

Listen to me! Take no more sickening, salivating calomel when bilious or constipated. Don't lose a day's work!

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath it bad or stomach sour just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone.

Here's my guarantee — Go to any drug store and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful tonight and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous by morning I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

ECONOMY IS THE WORD AND IT'S DEFINED

3400 R. P. M.

It's cheaper in the long run to buy a car like the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers—at $1090 Detroit.

A low-priced car often doesn't pay.

Somewhat like the man who wanted to fence his farm and said he wouldn't spend more than a certain sum of money.

"Well, for that price I can build you a fence two feet high that will keep the pigs out," said the hardware man.

"Now, for just so much more I can build a fence three feet high that will keep the sheep out. And for this amount I can build a 5-foot fence that will keep anything out."

You had better pay a couple of hundred more, and get a regular car. Get a car that fulfills exactly every wish.

One that does a good workday on Monday; that takes you anywhere on Tuesday; runs you 200 miles on Wednesday; does the errands on Thursday; takes the family to call on Friday; one that's not only got the 5-year endurance, but gives you a feeling of pride as well.

That, sir, is my definition of Economy.

This new 1917 Chalmers with the 3400 r. p. m. engine—the car that increased Chalmers sales 792% in six months—is one that'll lure you the minute you sit behind the wheel.

WOULD FLOAT BONDS TO SAVE RIVERLANDS

BRAZOS VALLEY AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION WANTS LEGISLATION.

WANT COUNTY CO-OPERATION

Col. W. W. Seley, President of Association, Thinks Now Is the Time for Education and Work.

Those interested in the reclamation of lands along the rivers of Texas which are subject to overflow are of the opinion that while a great deal can be done under present laws, by the co-operation of those who own acreage that is subject to damage by flood waters, yet there should be constitutional authority for a statute that will authorize the formation of taxing or bonding districts that will include more than one county or as many counties as are necessary to each precinct.

When the committee on flood control of the federal congress visited Texas in May as guests of the Brazos River and Valley Improvement association, it was made clear by Chairman Humphreys that while congress will aid in local flood prevention measures, yet the federal government will not agree to bear all the expense, but that states and localities must in a measure match dollars with the government, and such local action must be taken as to give assurance of continuing protection of uniform construction. In other words, if the property owners in one county undertake to provide protection, and follow one system that will stop at the county line, and the property owners of the adjoining county provide protection and construct their works upon a different system that will not join with the work of the next county at the county line, there would be no guarantee that the result would be satisfactory. If, for instance, the constitution could be changed so as to authorize a statute that would allow the formation of a district that would include all the counties along the Brazos from the highest point of overflow to the mouth, or along the Trinity that would do the same, on the Colorado the same, it would give an opportunity to provide continuing engineering work from county to county.

LEVEE TAX WILL BE NECESSARY.

Another feature that is suggested is that tax levys now can be made only on the basis of the present value of lands subject to overflows. It is believed that owners of such lands would be willing to be taxed on the basis of the value of the land that would be fixed when it is made safe from overflow, and this would produce money sufficient for all purposes. Colonel James Chance of Bryan, one of the largest planters in the Brazos valley, says the "overflow tax is more expensive than the levee tax," and this has been adopted as a slogan by those who are making an effort to put this reclamation work into operation.

Up to this time the Brazos River and Valley Improvement association is well organized and is promoting work along the Brazos river. The people in all the counties along the river are enthusiastic over what has been done and what is to be accomplished. These people contributed $3000 to bring the flood committee of congress to Texas in May, and this is the beginning of more work they will undertake. After a conference recently held, it was decided that if a constitutional amendment, such as is outlined above, is obtained through the Thirty-fifth legislature, that a statewide organization is necessary, and the plan agreed on is to get all of the river sections organized into separate units; for instance, an organization for the Trinity, an organization for the Colorado, an organization for the Guadalupe, etc. When these are all formed, then a statewide organization could be formed with delegates from each, the state organization being composed of the river units, much after the manner of the Texas Farmers' congrses.

ENGINEER STILES HAS DATA ON SUBJECT.

A. A. Stiles, state reclamation engineer, has a great deal of data that will be valuable, and he has recently conferred with W. W. Seley, president of the Brazos River and Valley Improvement association, on the subject. Mr. Stiles has done very successful work in co-operation with the efforts of the people along the Trinity in Dallas, Ellis, Kaufman and other counties, and he stands ready to help every part of the state.

President Seley of Waco believes that now is the time to begin the organization and educational work. He has arranged with A. D. Jackson to undertake the preliminary work that is necessary. Mr. Jackson is to go out from Waco with credentials from the Brazos River and Valley Improvement association, and will endeavor to interest all river counties in the proposed organization. He goes first to Dallas to confer with the Chamber of Commerce, and will confer with other Trinity river towns and counties. Mr. Jackson formerly lived in Wood county, where he conducted a newspaper. He has recently been editing a newspaper at Crystal City, Texas, where he has farm property. Because of the overflow of his lands he has become interested in reclamation work and has made a study of it. He has a wide acquaintance in Texas, and he was highly endorsed to Mr. Seley as one especially qualified to present the propaganda to those who would be interested in it.

The work that is now being undertaken under the auspices of the Brazos River and Valley Improvement asscoiation is not a temporary expediency. After all the things necessary to be done to obtain the legislative sanction to the submission of the proposed constitutional amendment, there is to be a campaign of education to get out the vote of the people and to have that vote favorable to the project.

PAINFUL TETTER ON HANDS AND FACE

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"Since childhood I had been a sufferer from tetter. My hands and face would break out in great red splotches which would itch and burn and be quite painful at times. The skin was very sore and inflamed and the itching would get so bad that I would just have to scratch the parts affected. At times I could not put my hands in water and I could not go out in the wind. It was very disfiguring and I looked horrid.

"Then I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I saw at once that it relieved me. I then got a large box of Ointment and a cake of Soap and the result was simply marvelous for in two months I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. J. R. TO START CAMPAIGN TICK ERADICATION IN THIS VICINITY

The work of tick eradication in McLennan and adjoining counties is to have special attention from this time forward, and the work which already has been done by special agents will be largely supplemented through arrangements which have been made by the United States authorities.

Dr. A. H. Julien of Temple, veterinary inspector of the United States bureau of animal industry, was here yesterday in company with J. A. Pipkin of Waco, special agent of the United States department of agriculture, and it was stated that Dr. Julien will give all his time to the assistance of county demonstration agents in five counties in connection with tick eradication. This is reckoned to be a most important work, and one in which this section has lagged somewhat because up to the present the government has not made the provision which it now is making for pushing this work.

The five counties in which Dr. Julien will operate in the tick eradication work are Bell, McLennan, Falls, Williamson and Burnet, and he will maintain headquarters in Temple at present.

J. A. Pipkin, Jr., of Waco, already has arranged for a big demonstration or field day on the tick eradication work, and it is hoped that every stock man, stock farmer or farmer interested in this important step for healthier cattle will be on hand and see the dipping which is to be done and hear the explanations of the good which will be accomplished by the dipping. This field day and demonstration will be next Friday, September 1, at the Aquilla Stock Farm, owned by Bayliss Earle and J. S. Harrison, and the vats there will have eighty head of cattle dipped in them, while onlookers view the process and secure the information which is to be gleaned from what they see and hear. The Aquilla Stock Farm is located eleven miles out on the Gholson road, and it will not take long to reach there in a machine.

Special Agent J. A. Pipkin, Jr., has been instrumental in having five dipping vats installed in this county already, and two others now are under construction. In the counties just west of here there is very deep interest in the dipping of cattle and in tick eradication generally, and it is claimed that wonderful results are being secured.

Songs of Sentiment.

No American compositions of recent years have attained a greater measure of fame than Carrie Jacobs-Bond's songs of sentiment. One of the most recent of Mrs. Jacobs-Bond's songs, "Do You Remember?" has just been put in record form by Columbia.

No voice could be more admirably adapted to the exquisite sentiment of this love idyl than the rich baritone of Oscar Seagle. All the poignant longing and regret, a love too tender and deep to know death, are expressed with the supreme delicacy of feeling so characteristic of Seagle's vocal portrayals.

COMMENCEMENT AT BAYLOR WEDNESDAY

DR. JOHN C. GRANDERY OF SOUTHWESTERN WILL DELIVER BACCALAUREATE.

MEDICAL COLLEGE GROWING

Several New Buildings Are Being Erected at Dallas—Botanical Party Off to Colorado.

The exercises of the Baylor summer commencement will be held Wednesday morning at Carroll chapel at 10 o'clock, according to the usual plan of summer school, which is to hold no other special features at the close than the graduation proper. At 9:30 the officers of the university, members of the faculty, members of the board of trustees, members of the class, and honored visitors who make up the processional will meet in the front of the science hall. Thence the processional will proceed a little while before 10 a. m. to Carroll chapel. The speaker of the day will be Dr. John C. Grandery, of the department of political science of Southwestern university. There will be two special musical numbers during the program, the first a vocal solo by Miss Juanita Smith, a graduate in voice from the university, and one of the most talented of Waco's contralto soloists; the second a violin solo by Prof. Anton Navratil, whose wonderful violin interpretations have won so much praise and admiration. Mr. Navratil will be accompanied at the piano by Edward Wells of the fine arts faculty, who will also play the processional at the opening.

BOTANICAL PARTY OFF TO COLORADO.

Yesterday afternoon the party conducted by Miss Lula Pace, head of the department of botany and geology, left for Colorado. They will spend three weeks in study in Colorado and the Yellowstone National park, and this will enable them to do some very profitable work in both botany and geology. They will combine study and vacation in one and will have a very interesting period of study. Miss Pace is well known as one of the leading scholars in her line of work in the entire country, and under her direction a great deal of very instructive and profitable research will be accomplished even in this short period. They will return in time for the fall opening of the university. The members of the party are as follows: Miss Margaret Kesler, Miss Leila Brown, Oscar King, Mr. Bellinger, Sidney Smith of San Antonio and E. W. Watkins of Quanah, Texas.

BAYLOR MEDICAL COLLEGE IS GROWING.

Baylor people were very much interested this week in the report of Dean E. H. Cary of the medical school at Dallas that plans are now complete for the addition of buildings worth more than $200,000 to the plant at Dallas. These changes have been made necessary by the rapid building up of the school and sanitarium during the last year. Dean Cary states that the phenomenal growth has compelled immediate enlargement, and that the money is now available for a large part of the buildings planned. A new six-story home for nurses, which will be erected very near the sanitarium, will cost $150,000. This has been a much needed building for some years and it will add much to the efficiency of the sanitarium. On the grounds of the medical college proper will be erected a new $75,000 building for the treatment of nervous diseases. This will be an innovation for the Southwest, and many of the best doctors of this section of the country are giving the plan their enthusiastic support. Dean Cary says that it will give aid to many whose fate might otherwise be insanity. More than $30,000 will also be spent in enlarging present buildings. The chief persons who are promoting this enlargement of the field of the medical school are President Brooks of the university, Dr. George W. Truett, as the representative of the convention of Texas Baptists, and Dean Cary of the school itself. The Baylor medical school has recently been made one of the few medical colleges of class A standing in the United States, and the officials at Dallas state that this fact will undoubtedly increase the enrollment during the coming year by at least 25 per cent. Several sons of prominent Texas physicians have matriculated, in spite of the fact that the school will not open until the first of October.

President Brooks states that the prospects for an unprecedented opening of the academic department are becoming more and more evident every day, and that the university has probably never had a session which will equal in enrollment the coming year. He has just returned from visits to the Hamilton and Meridian Baptist associations, which he has made in the interest of Baylor, and he states that people everywhere are taking a great interest in the growing condition of the school.

PERSONAL NOTES ON BAYLOR PEOPLE.

Claude Dillehay, '16, of Decatur will fill the vacancy which was created recently by the resignation of Mayes Behrman as one of the Marston scholars to Brown university for the coming year. Dillehay will be in Waco this week to complete arrangements for the departure of himself and his fellow scholar, Henderson Barton, about September 15.

Jerome S. Stoddard will probably return to school in September after some months spent with the militia on the border.

Mr. and Mrs. Simms Allen were called to Fort Worth this week by the death of Mrs. Allen's father, Mr. Eudaly of Fort Worth. Mr. Eudaly was the farm demonstrator for Tarrant county, and a very influential citizen. His death was caused by two attacks of paralysis.

Miss Winnie Warren, '15, has been visiting Baylor friends during the week-end.

Miss Nellie Lee Hill of Waco, whose splendid recitals have been enjoyed so much by Waco people this year, will be in the Curry School of Expression at Boston during the coming session.

Miss Minnie Blacklock has been quite sick during the past week, but is now recovering.

The Baylor cafeteria will be open during the vacation period for the benefit of the many town people who have found it such a splendid eating place during the summer.

On account of the extensive repairs, the library will be closed until the opening of school in September.

Visitor Tells of Remodeling Old Denver Station

Many Waco people who travel about will remember the old union passenger station in Denver, Colo., which for a good deal more than a quarter of a century has stood in the same spot, and will think involuntarily of the network of tracks which it has been necessary to cross in all kinds of weather in order to catch a train, and of the risk attending the crossing of these tracks.

But the encouraging feature of the matter is that the union station has been completely remodeled and practically made into a new one, with much more room, a granite center and with a general waiting room of vast proportions and with a ceiling probably sixty feet high, while the network of tracks will no longer be thought of with dread and apprehension, for in the arrangement for reaching the trains has been wrought the greatest transformation of the entire improvement scheme. Tunnels have been made leading to each particular railroad track coming in at the station, and a stairway goes up from the tunnel to each track desired, the arrangement being such that it is impossible to get on the wrong train.

The information concerning changes which have been wrought in the union station was gleaned from Tasso D. Huff, formerly of Waco, but who now lives in Los Angeles, and has duties which call upon him to stay in Denver a good deal of the time. Mr. Huff has been greeted with great pleasure by his old friends, and they would be glad if he could arrange to see them oftener. He leaves on Wedensday of this week for Denver, where he will remain for awhile.

Weed Cutting at a Draw; "Your Move Next!"

It was stated at the health department of the city yesterday that weed cutting on the part of citizens has been very slow, and that some had said they were "waiting on this person or that to cut their weeds first."

It was stated at the department that this is not the way to get the ball started, and that if a number of persons in different parts of the city would begin cutting their weeds in earnest, it would only be a short time until there would be a general movement in that direction. It is hoped that there will be a number of persons in the various sections of Waco who will be an example and an inspiration for their particular community by cutting weeds on sidewalks and vacant lots owned by them, and thus get the weed cutting to become more widespread.

ECONOMY IS THE WORD AND IT'S DEFINED

3400 R. P. M.

It's cheaper in the long run to buy a car like the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers—at $1090 Detroit.

A low-priced car often doesn't pay.

Somewhat like the man who wanted to fence his farm and said he wouldn't spend more than a certain sum of money.

"Well, for that price I can build you a fence two feet high that will keep the pigs out," said the hardware man.

"Now, for just so much more I can build a fence three feet high that will keep the sheep out. And for this amount I can build a 5-foot fence that will keep anything out."

You had better pay a couple of hundred more, and get a regular car. Get a car that fulfills exactly every wish.

One that does a good workday on Monday; that takes you anywhere on Tuesday; runs you 200 miles on Wednesday; does the errands on Thursday; takes the family to call on Friday; one that's not only got the 5-year endurance, but gives you a feeling of pride as well.

That, sir, is my definition of Economy.

This new 1917 Chalmers with the 3400 r. p. m. engine—the car that increased Chalmers sales 792% in six months—is one that'll lure you the minute you sit behind the wheel.

WOULD FLOAT BONDS TO SAVE RIVERLANDS

WANT COUNTY CO-OPERATION

Col. W. W. Seley, President of Association, Thinks Now Is the Time for Education and Work.

Those interested in the reclamation of lands along the rivers of Texas which are subject to overflow are of the opinion that while a great deal can be done under present laws, by the co-operation of those who own acreage that is subject to damage by flood waters, yet there should be constitutional authority for a statute that will authorize the formation of taxing or bonding districts that will include more than one county or as many counties as are necessary to each precinct.

When the committee on flood control of the federal congress visited Texas in May as guests of the Brazos River and Valley Improvement association, it was made clear by Chairman Humphreys that while congress will aid in local flood prevention measures, yet the federal government will not agree to bear all the expense, but that states and localities must in a measure match dollars with the government, and such local action must be taken as to give assurance of continuing protection of uniform construction. In other words, if the property owners in one county undertake to provide protection, and follow one system that will stop at the county line, and the property owners of the adjoining county provide protection and construct their works upon a different system that will not join with the work of the next county at the county line, there would be no guarantee that the result would be satisfactory. If, for instance, the constitution could be changed so as to authorize a statute that would allow the formation of a district that would include all the counties along the Brazos from the highest point of overflow to the mouth, or along the Trinity that would do the same, on the Colorado the same, it would give an opportunity to provide continuing engineering work from county to county.

LEVEE TAX WILL BE NECESSARY.

Another feature that is suggested is that tax levys now can be made only on the basis of the present value of lands subject to overflows. It is believed that owners of such lands would be willing to be taxed on the basis of the value of the land that would be fixed when it is made safe from overflow, and this would produce money sufficient for all purposes. Colonel James Chance of Bryan, one of the largest planters in the Brazos valley, says the "overflow tax is more expensive than the levee tax," and this has been adopted as a slogan by those who are making an effort to put this reclamation work into operation.

Up to this time the Brazos River and Valley Improvement association is well organized and is promoting work along the Brazos river. The people in all the counties along the river are enthusiastic over what has been done and what is to be accomplished. These people contributed $3000 to bring the flood committee of congress to Texas in May, and this is the beginning of more work they will undertake. After a conference recently held, it was decided that if a constitutional amendment, such as is outlined above, is obtained through the Thirty-fifth legislature, that a statewide organization is necessary, and the plan agreed on is to get all of the river sections organized into separate units; for instance, an organization for the Trinity, an organization for the Colorado, an organization for the Guadalupe, etc. When these are all formed, then a statewide organization could be formed with delegates from each, the state organization being composed of the river units, much after the manner of the Texas Farmers' congrses.

ENGINEER STILES HAS DATA ON SUBJECT.

A. A. Stiles, state reclamation engineer, has a great deal of data that will be valuable, and he has recently conferred with W. W. Seley, president of the Brazos River and Valley Improvement association, on the subject. Mr. Stiles has done very successful work in co-operation with the efforts of the people along the Trinity in Dallas, Ellis, Kaufman and other counties, and he stands ready to help every part of the state.

President Seley of Waco believes that now is the time to begin the organization and educational work. He has arranged with A. D. Jackson to undertake the preliminary work that is necessary. Mr. Jackson is to go out from Waco with credentials from the Brazos River and Valley Improvement association, and will endeavor to interest all river counties in the proposed organization. He goes first to Dallas to confer with the Chamber of Commerce, and will confer with other Trinity river towns and counties. Mr. Jackson formerly lived in Wood county, where he conducted a newspaper. He has recently been editing a newspaper at Crystal City, Texas, where he has farm property. Because of the overflow of his lands he has become interested in reclamation work and has made a study of it. He has a wide acquaintance in Texas, and he was highly endorsed to Mr. Seley as one especially qualified to present the propaganda to those who would be interested in it.

The work that is now being undertaken under the auspices of the Brazos River and Valley Improvement asscoiation is not a temporary expediency. After all the things necessary to be done to obtain the legislative sanction to the submission of the proposed constitutional amendment, there is to be a campaign of education to get out the vote of the people and to have that vote favorable to the project.

PAINFUL TETTER ON HANDS AND FACE

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"Since childhood I had been a sufferer from tetter. My hands and face would break out in great red splotches which would itch and burn and be quite painful at times. The skin was very sore and inflamed and the itching would get so bad that I would just have to scratch the parts affected. At times I could not put my hands in water and I could not go out in the wind. It was very disfiguring and I looked horrid.

"Then I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I saw at once that it relieved me. I then got a large box of Ointment and a cake of Soap and the result was simply marvelous for in two months I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. J. R. Furrow, 1257 Windsor Ave., Bristol, Tenn., July 15, 1915.

TO START CAMPAIGN TICK ERADICATION IN THIS VICINITY

The work of tick eradication in McLennan and adjoining counties is to have special attention from this time forward, and the work which already has been done by special agents will be largely supplemented through arrangements which have been made by the United States authorities.

Dr. A. H. Julien of Temple, veterinary inspector of the United States bureau of animal industry, was here yesterday in company with J. A. Pipkin of Waco, special agent of the United States department of agriculture, and it was stated that Dr. Julien will give all his time to the assistance of county demonstration agents in five counties in connection with tick eradication. This is reckoned to be a most important work, and one in which this section has lagged somewhat because up to the present the government has not made the provision which it now is making for pushing this work.

The five counties in which Dr. Julien will operate in the tick eradication work are Bell, McLennan, Falls, Williamson and Burnet, and he will maintain headquarters in Temple at present.

J. A. Pipkin, Jr., of Waco, already has arranged for a big demonstration or field day on the tick eradication work, and it is hoped that every stock man, stock farmer or farmer interested in this important step for healthier cattle will be on hand and see the dipping which is to be done and hear the explanations of the good which will be accomplished by the dipping. This field day and demonstration will be next Friday, September 1, at the Aquilla Stock Farm, owned by Bayliss Earle and J. S. Harrison, and the vats there will have eighty head of cattle dipped in them, while onlookers view the process and secure the information which is to be gleaned from what they see and hear. The Aquilla Stock Farm is located eleven miles out on the Gholson road, and it will not take long to reach there in a machine.

Special Agent J. A. Pipkin, Jr., has been instrumental in having five dipping vats installed in this county already, and two others now are under construction. In the counties just west of here there is very deep interest in the dipping of cattle and in tick eradication generally, and it is claimed that wonderful results are being secured.

Songs of Sentiment.

No American compositions of recent years have attained a greater measure of fame than Carrie Jacobs-Bond's songs of sentiment. One of the most recent of Mrs. Jacobs-Bond's songs, "Do You Remember?" has just been put in record form by Columbia.

No voice could be more admirably adapted to the exquisite sentiment of this love idyl than the rich baritone of Oscar Seagle. All the poignant longing and regret, a love too tender and deep to know death, are expressed with the supreme delicacy of feeling so characteristic of Seagle's vocal portrayals.

COMMENCEMENT AT BAYLOR WEDNESDAY

DR. JOHN C. GRANDERY OF SOUTHWESTERN WILL DELIVER BACCALAUREATE.

Several New Buildings Are Being Erected at Dallas—Botanical Party Off to Colorado.

The exercises of the Baylor summer commencement will be held Wednesday morning at Carroll chapel at 10 o'clock, according to the usual plan of summer school, which is to hold no other special features at the close than the graduation proper. At 9:30 the officers of the university, members of the faculty, members of the board of trustees, members of the class, and honored visitors who make up the processional will meet in the front of the science hall. Thence the processional will proceed a little while before 10 a. m. to Carroll chapel. The speaker of the day will be Dr. John C. Grandery, of the department of political science of Southwestern university. There will be two special musical numbers during the program, the first a vocal solo by Miss Juanita Smith, a graduate in voice from the university, and one of the most talented of Waco's contralto soloists; the second a violin solo by Prof. Anton Navratil, whose wonderful violin interpretations have won so much praise and admiration. Mr. Navratil will be accompanied at the piano by Edward Wells of the fine arts faculty, who will also play the processional at the opening.

BOTANICAL PARTY OFF TO COLORADO.

Yesterday afternoon the party conducted by Miss Lula Pace, head of the department of botany and geology, left for Colorado. They will spend three weeks in study in Colorado and the Yellowstone National park, and this will enable them to do some very profitable work in both botany and geology. They will combine study and vacation in one and will have a very interesting period of study. Miss Pace is well known as one of the leading scholars in her line of work in the entire country, and under her direction a great deal of very instructive and profitable research will be accomplished even in this short period. They will return in time for the fall opening of the university. The members of the party are as follows: Miss Margaret Kesler, Miss Leila Brown, Oscar King, Mr. Bellinger, Sidney Smith of San Antonio and E. W. Watkins of Quanah, Texas.

BAYLOR MEDICAL COLLEGE IS GROWING.

Baylor people were very much interested this week in the report of Dean E. H. Cary of the medical school at Dallas that plans are now complete for the addition of buildings worth more than $200,000 to the plant at Dallas. These changes have been made necessary by the rapid building up of the school and sanitarium during the last year. Dean Cary states that the phenomenal growth has compelled immediate enlargement, and that the money is now available for a large part of the buildings planned. A new six-story home for nurses, which will be erected very near the sanitarium, will cost $150,000. This has been a much needed building for some years and it will add much to the efficiency of the sanitarium. On the grounds of the medical college proper will be erected a new $75,000 building for the treatment of nervous diseases. This will be an innovation for the Southwest, and many of the best doctors of this section of the country are giving the plan their enthusiastic support. Dean Cary says that it will give aid to many whose fate might otherwise be insanity. More than $30,000 will also be spent in enlarging present buildings. The chief persons who are promoting this enlargement of the field of the medical school are President Brooks of the university, Dr. George W. Truett, as the representative of the convention of Texas Baptists, and Dean Cary of the school itself. The Baylor medical school has recently been made one of the few medical colleges of class A standing in the United States, and the officials at Dallas state that this fact will undoubtedly increase the enrollment during the coming year by at least 25 per cent. Several sons of prominent Texas physicians have matriculated, in spite of the fact that the school will not open until the first of October.

President Brooks states that the prospects for an unprecedented opening of the academic department are becoming more and more evident every day, and that the university has probably never had a session which will equal in enrollment the coming year. He has just returned from visits to the Hamilton and Meridian Baptist associations, which he has made in the interest of Baylor, and he states that people everywhere are taking a great interest in the growing condition of the school.

PERSONAL NOTES ON BAYLOR PEOPLE.

Claude Dillehay, '16, of Decatur will fill the vacancy which was created recently by the resignation of Mayes Behrman as one of the Marston scholars to Brown university for the coming year. Dillehay will be in Waco this week to complete arrangements for the departure of himself and his fellow scholar, Henderson Barton, about September 15.

Jerome S. Stoddard will probably return to school in September after some months spent with the militia on the border.

Mr. and Mrs. Simms Allen were called to Fort Worth this week by the death of Mrs. Allen's father, Mr. Eudaly of Fort Worth. Mr. Eudaly was the farm demonstrator for Tarrant county, and a very influential citizen. His death was caused by two attacks of paralysis.

Miss Winnie Warren, '15, has been visiting Baylor friends during the week-end.

Miss Nellie Lee Hill of Waco, whose splendid recitals have been enjoyed so much by Waco people this year, will be in the Curry School of Expression at Boston during the coming session.

Miss Minnie Blacklock has been quite sick during the past week, but is now recovering.

The Baylor cafeteria will be open during the vacation period for the benefit of the many town people who have found it such a splendid eating place during the summer.

On account of the extensive repairs, the library will be closed until the opening of school in September.

A FLIMSY FALSEHOOD.

For the purpose of influencing votes there was scattered upon the streets of Waco yesterday, written by either some ignorant or malicious person, a circular in behalf of Colquitt's candidacy for the senate which contained the following statement:

"E. G. Senter, hiding behind the editorial columns of the Morning News, calls him a republican because he dare assert his belief in the principles of states' rights, and yet, this is the same E. G. Senter who bolted President Cleveland in his struggle for democratic supremacy, and supported the nominee of the republicans."

This statement is not only untrue, but Colquitt himself well knows it untrue. He knows that E. G. Senter never bolted Cleveland. He further knows that E. G. Senter actively supported the democratic ticket every time Cleveland was the nominee.

E. G. Senter opposed the renomination of Cleveland in 1892, and supported him vigorously after he was nominated. This is a further fact which O. B. Colquitt will not deny:

That he (Colquitt) owned stock in the old Fort Worth Gazette, and pretended to indorse the course of Senter as its editor.

In the face of this fact, which Colquitt will not deny, this flimsy falsehood will appear particularly atrocious.

E. G. Senter has never bolted or scratched a democratic ticket. When the supremacy of the democratic party in Texas was challenged and endangered, he fought for party success, on the stump and through the press. But with a fairly good knowledge of Texas politics, he never heard of any political activity by Colquitt except in support of his own candidacy.

WHAT IT MEANS TO TEXAS.

Fifteen-cent cotton means more to Texas than merely putting a large cash balance in the banks to the credit of its people. It means a revival of business activities all along the line, for the merchant, the factory, the bank, the professional man, for everybody engaged in legitimate enterprise.

It means that land values, which have sagged, will be restored to normal ratings, that buying and selling will resume large proportions, that an unusual stream of immigration may be expected next spring and fall, and that an era of prosperity is ahead for this state which has not been witnessed during the last two decades.

Fifteen-cent cotton means an influx to Texas from the cotton crop and its by-products of something near $250,000,000. Other export products will bring this up to $350,000,000 for the year, or about $70 per capita for every man, woman and child in the state. Such production in raw material was never before enjoyed by any people in the world.

We have been going through a process of severe liquidation for four years. That usually runs when it begins for a period of five years. The result is that the state has already reached the minimum of indebtedness, and, without impetus of a big crop yield, would be ready for the rebound.

As it is, Texas will be lending money to the East within twelve months, for there will be no place to put all its money at home.

Victor Carlstrom, an American aviator, has broken the world's record with a flight of 661 miles in eight hours and forty minutes. The American eagle must now admit that it is hardly a third-class flyer.

Turkey, which threatened a "holy war," is now confronted with a revolt among Moslem followers of Islam. He that taketh up the sword shall perish by the sword is the law, and Turkey is not likely to prove an exception to it.

Interurban talk is heard in many quarters. The day is near at hand when Waco should begin to consider plans to advance her to her natural position as the interurban metropolis of Texas.

Congress will adjourn next Friday, and then the search will begin in earnest to discover what has become of Teddy Roosevelt.

Favoring conditions promise to make this the banner year for the Cotton Palace. Get ready for it.

Go to church today and prepare to renew tomorrow the fight for clean politics.

Editorial Round-Up

A Sanitary Decalogue.

First—Remember thy garbage can to keep it covered, lest thy garbage become a stench in the nostrils of the people and breed flies.

Second—Thou shall cut the weeds in thy vacant lot, lest it become a hiding place for old tin cans, papers and divers sort of trash, which catch water and breed mosquitoes.

Third—Thou shalt bear witness against thy neighbor's rubbish head, likewise his dirty back yard.

Fourth—Thou shall clean out the habitation of thy horse and thy cow frequently, lest the stable fly flourisheth and spread infantile paralysis and the house fly breed by the thousands and millions and annoy thee and thy beast and produce much sickness in the family.

Fifth—Thou shalt prevent the breeding of the fly in the spring time that thy children unto the third and fourth generation need not swat him later.

Sixth—Remember thy back yard and alley to keep them clean. Six days shalt thou labor to keep thy premises clean, and if yet the task is not accomplished thou couldst do worse than continue on the seventh.

Seventh—Thou shalt covet all the air and sunshine thou canst obtain.

Eighth—Look not upon the milk when it cometh from the unclean dairy, for the doctor will not hold thee guiltless if thy infast sickeneth therefrom and die.

Ninth—Remember thy cleaning up day and keep it wholly.

Tenth—If thou dost hearken unto these sayings to do them thou shalt live long in the land.—Signal.

The Waste of Paper.

The advance in the price of paper is bringing Americans to realize what fearful paper wasters we are. When the writer was a boy the rag bag was an institution in every household and it contests, together with the few but well-read newspapers of the day, were regularly sold to the buyers of such material who trundled two-wheeled carts with jangling bells on them through the streets. Today there are no rag bags, at least we never see them, and no one thinks of saving any of the many newpapers that we buy to skim through. Then, too, the waste of paper in business and social correspondence is enormous.

Sheets of unnecesary size are used and double sheets where only one is necessary are an affectation.

There must be tons of paper used up every day for making "carbon copies" that are superfluous.

Economy, like charity, is best commenced at home and we suggest that every business man should investigate and stop the waste of paper in his own office—that the rag bag should be re-established in the home and that every boy should be taught that he must make his own pocket money by gathering up and selling the paper that no one wants.—Commerce and Finance.

An Abuse of the Mails.

Members of congress are flooding the Washington postoffice with matter designed to influence voters in the coming election. A sample of this stuff is the "Speech of Hon. Luther W. Mott of New York, on the retirement from Congress of His Colleague, Hon. William M. Calder, in the House of Representatives, March 4, 1915."

Mr. Calder is a candidate for U. S. senate in New York. If Mr. Mott and other government officials who are sending campaign matter through the mails at the expense of the public are honest, they will pay for the mailing and pay for the printing. There is nothing honorable about the Hon. Luther W. Mott saddling a part of the Hon. Mr. Calder's expense account on all the plain people of the United States.

The writer does not know the Hon. Mr. Calder or the Hon. Mr. Mott. The only reason they are the figures in this case is that the Hon. Mr. Mott sent his deadhead and dreary discourse to this office.—Commerce and Finance.

Christianity and Ice Cream.

"A young Japanese girl on her graduation from an American school was asked what she intended to do when she returned home," says the Christian Advocate.

"She replied, 'Teach my people Christianity and how to make ice cream.' The former had proven the joy of her soul, the other delight of her taste.

"No one would for a moment bid her disassociate Christianity and ice cream. The conventional freezer has long been a money-maker for the village church. They are old friends.

"Maybe it was under circumstances of this kind that the Japanese girl first came to think of Christianity and ice cream. Both are delectable. The more we have of them the better off the race will be, especially during this hot weather.

"My Countrymen."

A few days after the battle of Chancellorsville, in 1863, in which the Confederates under General Lee with 56,000 men defeated the unionists under General Hooker with 130,000, Lord Palmerston, the British prime minister, happened to meet Mr. Charles Francis Adams, the American minister, whom Mr. Lincoln had appointed to the Court of St. James. Lord Palmerston took occasion to allude to the battle and to commend the skill of southern generalship and the valor of southern troops.

"Yes," said Mr. Adams, "I am very proud of them. They are my countrymen."—"An American," in The World.

And Her Name Was Fertilizer.

A little colored girl, a newcomer in Sunday school, gave her name to the teacher as "Fertilizer Johnson." Later the teacher asked the child's mother if that was right. "Yes, ma'am, dat's her name," said the fond parent. "You see, she was named fer me and her father. Her father's name am Ferdinand and my name is Liza. So we named her 'Fertilizer.'" — Boston Transcript.

Letting Mr. Colquitt Off Eeasy.

The Galveston News declares: 'Mr. Colquitt has disclosed no commanding abilities during a long public career. His speeches during the present contest have given no evidence that Mr. Colquitt is able to grasp the problems a senator has to deal with. He seems unable to rise above the level of personalities and puerilities." The News is letting Mr. Colquitt off easy. Compared to the language it used towards Mr. Culberson when he was before the people of Texas as a nominee of the organized democracy for a state office, that which it has to say of Mr. Colquitt now is mild and mellifluous. By the way, why does not the News reproduce the remarks its malevolent attacks upon Culberson moved him to make it the subject of a few years ago? They would prove interesting at this juncture.—Beaumant Enterprise.

Railway and Express Men's Day Will Be Cotton Palace Feature

The fact that the Texas Cotton Palace always originates and never imitates, is conclusively shown by the many new innovations that are constantly being procured for the benefit of the public.

One of the many new ideas that will be put in operation during the coming exposition will be a special day for railroad men and expressmen.

The proposition is taking like wildfire among the thousands of men who are connected with those two vast enterprise. The Cotton Palace is the first exposition in the United States to give over a day to the railroad men and the expressmen. They are loud in their praise of the directors in recognizing them in this manner. It promises to be one of the big days of the exposition. Men employed in those two immense departments of the state's industries will undoubtedly be here in surprisingly large numbers.

The high officials of the railroad and express companies are greatly interested in the plan and cheerfully agree to grant permission to their employees to come to the exposition on the day that will be selected for them.

The following are a few of the expressions of the officials concerning the proposition:

J. W. Everman, general manager St. Louis & Southwestern railway: We will give you hearty support in this matter and help you in every possible way to make it a success. You can rest assured that the Cotton Belt railway management will always take a deep interest in everything pertaining to the welfare of Waco.

E. A. Bynum, vice president and general manager Texas City Terminal company: I am in hearty accord with the idea. We will do everything possible to be with you on that day. It will be a splendid opportunity to meet with the railroad men and the other interests who will be in attendance at the Cotton Palace. I had the pleasure of attending the exposition one of the days last season and was greatly surprised at the magnitude and effectiveness of the arrangements.

J. H. Hill, vice president and general manager of the Galveston, Houston & Henderson Railroad company: I beg to assure you it will be a great pleasure for me to make it convenient to be present on the day in question and hope all lines will take special interest in the success of the Cotton Palace and make an effort to prove it by the presence of a large number of their representatives.

J. A. Edson, president Kansas City Southern railway: I shall take pleasure in transmitting to our officials any information you may wish communicated to them concerning the Cotton Palace. I have no doubt but what a large number of them will be glad to be present. I remember attending one of the meetings at Waco during the nineties, which I found to be very interesting, and nothing would please me more than to be able to visit Waco again on this occasion.

W. A. Webb, chief operating officer, Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway: I assure you it will be a pleasure to cooperate to the limit of my ability in making a success of the railroad and expressmen's day at the Cotton Palace. In addition to having as many of our own people there as possible, I shall make every possible effort to be there personally.

J. H. Elliott, general superintendent Texas & Pacific railway: It gives me pleasure to inform you that we will be more than glad to co-operate with you in making a big success of railroad and expressmen's day at the Cotton Palace.

F. G. Pettibone, vice president and general manager, Santa Fe railway: I shall be very glad to loan my humble support to your undertaking regarding railroad and expressmen's day at the Cotton Palace exposition this fall, and I am quite sure that a great number of our men will avail themselves of the opportunity and privilege of visiting Waco.

C. D. Summy, manager Southern department, American Express company: I am in hearty sympathy with the idea of having a railroad and express men's day at the Cotton Palace. I think it is a fine idea. I have taken occasion to refer the matter to our Mr. A. L. Bird, our superintendent at Dallas, who has immediate supervision over all offices in the state, and I can assure you that both Mr. Bird and myself will lend all possible assistance to make the day a big success. We will be very glad to permit all of our employes to attend the exposition on the date set aside for them, where such employes can be relieved from their duties.

O. G. Parsley, vice president, Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf railway: It will give the writer, and as many other of the employes and officials of this company as can possibly get away, great pleasure in attending that day at the Cotton Palace. I wish you all possible success in the undertaking.

D. B. Keeler, vice president, Fort Worth & Denver City railway: The officials and employes of this company that can get away on the day in question will take great pleasure in attendnig the exposition.

G. A. Taft, general superintendent, Wells Fargo & Co. express: We will do everything that we possibly can to make the day a big success.

A. C. Parks, vice president and general manager Southwestern railway: I shall be very glad indeed to co-operate with you in making this a good feature day of the Cotton Palace.

A. G. Whittington, general manager of the International & Great Northern—in reference to railway and express men's day at the Cotton Palace, please advise us date selected and we will be glad to notify all our people, and shall also be glad to have any of our employes attend on that date who desire to do so, providing their duties will permit.

W. B. Scott, president Southern Pacific lines—We are agreeable to any day at the Cotton Palace that may be agreed upon by the parties concerned, or which suits the majority, and will endeavor to co-operate in any consistent way to make the feature a success.

W. C. Preston, traffic manager of the Frisco lines—It is indeed gratifying to us to find that the committee has seen fit to designate a day, during the progress of the Cotton Palace as railway and express men's day, and we will be glad to co-operate with you in any way towards making the day a success.

A. B. Warner, vice president and general manager of the Chicago, Rock Island & Gulf—The idea appears to me to be a good one, and I see no reason why it should not be carried out; and this company will be glad to co-operate in any manner possible, consistent with our rules and practices.

J. S. Pyeatt, president Gulf Coast lines—Our company will be glad to co-operate in any way possible, in the plan you have undertaken of creating a railway and express men's day at the Cotton Palace.

William Branagan, general manager of the Bartlett Western railway—The idea strikes me as being a very good one. I take pleasure in assuring you that this company will work with you toward making the day a success and bringing about a better feeling between the transportation companies and the general public.

G. H. Winsor, general superintendent of the San Benito & Rio Grande Valley railway—The writer always has been a believer in advertising, for if there is merit in an enterprise it must be brought to the attention of the people deeply interested, and when those people are not residents of your immediate vicinity advertising is the only medium through which you can display your goods. If I can be of assistance to you, please command me.

L. C. Eastland, vice president and general manager of the Roby & Northern railway—I am heartily in favor of such a move, and will do all that is possible to make same a success. We will give our employes leave of absence to attend the Cotton Palace.

E. S. Hughes, president and general manager of the Roscoe, Snyder & Pacific railway—I appreciate the importance of the movement and wish you every success.

J. F. Strickland, president of the Southern Traction company—Let me assure you of the hearty co-operation of the Southern and Texas Traction companies and also to express an opinion that you will have the hearty co-operation of the Electric Express and Baggage company, which operates over the above lines.

B. C. Crow, second vice president and general superintendent of the Weatherford, Mineral Wells & Northwestern railway—You can rest assured that I will be glad to be of any assistance to you in this matter that I can.

Two Negroes Arrested for Bootlegging

Will Gray and A. R. Alexander, negroes, were arrested last night by Detectives George Jackson and Bud Brandon of the police force, charged with selling whisky on election day, a serious charge.

The negroes were placed in the calaboose last night. It is alleged that they had the booze on ice in a box in the basement of a building, also some beer, and this was being dispensed to the "thirsty" by the negroes, who are said to have found ready customers.

The officers also secured the supply box from which the negroes were serving customers, and the "drinks" were still surrounded by ice at midnight last night.

A FLIMSY FALSEHOOD.

For the purpose of influencing votes there was scattered upon the streets of Waco yesterday, written by either some ignorant or malicious person, a circular in behalf of Colquitt's candidacy for the senate which contained the following statement:

"E. G. Senter, hiding behind the editorial columns of the Morning News, calls him a republican because he dare assert his belief in the principles of states' rights, and yet, this is the same E. G. Senter who bolted President Cleveland in his struggle for democratic supremacy, and supported the nominee of the republicans."

This statement is not only untrue, but Colquitt himself well knows it untrue. He knows that E. G. Senter never bolted Cleveland. He further knows that E. G. Senter actively supported the democratic ticket every time Cleveland was the nominee.

E. G. Senter opposed the renomination of Cleveland in 1892, and supported him vigorously after he was nominated. This is a further fact which O. B. Colquitt will not deny:

That he (Colquitt) owned stock in the old Fort Worth Gazette, and pretended to indorse the course of Senter as its editor.

In the face of this fact, which Colquitt will not deny, this flimsy falsehood will appear particularly atrocious.

E. G. Senter has never bolted or scratched a democratic ticket. When the supremacy of the democratic party in Texas was challenged and endangered, he fought for party success, on the stump and through the press. But with a fairly good knowledge of Texas politics, he never heard of any political activity by Colquitt except in support of his own candidacy.

WHAT IT MEANS TO TEXAS.

Fifteen-cent cotton means more to Texas than merely putting a large cash balance in the banks to the credit of its people. It means a revival of business activities all along the line, for the merchant, the factory, the bank, the professional man, for everybody engaged in legitimate enterprise.

It means that land values, which have sagged, will be restored to normal ratings, that buying and selling will resume large proportions, that an unusual stream of immigration may be expected next spring and fall, and that an era of prosperity is ahead for this state which has not been witnessed during the last two decades.

Fifteen-cent cotton means an influx to Texas from the cotton crop and its by-products of something near $250,000,000. Other export products will bring this up to $350,000,000 for the year, or about $70 per capita for every man, woman and child in the state. Such production in raw material was never before enjoyed by any people in the world.

We have been going through a process of severe liquidation for four years. That usually runs when it begins for a period of five years. The result is that the state has already reached the minimum of indebtedness, and, without impetus of a big crop yield, would be ready for the rebound.

As it is, Texas will be lending money to the East within twelve months, for there will be no place to put all its money at home.

Victor Carlstrom, an American aviator, has broken the world's record with a flight of 661 miles in eight hours and forty minutes. The American eagle must now admit that it is hardly a third-class flyer.

Turkey, which threatened a "holy war," is now confronted with a revolt among Moslem followers of Islam. He that taketh up the sword shall perish by the sword is the law, and Turkey is not likely to prove an exception to it.

Interurban talk is heard in many quarters. The day is near at hand when Waco should begin to consider plans to advance her to her natural position as the interurban metropolis of Texas.

Congress will adjourn next Friday, and then the search will begin in earnest to discover what has become of Teddy Roosevelt.

Favoring conditions promise to make this the banner year for the Cotton Palace. Get ready for it.

Go to church today and prepare to renew tomorrow the fight for clean politics.

A Sanitary Decalogue.

First—Remember thy garbage can to keep it covered, lest thy garbage become a stench in the nostrils of the people and breed flies.

Second—Thou shall cut the weeds in thy vacant lot, lest it become a hiding place for old tin cans, papers and divers sort of trash, which catch water and breed mosquitoes.

Third—Thou shalt bear witness against thy neighbor's rubbish head, likewise his dirty back yard.

Fourth—Thou shall clean out the habitation of thy horse and thy cow frequently, lest the stable fly flourisheth and spread infantile paralysis and the house fly breed by the thousands and millions and annoy thee and thy beast and produce much sickness in the family.

Fifth—Thou shalt prevent the breeding of the fly in the spring time that thy children unto the third and fourth generation need not swat him later.

Sixth—Remember thy back yard and alley to keep them clean. Six days shalt thou labor to keep thy premises clean, and if yet the task is not accomplished thou couldst do worse than continue on the seventh.

Seventh—Thou shalt covet all the air and sunshine thou canst obtain.

Eighth—Look not upon the milk when it cometh from the unclean dairy, for the doctor will not hold thee guiltless if thy infast sickeneth therefrom and die.

Ninth—Remember thy cleaning up day and keep it wholly.

Tenth—If thou dost hearken unto these sayings to do them thou shalt live long in the land.—Signal.

The Waste of Paper.

The advance in the price of paper is bringing Americans to realize what fearful paper wasters we are. When the writer was a boy the rag bag was an institution in every household and it contests, together with the few but well-read newspapers of the day, were regularly sold to the buyers of such material who trundled two-wheeled carts with jangling bells on them through the streets. Today there are no rag bags, at least we never see them, and no one thinks of saving any of the many newpapers that we buy to skim through. Then, too, the waste of paper in business and social correspondence is enormous.

Sheets of unnecesary size are used and double sheets where only one is necessary are an affectation.

There must be tons of paper used up every day for making "carbon copies" that are superfluous.

Economy, like charity, is best commenced at home and we suggest that every business man should investigate and stop the waste of paper in his own office—that the rag bag should be re-established in the home and that every boy should be taught that he must make his own pocket money by gathering up and selling the paper that no one wants.—Commerce and Finance.

An Abuse of the Mails.

Members of congress are flooding the Washington postoffice with matter designed to influence voters in the coming election. A sample of this stuff is the "Speech of Hon. Luther W. Mott of New York, on the retirement from Congress of His Colleague, Hon. William M. Calder, in the House of Representatives, March 4, 1915."

Mr. Calder is a candidate for U. S. senate in New York. If Mr. Mott and other government officials who are sending campaign matter through the mails at the expense of the public are honest, they will pay for the mailing and pay for the printing. There is nothing honorable about the Hon. Luther W. Mott saddling a part of the Hon. Mr. Calder's expense account on all the plain people of the United States.

The writer does not know the Hon. Mr. Calder or the Hon. Mr. Mott. The only reason they are the figures in this case is that the Hon. Mr. Mott sent his deadhead and dreary discourse to this office.—Commerce and Finance.

Christianity and Ice Cream.

"A young Japanese girl on her graduation from an American school was asked what she intended to do when she returned home," says the Christian Advocate.

"No one would for a moment bid her disassociate Christianity and ice cream. The conventional freezer has long been a money-maker for the village church. They are old friends.

"Maybe it was under circumstances of this kind that the Japanese girl first came to think of Christianity and ice cream. Both are delectable. The more we have of them the better off the race will be, especially during this hot weather.

Lord Palmerston took occasion to allude to the battle and to commend the skill of southern generalship and the valor of southern troops.

"Yes," said Mr. Adams, "I am very proud of them. They are my countrymen."—"An American," in The World.

And Her Name Was Fertilizer.

A little colored girl, a newcomer in Sunday school, gave her name to the teacher as "Fertilizer Johnson." Later the teacher asked the child's mother if that was right. "Yes, ma'am, dat's her name," said the fond parent. "You see, she was named fer me and her father. Her father's name am Ferdinand and my name is Liza. Railway and Express Men's Day Will Be Cotton Palace Feature

The fact that the Texas Cotton Palace always originates and never imitates, is conclusively shown by the many new innovations that are constantly being procured for the benefit of the public.

One of the many new ideas that will be put in operation during the coming exposition will be a special day for railroad men and expressmen.

The proposition is taking like wildfire among the thousands of men who are connected with those two vast enterprise. The Cotton Palace is the first exposition in the United States to give over a day to the railroad men and the expressmen. They are loud in their praise of the directors in recognizing them in this manner. It promises to be one of the big days of the exposition. Men employed in those two immense departments of the state's industries will undoubtedly be here in surprisingly large numbers.

The high officials of the railroad and express companies are greatly interested in the plan and cheerfully agree to grant permission to their employees to come to the exposition on the day that will be selected for them.

The following are a few of the expressions of the officials concerning the proposition:

J. W. Everman, general manager St. Louis & Southwestern railway: We will give you hearty support in this matter and help you in every possible way to make it a success. You can rest assured that the Cotton Belt railway management will always take a deep interest in everything pertaining to the welfare of Waco.

E. A. Bynum, vice president and general manager Texas City Terminal company: I am in hearty accord with the idea. We will do everything possible to be with you on that day. It will be a splendid opportunity to meet with the railroad men and the other interests who will be in attendance at the Cotton Palace. I had the pleasure of attending the exposition one of the days last season and was greatly surprised at the magnitude and effectiveness of the arrangements.

J. H. Hill, vice president and general manager of the Galveston, Houston & Henderson Railroad company: I beg to assure you it will be a great pleasure for me to make it convenient to be present on the day in question and hope all lines will take special interest in the success of the Cotton Palace and make an effort to prove it by the presence of a large number of their representatives.

J. A. Edson, president Kansas City Southern railway: I shall take pleasure in transmitting to our officials any information you may wish communicated to them concerning the Cotton Palace. I have no doubt but what a large number of them will be glad to be present. I remember attending one of the meetings at Waco during the nineties, which I found to be very interesting, and nothing would please me more than to be able to visit Waco again on this occasion.

W. A. Webb, chief operating officer, Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway: I assure you it will be a pleasure to cooperate to the limit of my ability in making a success of the railroad and expressmen's day at the Cotton Palace. In addition to having as many of our own people there as possible, I shall make every possible effort to be there personally.

J. H. Elliott, general superintendent Texas & Pacific railway: It gives me pleasure to inform you that we will be more than glad to co-operate with you in making a big success of railroad and expressmen's day at the Cotton Palace.

F. G. Pettibone, vice president and general manager, Santa Fe railway: I shall be very glad to loan my humble support to your undertaking regarding railroad and expressmen's day at the Cotton Palace exposition this fall, and I am quite sure that a great number of our men will avail themselves of the opportunity and privilege of visiting Waco.

C. D. Summy, manager Southern department, American Express company: I am in hearty sympathy with the idea of having a railroad and express men's day at the Cotton Palace. I think it is a fine idea. I have taken occasion to refer the matter to our Mr. A. L. Bird, our superintendent at Dallas, who has immediate supervision over all offices in the state, and I can assure you that both Mr. Bird and myself will lend all possible assistance to make the day a big success. We will be very glad to permit all of our employes to attend the exposition on the date set aside for them, where such employes can be relieved from their duties.

O. G. Parsley, vice president, Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf railway: It will give the writer, and as many other of the employes and officials of this company as can possibly get away, great pleasure in attending that day at the Cotton Palace. I wish you all possible success in the undertaking.

D. B. Keeler, vice president, Fort Worth & Denver City railway: The officials and employes of this company that can get away on the day in question will take great pleasure in attendnig the exposition.

G. A. Taft, general superintendent, Wells Fargo & Co. express: We will do everything that we possibly can to make the day a big success.

A. C. Parks, vice president and general manager Southwestern railway: I shall be very glad indeed to co-operate with you in making this a good feature day of the Cotton Palace.

A. G. Whittington, general manager of the International & Great Northern—In reference to railway and express men's day at the Cotton Palace, please advise us date selected and we will be glad to notify all our people, and shall also be glad to have any of our employes attend on that date who desire to do so, providing their duties will permit.

W. B. Scott, president Southern Pacific lines—We are agreeable to any day at the Cotton Palace that may be agreed upon by the parties concerned, or which suits the majority, and will endeavor to co-operate in any consistent way to make the feature a success.

W. C. Preston, traffic manager of the Frisco lines—It is indeed gratifying to us to find that the committee has seen fit to designate a day, during the progress of the Cotton Palace as railway and express men's day, and we will be glad to co-operate with you in any way towards making the day a success.

A. B. Warner, vice president and general manager of the Chicago, Rock Island & Gulf—The idea appears to me to be a good one, and I see no reason why it should not be carried out; and this company will be glad to co-operate in any manner possible, consistent with our rules and practices.

J. S. Pyeatt, president Gulf Coast lines—Our company will be glad to co-operate in any way possible, in the plan you have undertaken of creating a railway and express men's day at the Cotton Palace.

William Branagan, general manager of the Bartlett Western railway—The idea strikes me as being a very good one. I take pleasure in assuring you that this company will work with you toward making the day a success and bringing about a better feeling between the transportation companies and the general public.

G. H. Winsor, general superintendent of the San Benito & Rio Grande Valley railway—The writer always has been a believer in advertising, for if there is merit in an enterprise it must be brought to the attention of the people deeply interested, and when those people are not residents of your immediate vicinity advertising is the only medium through which you can display your goods. If I can be of assistance to you, please command me.

L. C. Eastland, vice president and general manager of the Roby & Northern railway—I am heartily in favor of such a move, and will do all that is possible to make same a success. We will give our employes leave of absence to attend the Cotton Palace.

E. S. Hughes, president and general manager of the Roscoe, Snyder & Pacific railway—I appreciate the importance of the movement and wish you every success.

J. F. Strickland, president of the Southern Traction company—Let me assure you of the hearty co-operation of the Southern and Texas Traction companies and also to express an opinion that you will have the hearty co-operation of the Electric Express and Baggage company, which operates over the above lines.

B. C. Crow, second vice president and general superintendent of the Weatherford, Mineral Wells & Northwestern railway—You can rest assured that I will be glad to be of any assistance to you in this matter that I can.

Two Negroes Arrested for Bootlegging

Will Gray and A. R. Alexander, negroes, were arrested last night by Detectives George Jackson and Bud Brandon of the police force, charged with selling whisky on election day, a serious charge.

The negroes were placed in the calaboose last night. It is alleged that they had the booze on ice in a box in the basement of a building, also some beer, and this was being dispensed to the "thirsty" by the negroes, who are said to have found ready customers.

The officers also secured the supply box from which the negroes were serving customers, and the "drinks" were still surrounded by ice at midnight last night.

YOU can't keep your mind on your work if you have to think about your feet. Use Blue-jay and forget your feet. One little corn may keep you from doing your best work. Blue-jay will kill that corn and restore your efficiency. 91% of all corns yield to the first application and all the rest vanish with the second or third plaster. Don't try to give yourself temporary relief by paring with the knife or razor. This is a dangerous practice and merely postpones the time when you will get rid of your corns—roots and all—by using the safe, simple, efficient Blue-jay Corn Plasters.

Thankful For Relief Remedy Brought Her

SAYS FRUITOLA AND TRAXO POSSESSES ALL THE MERIT THAT IS CLAIMED FOR IT.

After completing the necessary treatment, Mrs. S. S. Cole, Lampasas, Texas, was so well pleased with the results that she wrote the Pinus laboratories as follows: "Fruitola and Traxo are all you claim. It removed a quantity of gall-stones and I feel sure it saved my life. I am well now and thankful to you for the great good your medicine has done me."

Fruitola is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs and one dose is usually sufficient to clearly demonstrate its efficacy. It softens the congested masses, disintegrates the hardened particles that occasion so much suffering and expels the accumulated waste to the great relief of the patient. Following a dose of Fruitola, Traxo should be taken three or four times a day in order to rebuild and restore the system that has become weakened and run down from constant suffering. It is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach most beneficially.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Waco they can be obtained at W. B. Morrison's Drug Co.

JOHN WILLIAMS WON'T HANG TODAY

The respite granted John Williams, sentenced to hang July 28, expires today, according to calculations made by the sheriff's department, but Sheriff Fleming and his force of deputies decided that they felt the Sabbath day should not be profaned by a hanging. The sheriff feels satisfied that no judge would set the date for an execution purposely to fall on Sunday and in accordance with this idea Williams will not hang today.

The manner in which the stay of execution was issued and worded was the cause of a little hesitancy in official circles over the exact time at which Williams should hang, some contending yesterday was the day the negro should be hanged and others that an order was necessary from the district judge, or an order specifically naming the day from the governor.

Williams had been told he would live until Monday and none of the officers had the heart to cut his time in this world any shorter. It may be necessary now to secure a new stay of execution from the governor or await Judge Munroe's return from California to secure a new mandate setting the day for the execution. County Attorney McNamara has written to the governor with reference to the matter.

Merchants Generous With Their Prizes

There has been a quick and generous response on the part of Waco merchants with prizes to be awarded next Wednesday morning to the winners of bridge and forty-two party to be held at the Huaco club at 10 o'clock by ladies of the local Red Cross society.

The ladies interested in the work have been busy telephoning to all of the members and requesting those intending to play bridge to notify the committee, composed of Mrs. J. C. Ray, chairman, and Mrs. H. McRichey or Mrs. Erwin Clark; those who will participate in the "42" contest to notify Mrs. J. N. Holloway.

Special rooms for participants of each game have been arranged for. A fee of fifty cents will be charged all entering the contest.

Thankful For Relief Remedy Brought Her

SAYS FRUITOLA AND TRAXO POSSESSES ALL THE MERIT THAT IS CLAIMED FOR IT.

After completing the necessary treatment, Mrs. S. S. Cole, Lampasas, Texas, was so well pleased with the results that she wrote the Pinus laboratories as follows: "Fruitola and Traxo are all you claim. It removed a quantity of gall-stones and I feel sure it saved my life. I am well now and thankful to you for the great good your medicine has done me."

Fruitola is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs and one dose is usually sufficient to clearly demonstrate its efficacy. It softens the congested masses, disintegrates the hardened particles that occasion so much suffering and expels the accumulated waste to the great relief of the patient. Following a dose of Fruitola, Traxo should be taken three or four times a day in order to rebuild and restore the system that has become weakened and run down from constant suffering. It is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach most beneficially.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Waco they can be obtained at W. B. Morrison's Drug Co.

JOHN WILLIAMS WON'T HANG TODAY

The respite granted John Williams, sentenced to hang July 28, expires today, according to calculations made by the sheriff's department, but Sheriff Fleming and his force of deputies decided that they felt the Sabbath day should not be profaned by a hanging. The sheriff feels satisfied that no judge would set the date for an execution purposely to fall on Sunday and in accordance with this idea Williams will not hang today.

The manner in which the stay of execution was issued and worded was the cause of a little hesitancy in official circles over the exact time at which Williams should hang, some contending yesterday was the day the negro should be hanged and others that an order was necessary from the district judge, or an order specifically naming the day from the governor.

Williams had been told he would live until Monday and none of the officers had the heart to cut his time in this world any shorter. It may be necessary now to secure a new stay of execution from the governor or await Judge Munroe's return from California to secure a new mandate setting the day for the execution. County Attorney McNamara has written to the governor with reference to the matter.

Merchants Generous With Their Prizes

There has been a quick and generous response on the part of Waco merchants with prizes to be awarded next Wednesday morning to the winners of bridge and forty-two party to be held at the Huaco club at 10 o'clock by ladies of the local Red Cross society.

The ladies interested in the work have been busy telephoning to all of the members and requesting those intending to play bridge to notify the committee, composed of Mrs. J. C. Ray, chairman, and Mrs. H. McRichey or Mrs. Erwin Clark; those who will participate in the "42" contest to notify Mrs. J. N. Holloway.

Special rooms for participants of each game have been arranged for. A fee of fifty cents will be charged all entering the contest.

"Pillars of Society."

Henrick Ibsen, the master playwright, never wrote a stronger play than "Pillars of Society," and certainly the screen has never given a more artistic and effective portrayal of the great man's works than have the Fine Arts players in the film of this name showing at the Hippodrome theatre tomorrow and Tuesday. The appeal of Ibsen's plays are to every man, for he stands for the spirit of every time and place and has crystallized man's ideas for him. His plays are not easy to produce and preserve in their full meaning and spirit; and especially are they difficult to put on the screen effectively. But the Fine Arts players, headed by Henry B. Walthall, have made a lasting and exceptional success of "Pillars of Society," and it is a film that will be cherished as a worthy classic and example of the art of the camera. Walthall is as ever excellent in the part of the man whose real character is so unadmirable but undergoes a subtle and astonishing change from his love for his little son. Mary Alden, Juanita Archer, Josephine Crowell and George Boranger are excellent in the support and characters and settings in a wonderful way keep the atmosphere of the production perfect.

Arch hypocrite that he is, rascal, skilled thief, murderer at heart if not in deed, a crook to the core for the sake of outward appearances, Bernick is still human, for he loves his little son, Olaf. True the child is illegitimate, the child of his actress mistress, but Bernick lays the blame for the deed upon the brother of his wife, and wins the approval of the community by "adopting" the boy as his own. Gradually his life becomes wrapped up in little Olaf but his tactics do not change. Then one day he learns that the child is on board a ship which he has contrived for selfish reasons to have burned at sea, and he realizes the foundation upon which he has built his whole life. A more impressive climax could not well be imagined.

"Lieutenant Danny, U. S. A."

A more beautiful senorita than Enid Markey s hard to imagine. Miss Markey has played the role of an Indian princess, a princess of the South Sea Isles, an American society bud, and other roles, many of them, but she has never been better cast than she now is as the beautiful Senorita Ysobel in "Danny of U. S. A.," new Ince picture showing at the Hippodrome theatre Wednesday and Thursday. Handsome William Desmond has the title role of Lieutenant Danny, and the first screen appearance of these two popular players together is under the most auspicious circumstances. The play is unusually timely, for it deals with the life of the soldier boys on the border, and nothing is misrepresented for the sake of the story. Danny is just the type of American soldier, young and exuberant and courageous, who is now on the border to protect our country and cheerfully suffering some inconveniences and hardships in response to the call of duty. Gertrude Claire, Thornton Edwards, Tobert Kortman and many others are excellent in the support.

When Danny at the head of a platoon of cavalry succeeds in rescuing a calecho from pursuing Mexican bandits and finds within the calecho Senora Ventura and her daughter, Ysobel, aristocratic and famed for her beauty, he at once loses his heart to the girl of Mexico. He takes the women to the colonel of the army post and puts them under his protection and then follows many happy days in which he sees much of the senorita. But later Don Ventura, a brother, comes with the assurance that it is safe for the women to return to their hacienda in Mexico and they leave Danny disconsolate. For a time he tries to put Ysobel out of his mind, but the call of the soft passion is too strong, and he steals away to see her. What he finds and the outcome makes an alluring, beautiful story of action and interest.

"Little Miss Happiness."

Once again the little Fox star, June Caprice, whom William Fox says he will make the most famous girl in the world, comes to the front as a star in a picture. This is "Little Miss Happiness," a story which fits the talents and skill of the little lady to a remarkable degree and which will show at the Hippodrome theatre Friday and Saturday. The picture overflows with quaint humor and the spirit of the fields, and with the innocence of a little girl who passes her times among the daisies and has never known evil. It is said that Miss Caprice, found and named by William Fox, is considered by many people to favor Mary Pickford and that she has actually been taken for Miss Pickford in Boston, her home. Harry Hilliard, the handsome young leading man who played with the star in her first picture, again co-stars with her in this production, and in the cast are Zeeha Keefe, Sarah Alexander, Sidney Bracy and many others including three months old Lila May Lowry, who was three when the film started but had almost doubled her age when it was finished ready for release.

Lucy White lives with her grandmother in the country and makes a living for both of them by selling yeast. She is happy as the day is long, and when two college boys come to the little village and are ardent suitors for her hand, her happiness increases. Then Nancy Allen, who a year before ran away to the city and married an unknown man, returns to the village heart broken, with her three months old baby. Afraid to face her father with the child, Nancy seeks out Lucy and begs her to care for the baby a little while until she could be stronger and tell her father of it. Lucy gladly agrees, but on the innocent girl's head came down a storm of scandal when the villagers learned of the child and Lucy refused to tell its parentage. The story comes to a pretty and pleasing end.

The Sokoloffs are all killed except Sonia and her Uncle Myron, who escapes from his own home and comes to her rescue.

Weeks later, no longer considered citizen, is ordered to leave Russia.

Fedia, now a police inspector, is sent to spy upon her. Sonia and her Uncle Myron trick the police, but fearing that Fedia will annoy her again, they leave for America.

THE BONE BAROMETERS.

It Is a Fortunate Thing That They Are Going Out of Style.

(Indianapolis News.)

It is a fortunate thing that bone barometers are going out of style. The people who always felt everything in their bones were forever feeling many things that nobody wanted them to feel. It never rained on a holiday, the washerwoman never failed to come, the bugs never ate the roses, company never appeared unexpectedly, nothing unpleasant ever happened without the person who had bones declaring that she had known it all the time; that she had felt it in her bones. If the bone barometers could have been trained to predict sunshine and good crops they would have been very good things to have and would never have gone out of style, but a bone barometer was always falling. And at last it has fallen almost out of sight.

Of course, bone barometers were frauds anyway. They never predicted anything except in the vaguest manner until after it had happened and nobody cared what they had to say about it then, or, at least, if anybody did care, it was too late to do anything but care. Grandmothers, as pleasant and useful as they were in other ways, were often the most determined of bone barometers. Anybody who remembers a day when there was going to be a picnic and it rained, will remember that grandmother said that she had told you so, although, as a matter of fact, she had been busy making cookies and frying chicken the whole day before with never a word about rain. It was a source of wonder and interest that grandmother should have known that there was going to be a cyclone or a flood or an earthquake in some far-off locality, but the fact that she knew it was going to rain and spoil the picnic and never said a word about it until afterward was enough to make one lose faith in the prophecies of her bones, and may account for the fact that they are going out of style just as grandmothers are in so many other ways.

Of course, it was not always grandmothers. There were many bone barometers, among the loafers that used to sit round the stove in the village grocery store or over the register in the city corner drug store. And the things they felt in their bones were enough to make the world rheumatic, with all the scandals, the misfortunes, the wars and the crop failures. It is not, you see, so much the things themselves that matter as it is the way we feel about them, and there is no sense at all in feeling things in your bones before they happen and then feeling them other places after they happen.

A TRIP THROUGH ONE OF WACO'S LEADING INDUSTRIES

WHERE THEY ARE—WHAT THEY ARE

Second of a Series of Articles BY W. S. S. Johnson

Skill + Glass + Grindstones = Sight

THE brain of some unconquerable optimist once upon a time gave birth to the well known and unforgettable copy-book saying "Every cloud has a silver lining." No doubt you, too, can recall the laborious effect with which you painfully and painstakingly traced this sentence some fourteen times, or was it fourteen hundred?—attempting to produce the flowing curves of the Spencerian School of Penmanship, then in vogue. Or perhaps the vertical method was "the thing" if you performed the pleasing exercise at a somewhat later period.

But, no matter what type of penmanship you sought to imitate, or how arduously you labored in the reproduction, do you chance to remember your thoughts about the person so asinine as to even think of a "fool" saying like that, to say nothing of writing it so that some other "crank" could put it in a copy-book to be a source of worry to generations of boys and girls? Do you? "Silver lining, indeed!" you thought, "What silver lining is there to the dark and fearful clouds that hover about the heads of the unfortunate boys and girls, condemned to work as slaves under the despotic rule of a teacher, with a heart as hard as flint? Especially with vacation only four weeks in the dismal past and a whole eight long months in the future—months of hard work, headache and eye strain?"

I recall to you this scene out of childhood (which I take it you experienced also), because just the other day I found a "silver lining" to a cloud of ill fortune—and I think the circumstances interesting enough to relate to you.

In the days that I was copying this and other sentences of a like tenor in a much bethumbed and dog-eared copybook, I made up my mind that "silver linings" were a myth, a fake, a delusion and a snare. And later experiences did little to eradicate the notion. But now I know better.

FINDS A SILVER LINING.

First, I must tell you that I wear glasses, not because I like to, or because they add anything to my already distinguished appearance, but because I have to. And the other day I broke them. For some time before I broke the particular lenses of the particular pair that I had worn for some five or six years, I had had a dim feeling that maybe they were not all that they should be. Ornamental enough, perhaps, but not as useful as they were once upon a time. I was led to believe this because of various headaches, and a feeling of eye strain. But, like many others, I presume, it was not till a strong gust of wind came to my aid and blew my glasses to the pavement, breaking the lens into some thousands of pieces, that I finally surrendered and went disconsolately to see the nearest optician. And it was to this combination of ill fortune that I owe one of the most interesting experiences I ever had—a trip through the most interesting business establishment, a trip which was the "silver lining" to my cloud of misfortune.

"OPTOMETRIST"—NOT "OPTICAN."

But no, I must not say that I went to an optician. "Optometrist" is the word. I have the emphatic assertion of Dr. W. B. Georgia—for it was into his establishment at 625 Austin avenue that I happened to go—to back me up in the statement that there is a vast difference between an optician and an optometrist. "The optometrist," says Dr. Georgia, "is the specialist on eyes and eye troubles, the man who is competent to diagnose a case and prescribe the remedy. An optician, on the other hand, is the man who fills the prescription of the optometrist, the man who grinds the lens which the optometrist has prescribed."

But let me tell you my experiences in chronological order, so to speak, and relate events as they happened. I had been to an optometrist before, you must remember, and I thought I knew their methods. But times change, and so, I take it, do optometrists also. Or it may be that I got into the hands of an optician before. But anyhow, in the hands of Dr. Georgia, Optometrist, I learned more about the intricacies of the profession than I had ever known before. His equipment was more complete than any I had ever seen. Dr. Georgia claims it is the most complete in Central Texas.

READING THE SECRETS OF THE EYE.

Right at the start of the examination of my eyes, I made the acquaintance of a wonderful little instrument, which I had never seen in any other optometrist's equipment and which Dr. Georgia terms "the smallest, but the mightiest"—the Retinascope. This small "Cyclops"—for it has but one small, keen eye of reflected electric light—is used by the optometrist to probe the secrets of "the window of the soul," and reveal to him what defects of vision may exist. In appearance the Retinascope somewhat resembles a pocket flashlight. But, instead of the light produced by the dry battery being projected straight from the end, it is reflected, at right angles to its original course, by a mirror placed at an angle of 45 degrees in the path of the light. A peep-hole for the operator to peer through is located in the path of the reflected light, but on the side opposite the new course the light takes.

SKILL REQUIRED TO INTERPRET THE SHADOWS.

With the aid of the Retinascope the operator makes what is known as the "shadow test." When, with the aid of the Retinascope, the operator looks into the eye of the patient, he sees there certain shadows, which are in constant movement. The movements of these shadows must be correctly interpreted by the operator to determine the condition of the eye. Dr. Georgia stated that no more than one operator in 500 is competent to make correct deductions from the "shadow test." I can well believe this because I looked through the instrument into the doctor's eyes and miserably failed to find there the shadows that he assured me were there, and moving in a certain direction. Far-sightedness, he told me, causes the shadows to move in a certain direction—and near-sightedness causes them to move in another direction. When a defect is discovered, the doctor tests out several different lenses until the proper combination is found to reverse the movement of the shadows. When this is accomplished, accurate deduction of the proper lens to prescribe can be made.

Through this method the doctor does not need to ask the patient a single question about his or her trouble. The Retinascope tells the whole story to the skilled operator.

IF ASTIGMATISM IS FOUND.

If the diagnosis discloses an astigmatic condition there is another, larger machine to use in confirming the diagnosis. This is an instrument commonly found, Dr. Georgia informed me, in all optical houses which are even moderately well equipped. It does not require the skill for its operation, he told me, that the smaller Retinascope requires.

AN UNUSUAL INSTRUMENT AND A UNIQUE EXERCISE.

Most people know that exercise is beneficial to health, and to the upbuilding of the muscular system. Some of us indulge in exercise other than that necessitated by our occupations. But how many of you ever even thought of exercising your eyes, or the muscles thereof?

The phoro-optometer is the name of a remarkable instrument, which Dr. Georgia tells me is the only one of its kind in Central Texas, the function of which is to measure the muscles of the eyes, and, if desirable, exercise them.

STRAIGHTENS CROSSED EYES.

The doctor even assured me that this instrument would assist in the correction of crossed vision by proper exercise of the muscles of the eyes. As, fortunately, I have straight vision, I am unable to vouch for this myself, but after the tests which were given me I can well believe this to be quite possible. When I first gazed through the lens of this instrument, I saw two parallel streaks of light. The doctor rotated the lens. The light streaks spread further apart, then approached one another, then crossed, paused a moment at right angles, became parallel again, approached each other, and finally blended together. I was informed that the muscles of my eyes were slightly "off"—that the vertical meridian of curvature of the crystalline lens of my eye, was off some one-half of a degree. For perfect vision, there must be perfect convex curvature of both the cornea and the crystalline lens.

He rotated the lens once more, until the two streaks of light were vertical and parallel—some inch apart, as it seemed to me. He told me to look at the lines intently and see if they would not join. I looked—and suddenly, in an instant, the lines had jumped together and blended.

"That is the way that the eye muscles are exercised," Dr. Georgia told me, "and in exactly that same way the muscles of cross eyes are assisted to straighten their vision. Many cases of headache and nervous breakdown are caused by defective vision and the Phoro-Optometer has assisted in the correction of many such cases. But you must understand that this is simply counteracting the cause of the trouble, and if the glasses were to be discarded, the same trouble would recur. What I have just done in your case was to cause the muscles to relax through the rotation of the prismatic lens, and when the muscles came back to their normal positions the two lines joined."

A SECOND SURPRISE.

Then for the second time I was surprised—most pleasantly, too. In former experiences in the hands of optometrists I found that early in the examination they would inject some drug—atrophine, the doctor told me it was—into my eye. And all at once it occurred to me that Dr. Georgia was slighting me in this regard. "If I must have my eyes tested," I thought "let them be tested well." So I proceeded to make inquiry.

"Atrophine," said the doctor, "temporarily paralyzes the muscles of the eye and renders them helpless. It dilates the pupil, of course, and makes an examination of the curvature of the lens of the eye possible. But, being paralyzed temporarily, the eye cannot respond to the test as readily as it could and would otherwise. There is another method of achieveing the same results, without drugs, which is a method of my own, that I have perfected and which is used by no one else.

COMPOSITION LENS FOGGING METHOD.

"I call this the Composition Lens Fogging Method, or, more properly, the Compound Lens Fogging method. In this test the muscles of the eyes are put at rest. They are caused to completely relax. Thus the object of the atrophine method and of the old simple fogging method is achieved, but in a far simpler, easier and more natural way."

Then, evidently assuming that I was from Missouri, he proceeded to "show me." Now, according to Dr. Georgia, there are 180 rays of light entering the eye of a person with normal vision. These rays enter from as many different angles. Half of these rays are in what may be termed the vertical meridian of the eyes—that is along an imaginary line that bisects the pupil of the eye along a vertical line—and the other half enter along the horizontal meridian. Or it does so in the eye of normal vision.

Dr. Georgia's method is to insert in the empty frame the patient wears a lens which excludes half of the rays needed for perfect vision, then to insert another lens, at right angles to the first one, which excludes all the other rays. By inserting the lens at right angles I mean this: The normal eye, the doctor told me, has the same curvature of the cornea and crystalline lens along the vertical or perpendicular meridian, that exists along the horizontal. In defective eyes this ratio does not hold good. But at any rate the lens having the proper vertical curvature is inserted, then the lens having the right horizontal curvature. Now by rotating one or both of these lens it is readily seen that the horizontal curvature, for example, may be superimposed on the vertical curvature and thus "fog the vision." And any degree of "fogginess" may be attained by partial to complete rotation of these lens. When practically all the light rays are excluded the muscles of the eye relax and are at perfect rest. His previous diagnosis of the defects of vision may be confirmed and over-correction of the fault found may be avoided. Over-correction through the prescription of glasses "too strong," the doctor told me, is not at all uncommon when the operator does not have complete equipment or is unskilled in its use. If any of the various tests be omitted there is always this danger. The old simple fogging method fogs all the vision all the time, while the Composition method fogs only partially, if desired, and relaxes only those muscles which the operator wants to relax.

THE GRINDING DEPARTMENT.

After the test Dr. Georgia wrote out the prescription for the lens to suit my case, and at his invitation I accompanied him to the Grinding Department in the rear, where I was introduced to Mr. W. W. Robertson, an expert optician (note the title, as distinct from optometrist), who is in charge of that department of the establishment. Mr. Robertson is an expert of wide experience, Dr. Georgia informed me, and would tell me about the details of his department.

I had always had the erroneous belief—shared, I suppose, by many other laymen, that the lens of even the most expensive glasses are ground out of common window glass. This impression was immediately dispelled, when I was shown some of the "blanks" or unground pieces of glass, from which the lens are made. If you will look at the edge of a window pane you will note that it has a greenish color. But the glass from which a lens is ground is white or shaded.

WINDOW GLASS VS. OPTICAL GLASS.

And various lens are made from glass of different composition. For example the lens known as Sir William Crookes' is made of a secret composition known only to the inventor. This particular lens is said to exclude ninety-eight per cent of the heat and ultra violet rays light. It was perfected only after he had made over three hundred different mixtures of glass and had tested out all their optical properties carefully and accurately. This great work occupied four years and the results were of great benefit to optical science. Sir William had found that cataract trouble was due to heat waves and it was to find a prevention of cataract that he undertook these experiments.

Benjamin Franklin was the first man to wear bi-focal or double vision glasses. They were one of his most celebrated inventions. They continued in use until only a comparatively few years ago.

Kryptok lens are made from glass of two different compositions (flint and crown flint), which have been fused together. The Kryptok lens is a one-piece bi-focal lens and is the lens which accommodates the sight to both close and distant vision. In former days two different lens were fitted together as a cabinet worker fits dove-tailing of a box. Later on, opticians were accustomed to cement a thin piece of lens onto another one, and both of these methods are still sometimes employed. But as a general thing the wearer of glasses is as particular to keep "up-to-date" in the matter of proper lens and frames as to wear up-to-date clothing.

Then there is the Toric lens, and the Maniscus lens, so clearly resembling the toric that inexperienced opticians, themselves, often confuse them.

In starting to grind a lens, the optician cements the "blank" to a metal block, which is fitted to a movable arm or lever in such a position that it can be pressed down on top of a revolving metal disc. An electric motor, controlled by a switch, revolves the disc. On this disc the operator puts a paste of emory dust, mixed with water. This dust grinds the glass rapidly and shapes the lens out roughly. Then the work is transferred to another revolving disc, on which a paste of a finer emory dust is used. And, finally, a very fine emory flour is used to complete the grinding.

POLISHED WITH ROUGE.

The lens once ground is polished with rouge on a revolving felt buffer.

After the grinding and polishing is completed, a test is made with an accurate instrument to locate the optical center of the lens. This is quite different from the mechanical center, and the spot is marked with a small black dot.

It is with this small dot as the center that the lens is finally cut out. This cutting is accomplished by an automatic machine which can be adjusted, through the insertion of the proper cams, to cut any shape desired, and by another adjustment can be made to cut any size wanted.

Next (on a grindstone which is composed partly of carburundum), the edge of the lens is smoothed off and in the final operation a diamond pointed drill makes the small holes through which screws attach the lens to the frame. The grindstone is quite interesting in the adjustments which cause the grinding of the edge to shape the lens the same as it was cut out. The arm which holds the lens against the stone is movable, but held against it by a spring. At the other end of this arm a cam is attached which revolves as the arm turns and thus keeps the lens at the proper distance and exerting a uniform pressure against the stone.

Then, after all this has been done, the lens is ready to go back to Dr. Georgia, in the front room, ready to be fitted into the frames and delivered to the patient.

Yes, as the copy books say, "every cloud has its silver lining," and the seeming ill fortune which forced me into Dr. Georgia's place of business, was in reality just the reverse of that. It not only gave me a very pleasant and instructive hour and a half but also gave me a greater insight into one of the leading industries of Waco—an industry about the size and detail of which I have no doubt many of the people of the city know almost nothing about.

Rather than to spend all their energies in reaching out after more and more new industries, a part at least of the effort of the people of Waco can well be expended in disseminating a more thorough knowledge of the industries which the city now has. Through their growth and progress will develop a bigger and a greater Waco. Let us all boost together to attain this end.

DR. K. H. AYNESWORTH MAKES ADDRESS BEFORE LAWYERS

Makes Eloquent Plea for Reform, Speaknig from "Layman Standpoint."

"The Judiciary from a Layman's Standpoint," was the subject of a scholarly paper read by Dr. K. H. Aynesworth before the Lawyers' Lunch club at the Raleigh yesterday.

He spoke in part as follows:

"The laws are often made by immature and selfish people who have no real conceptions of the needs of society. Young and untried lawyers are sent to the legislature by the people, together with others who represent some special interest, and these classes of men subject to every possible lobbying influence from woman suffrage to the whiskey ring. The outcome is that many foolish and bad laws are passed which never have force or weight and serve only to degrade the legislature in the minds of the people. I shall not lay the blame on anyone; I am merely stating a fact. When these laws are made they must be enforced. Of course they are not heartily enforced and contempt for them arises in the minds of the citizenship and a spirit of disregard for law, which is an unhealthy sentiment in any government.

"It is well known that our courts are presided over by chosen men who are representative of our very best citizenship and that their patriotism and ability can never be a subject of discussion. We have every reason to feel proud of the type of men who hold judicial positions, whether as judge or as attorney; it is the exception to find any among them who does not measure above the average of his community.

COURTS ARE DISTRUSTED.

"I shall now discuss some of the defects of our system as a layman sees them, and, to a certain extent, as they are considered by the thinking men everywhere. There is a general distrust of the courts and a lack of confidence in them all over this great country of ours. I believe this distrust and these criticisms are true in the main. We have long since outgrown the system and have befogged it with petty technicalities and increased the expense until our system of court procedure is no longer expressive of the spirit of modern civilization.

"Every other department of human experience has availed itself of all the advancements of modern science and modern education and at the same time it holds fast to the learning, wisdom and experience of the past. The conception of justice has undergone great changes and has required a better trained and a specially equipped mind to understand the problems involved. The legal profession constantly lives in the past and ignores the possibility of a change. It accepts all too readily the decisions of the courts as final and when a difference exists in the opinion of a jurist he is inclined to give weight to numbers rather than to the questions of absolute right involved.

"Suggestions for the improvement of the judiciary: There should be special training for those who enter upon the judicial office. This training and education should be broad and comprehensive in every respect and should be especially fundamental upon those subjects dealing with the history of the development of the theories of right and justice as understood and practiced among all people sand at all times.

"The selection of those who are to administer our laws should be different from what it now is. The fathers did not thoroughly appreciate the inherent weakness of the political system under which we live. They were of the opinion that the normal checks and balances exercised by the people would be sufficient protection against demagogues and incompetents.

"The state should have a defending attorney. This lawyer should defend every citizen charged before the law with an offense "against the peace and dignity of the state," while the prosecuting attorney conducts the case for the people at large.

"The court should have power to expedite matters without prejudice to anyone so as to eliminate all irrevelant matters. This one thing alone would remove the greatest item of expense to the people.

"The juries should be compelled to return proper verdicts in accordance with the law and evidence.

"The family of the accused should not be punished with or for the criminal after he is convicted, as is now done.

"In all civil cases the state should give the judges power to force speedy and non-expensive trials. Remove the appellate courts and these cases could be gotten through with in a short time."

The next meeting of the club will be held on September 9. Neither the speaker nor the subject for that date has been selected.

A TRIP THROUGH ONE OF WACO'S LEADING INDUSTRIES

WHERE THEY ARE—WHAT THEY ARE

Skill + Glass + Grindstones = Sight

THE brain of some unconquerable optimist once upon a time gave birth to the well known and unforgettable copy-book saying "Every cloud has a silver lining." No doubt you, too, can recall the laborious effect with which you painfully and painstakingly traced this sentence some fourteen times, or was it fourteen hundred?—attempting to produce the flowing curves of the Spencerian School of Penmanship, then in vogue. Or perhaps the vertical method was "the thing" if you performed the pleasing exercise at a somewhat later period.

But, no matter what type of penmanship you sought to imitate, or how arduously you labored in the reproduction, do you chance to remember your thoughts about the person so asinine as to even think of a "fool" saying like that, to say nothing of writing it so that some other "crank" could put it in a copy-book to be a source of worry to generations of boys and girls? Do you? "Silver lining, indeed!" you thought, "What silver lining is there to the dark and fearful clouds that hover about the heads of the unfortunate boys and girls, condemned to work as slaves, under the despotic rule of a teacher, with a heart as hard as flint? Especially with vacation only four weeks in the dismal past and a whole eight long months in the future—months of hard work, headache and eye strain?"

I recall to you this scene out of childhood (which I take it you experienced also), because just the other day I found a "silver lining" to a cloud of ill fortune—and I think the circumstances interesting enough to relate to you.

In the days that I was copying this and other sentences of a like tenor in a much bethumbed and dog-eared copybook, I made up my mind that "silver linings" were a myth, a fake, a delusion and a snare. And later experiences did little to eradicate the notion. But now I know better.

FINDS A SILVER LINING.

First, I must tell you that I wear glasses, not because I like to, or because they add anything to my already distinguished appearance, but because I have to. And the other day I broke them. For some time before I broke the particular lenses of the particular pair that I had worn for some five or six years, I had had a dim feeling that maybe they were not all that they should be. Ornamental enough, perhaps, but not as useful as they were once upon a time. I was led to believe this because of various headaches, and a feeling of eye strain. But, like many others, I presume, it was not till a strong gust of wind came to my aid and blew my glasses to the pavement, breaking the lens into some thousands of pieces, that I finally surrendered and went disconsolately to see the nearest optician. And it was to this combination of ill fortune that I owe one of the most interesting experiences I ever had—a trip through the most interesting business establishment, a trip which was the "silver lining" to my cloud of misfortune.

"OPTOMETRIST"— NOT "OPTICAN."

But no, I must not say that I went to an optician. "Optometrist" is the word. I have the emphatic assertion of Dr. W. B. Georgia—for it was into his establishment at 625 Austin avenue that I happened to go—to back me up in the statement that there is a vast difference between an optician and an optometrist. "The optometrist," says Dr. Georgia, "is the specialist on eyes and eye troubles, the man who is competent to diagnose a case and prescribe the remedy. An optician, on the other hand, is the man who fills the prescription of the optometrist, the man who grinds the lens which the optometrist has prescribed."

But let me tell you my experiences in chronological order, so to speak, and relate events as they happened. I had been to an optometrist before, you must remember, and I thought I knew their methods. But times change, and so, I take it, do optometrists also. Or it may be that I got into the hands of an optician before. But anyhow, in the hands of Dr. Georgia, Optometrist, I learned more about the intricacies of the profession than I had ever known before. His equipment was more complete than any I had ever seen. Dr. Georgia claims it is the most complete in Central Texas.

READING THE SECRETS OF THE EYE.

Right at the start of the examination of my eyes, I made the acquaintance of a wonderful little instrument, which I had never seen in any other optometrist's equipment and which Dr. Georgia terms "the smallest, but the mightiest"—the Retinascope. This small "Cyclops"—for it has but one small, keen eye of reflected electric light—is used by the optometrist to probe the secrets of "the window of the soul," and reveal to him what defects of vision may exist. In appearance the Retinascope somewhat resembles a pocket flashlight. But, instead of the light produced by the dry battery being projected straight from the end, it is reflected, at right angles to its original course, by a mirror placed at an angle of 45 degrees in the path of the light. A peep-hole for the operator to peer through is located in the path of the reflected light, but on the side opposite the new course the light takes.

SKILL REQUIRED TO INTERPRET THE SHADOWS.

With the aid of the Retinascope the operator makes what is known as the "shadow test." When, with the aid of the Retinascope, the operator looks into the eye of the patient, he sees there certain shadows, which are in constant movement. The movements of these shadows must be correctly interpreted by the operator to determine the condition of the eye. Dr. Georgia stated that no more than one operator in 500 is competent to make correct deductions from the "shadow test." I can well believe this because I looked through the instrument into the doctor's eyes and miserably failed to find there the shadows that he assured me were there, and moving in a certain direction. Far-sightedness, he told me, causes the shadows to move in a certain direction—and near-sightedness causes them to move in another direction. When a defect is discovered, the doctor tests out several different lenses until the proper combination is found to reverse the movement of the shadows. When this is accomplished, accurate deduction of the proper lens to prescribe can be made.

Through this method the doctor does not need to ask the patient a single question about his or her trouble. The Retinascope tells the whole story to the skilled operator.

IF ASTIGMATISM IS FOUND.

If the diagnosis discloses an astigmatic condition there is another, larger machine to use in confirming the diagnosis. This is an instrument commonly found, Dr. Georgia informed me, in all optical houses which are even moderately well equipped. It does not require the skill for its operation, he told me, that the smaller Retinascope requires.

AN UNUSUAL INSTRUMENT AND A UNIQUE EXERCISE.

Most people know that exercise is beneficial to health, and to the upbuilding of the muscular system. Some of us indulge in exercise other than that necessitated by our occupations. But how many of you ever even thought of exercising your eyes, or the muscles thereof?

The phoro-optometer is the name of a remarkable instrument, which Dr. Georgia tells me is the only one of its kind in Central Texas, the function of which is to measure the muscles of the eyes, and, if desirable, exercise them.

STRAIGHTENS CROSSED EYES.

The doctor even assured me that this instrument would assist in the correction of crossed vision by proper exercise of the muscles of the eyes. As, fortunately, I have straight vision, I am unable to vouch for this myself, but after the tests which were given me I can well believe this to be quite possible. When I first gazed through the lens of this instrument, I saw two parallel streaks of light. The doctor rotated the lens. The light streaks spread further apart, then approached one another, then crossed, paused a moment at right angles, became parallel again, approached each other, and finally blended together. I was informed that the muscles of my eyes were slightly "off"—that the vertical meridian of curvature of the crystalline lens of my eye, was off some one-half of a degree. For perfect vision, there must be perfect convex curvature of both the cornea and the crystalline lens.

He rotated the lens once more, until the two streaks of light were vertical and parallel—some inch apart, as it seemed to me. He told me to look at the lines intently and see if they would not join. I looked—and suddenly, in an instant, the lines had jumped together and blended.

"That is the way that the eye muscles are exercised," Dr. Georgia told me, "and in exactly that same way the muscles of cross eyes are assisted to straighten their vision. Many cases of headache and nervous breakdown are caused by defective vision and the Phoro-Optometer has assisted in the correction of many such cases. But you must understand that this is simply counteracting the cause of the trouble, and if the glasses were to be discarded, the same trouble would recur. What I have just done in your case was to cause the muscles to relax through the rotation of the prismatic lens, and when the muscles came back to their normal positions the two lines joined."

A SECOND SURPRISE.

Then for the second time I was surprised—most pleasantly, too. In former experiences in the hands of optometrists I found that early in the examination they would inject some drug—atrophine, the doctor told me it was—into my eye. And all at once it occurred to me that Dr. Georgia was slighting me in this regard. "If I must have my eyes tested," I thought "let them be tested well." So I proceeded to make inquiry.

"Atrophine," said the doctor, "temporarily paralyzes the muscles of the eye and renders them helpless. It dilates the pupil, of course, and makes an examination of the curvature of the lens of the eye possible. But, being paralyzed temporarily, the eye cannot respond to the test as readily as it could and would otherwise. There is another method of achieveing the same results, without drugs, which is a method of my own, that I have perfected and which is used by no one else.

COMPOSITION LENS FOGGING METHOD.

"I call this the Composition Lens Fogging Method, or, more properly, the Compound Lens Fogging method. In this test the muscles of the eyes are put at rest. They are caused to completely relax. Thus the object of the atrophine method and of the old simple fogging method is achieved, but in a far simpler, easier and more natural way."

Then, evidently assuming that I was from Missouri, he proceeded to "show me." Now, according to Dr. Georgia, there are 180 rays of light entering the eye of a person with normal vision. These rays enter from as many different angles. Half of these rays are in what may be termed the vertical meridian of the eyes—that is along an imaginary line that bisects the pupil of the eye along a vertical line—and the other half enter along the horizontal meridian. Or it does so in the eye of normal vision.

Dr. Georgia's method is to insert in the empty frame the patient wears a lens which excludes half of the rays needed for perfect vision, then to insert another lens, at right angles to the first one, which excludes all the other rays. By inserting the lens at right angles I mean this: The normal eye, the doctor told me, has the same curvature of the cornea and crystalline lens along the vertical or perpendicular meridian, that exists along the horizontal. In defective eyes this ratio does not hold good. But at any rate the lens having the proper vertical curvature is inserted, then the lens having the right horizontal curvature. Now by rotating one or both of these lens it is readily seen that the horizontal curvature, for example, may be superimposed on the vertical curvature and thus "fog the vision." And any degree of "fogginess" may be attained by partial to complete rotation of these lens. When practically all the light rays are excluded the muscles of the eye relax and are at perfect rest. His previous diagnosis of the defects of vision may be confirmed and over-correction of the fault found may be avoided. Over-correction through the prescription of glasses "too strong," the doctor told me, is not at all uncommon when the operator does not have complete equipment or is unskilled in its use. If any of the various tests be omitted there is always this danger. The old simple fogging method fogs all the vision all the time, while the Composition method fogs only partially, if desired, and relaxes only those muscles which the operator wants to relax.

THE GRINDING DEPARTMENT.

After the test Dr. Georgia wrote out the prescription for the lens to suit my case, and at his invitation I accompanied him to the Grinding Department in the rear, where I was introduced to Mr. W. W. Robertson, an expert optician (note the title, as distinct from optometrist), who is in charge of that department of the establishment. Mr. Robertson is an expert of wide experience, Dr. Georgia informed me, and would tell me about the details of his department.

I had always had the erroneous belief—shared, I suppose, by many other laymen, that the lens of even the most expensive glasses are ground out of common window glass. This impression was immediately dispelled, when I was shown some of the "blanks" or unground pieces of glass, from which the lens are made. If you will look at the edge of a window pane you will note that it has a greenish color. But the glass from which a lens is ground is white or shaded.

WINDOW GLASS VS. OPTICAL GLASS.

And various lens are made from glass of different composition. For example the lens known as Sir William Crookes' is made of a secret composition known only to the inventor. This particular lens is said to exclude ninety-eight per cent of the heat and ultra violet rays light. It was perfected only after he had made over three hundred different mixtures of glass and had tested out all their optical properties carefully and accurately. This great work occupied four years and the results were of great benefit to optical science. Sir William had found that cataract trouble was due to heat waves and it was to find a prevention of cataract that he undertook these experiments.

Benjamin Franklin was the first man to wear bi-focal or double vision glasses. They were one of his most celebrated inventions. They continued in use until only a comparatively few years ago.

Kryptok lens are made from glass of two different compositions (flint and crown flint), which have been fused together. The Kryptok lens is a one-piece bi-focal lens and is the lens which accommodates the sight to both close and distant vision. In former days two different lens were fitted together as a cabinet worker fits dove-tailing of a box. Later on, opticians were accustomed to cement a thin piece of lens onto another one, and both of these methods are still sometimes employed. But as a general thing the wearer of glasses is as particular to keep "up-to-date" in the matter of proper lens and frames as to wear up-to-date clothing.

Then there is the Toric lens, and the Maniscus lens, so clearly resembling the toric that inexperienced opticians, themselves, often confuse them.

In starting to grind a lens, the optician cements the "blank" to a metal block, which is fitted to a movable arm or lever in such a position that it can be pressed down on top of a revolving metal disc. An electric motor, controlled by a switch, revolves the disc. On this disc the operator puts a paste of emory dust, mixed with water. This dust grinds the glass rapidly and shapes the lens out roughly. Then the work is transferred to another revolving disc, on which a paste of a finer emory dust is used. And, finally, a very fine emory flour is used to complete the grinding.

POLISHED WITH ROUGE.

The lens once ground is polished with rouge on a revolving felt buffer.

After the grinding and polishing is completed, a test is made with an accurate instrument to locate the optical center of the lens. This is quite different from the mechanical center, and the spot is marked with a small black dot.

It is with this small dot as the center that the lens is finally cut out. This cutting is accomplished by an automatic machine which can be adjusted, through the insertion of the proper cams, to cut any shape desired, and by another adjustment can be made to cut any size wanted.

Next (on a grindstone which is composed partly of carburundum), the edge of the lens is smoothed off and in the final operation a diamond pointed drill makes the small holes through which screws attach the lens to the frame. The grindstone is quite interesting in the adjustments which cause the grinding of the edge to shape the lens the same as it was cut out. The arm which holds the lens against the stone is movable, but held against it by a spring. At the other end of this arm a cam is attached which revolves as the arm turns and thus keeps the lens at the proper distance and exerting a uniform pressure against the stone.

Then, after all this has been done, the lens is ready to go back to Dr. Georgia, in the front room, ready to be fitted into the frames and delivered to the patient.

Yes, as the copy books say, "every cloud has its silver lining," and the seeming ill fortune which forced me into Dr. Georgia's place of business, was in reality just the reverse of that. It not only gave me a very pleasant and instructive hour and a half but also gave me a greater insight into one of the leading industries of Waco—an industry about the size and detail of which I have no doubt many of the people of the city know almost nothing about.

Rather than to spend all their energies in reaching out after more and more new industries, a part at least of the effort of the people of Waco can well be expended in disseminating a more thorough knowledge of the industries which the city now has. Through their growth and progress will develop a bigger and a greater Waco. Let us all boost together to attain this end.

DR. K. H. AYNESWORTH MAKES ADDRESS BEFORE LAWYERS

Makes Eloquent Plea for Reform, Speaknig from "Layman Standpoint."

"The Judiciary from a Layman's Standpoint," was the subject of a scholarly paper read by Dr. K. H. Aynesworth before the Lawyers' Lunch club at the Raleigh yesterday.

He spoke in part as follows:

"The laws are often made by immature and selfish people who have no real conceptions of the needs of society. Young and untried lawyers are sent to the legislature by the people, together with others who represent some special interest, and these classes of men subject to every possible lobbying influence from woman suffrage to the whiskey ring. The outcome is that many foolish and bad laws are passed which never have force or weight and serve only to degrade the legislature in the minds of the people. I shall not lay the blame on anyone; I am merely stating a fact. When these laws are made they must be enforced. Of course they are not heartily enforced and contempt for them arises in the minds of the citizenship and a spirit of disregard for law, which is an unhealthy sentiment in any government.

"It is well known that our courts are presided over by chosen men who are representative of our very best citizenship and that their patriotism and ability can never be a subject of discussion. We have every reason to feel proud of the type of men who hold judicial positions, whether as judge or as attorney; it is the exception to find any among them who does not measure above the average of his community.

COURTS ARE DISTRUSTED.

"I shall now discuss some of the defects of our system as a layman sees them, and, to a certain extent, as they are considered by the thinking men everywhere. There is a general distrust of the courts and a lack of confidence in them all over this great country of ours. I believe this distrust and these criticisms are true in the main. We have long since outgrown the system and have befogged it with petty technicalities and increased the expense until our system of court procedure is no longer expressive of the spirit of modern civilization.

"Every other department of human experience has availed itself of all the advancements of modern science and modern education and at the same time it holds fast to the learning, wisdom and experience of the past. The conception of justice has undergone great changes and has required a better trained and a specially equipped mind to understand the problems involved. The legal profession constantly lives in the past and ignores the possibility of a change. It accepts all too readily the decisions of the courts as final and when a difference exists in the opinion of a jurist he is inclined to give weight to numbers rather than to the questions of absolute right involved.

"Suggestions for the improvement of the judiciary: There should be special training for those who enter upon the judicial office. This training and education should be broad and comprehensive in every respect and should be especially fundamental upon those subjects dealing with the history of the development of the theories of right and justice as understood and practiced among all people sand at all times.

"The selection of those who are to administer our laws should be different from what it now is. The fathers did not thoroughly appreciate the inherent weakness of the political system under which we live. They were of the opinion that the normal checks and balances exercised by the people would be sufficient protection against demagogues and incompetents.

"The state should have a defending attorney. This lawyer should defend every citizen charged before the law with an offense "against the peace and dignity of the state," while the prosecuting attorney conducts the case for the people at large.

"The court should have power to expedite matters without prejudice to anyone so as to eliminate all irrevelant matters. This one thing alone would remove the greatest item of expense to the people.

"The juries should be compelled to return proper verdicts in accordance with the law and evidence.

"The family of the accused should not be punished with or for the criminal after he is convicted, as is now done.

"In all civil cases the state should give the judges power to force speedy and non-expensive trials. Remove the appellate courts and these cases could be gotten through with in a short time."

The next meeting of the club will be held on September 9. Neither the speaker nor the subject for that date has been selected.

DALLAS TAKES FINAL FIGHT

NAVS SCRAP UPHILL GAME, BUT FAIL TO OVERTAKE A COMFORTABLE LEAD.

BITTLE HITS FOR SIX CUSHIONS

Little Lead-off Man Heads Tar Attack—Sage, Donalds and Causey Used by Manager Hardy.

Th' lower right-hand section of the score board at Katy park held all the afternoon's consolation for a full house yesterday. It simply told that three Shreveport twirlers were being slaughtered through a nine-inning walkover by the Klawless Kats. This silent little tale salved many a hurtin' heart—yea, bo, it made up in part for Jim Sewell's steadily pitched 5-to-2 victory over the Navs in the Quaker's getaway game. Jim struggled in heaps of trouble all along—some rank support helped to get him there—but when the bases held a growing population he changed an imaginery base hit into a harmless poop-up and thereby hangs the reason why Waco failed to garner more than three runs. If—the Tars hadda won yesterday and slipped to the lead, you can bet the wife's tailored fall suit that several hard-working preachers in this town would speak to crowded pews today. Nothing like a timely win in a close season to make 'em remember where they oughtta be when the big bell turns over on a Sabbath morn.

For the second time this season, J. James occupied a seat on the bench. Earlier in the year Jesse hurt his nose some way, and the doctor man told him to lay off one day. For a week or more the right fielder hasn't been busting them down the foul lines or breaking palings. Just needed a rest, that's all. But the shift in the line-up proved too much for Sage. George goes out there on the hill with a hunch that the nine's not going to hit behind him—he's got used to that. But for Jesse to be benched on his day to work! Gee, that took the shine right off. Brownlow's crew soon found it out.

Three runs drifted over in the first for the Quakers. Josefson opened by teasing a walk and went to second on McCandless' safety over second. Ens sacrificed, Grubb to Malmquist. Crouch singled to center, scoring Josefson. Brownlow sped one through second, which Malmquist barely deflected, McCandless scoring. The ball slipped past Conwell and rolled to the fence. "Peaches" crossed the plate before the return and Brownlow drew up at third. Donalds relieved Sage at this time. H. Smith hit to Grubb, who threw Brownlow out at the plate. The big catcher was nailed trying to steal. In the third, Josefson rolled out to Grubb; McCandless bunted toward first and went to third when Donalds chunked wild to Leslie, the ball rolling to the clubhouse. Ens lifted a long fly to Coyle, the runner easily scoring after the catch. Crouch flied to Conwell. Brownlow met a fast one on the nose in the fourth for a four-bagger over the right-field wall. H. Smith popped to Tanner, Gardner grounded to short and Busa hoisted a foul to Reilly.

Injun Bluejacket was grunting a redskin melody on the third-base coaching line in the eighth and of course wasn't thinking of a ball field—which gave H. Smith credit for a glossy skull. Crouch started the sixth with a boost to Coyle. Brownlow popped to Grubb. Smith caromed one off Grubb's shins and reached first. Gardner's single to left sent Harry to third. He edged off the bag innocently and Bluejacket continued his crooning chant. Grubb shouted "Two down, Eddie," and then dashed for Smith with the ball in his mitt. It was the old hidden-ball trick and Smith didn't get through laughing at himself during the rest of the game.

Causey pitched the ninth inning. H. Smith took three swings at sure-enough zip and Gardner filed to Conwell. Bush drew a pass. Sewell rolled one to Causey for the last out.

Bittle got a life in the first when Brownlow played beanbag with his tap to short. Coyle never looked at four wide ones. Mal was in a big rush to lay one down—it looked like he mighta waited for one or two, but he didn't—and Sewell grabbed his bunt for Bittle's forced-out at third. Conwell popped to Brownlow and Tanner gave McCandless an easy run.

Leslie walked in the second and Grubb flied to right. Reilly forced Leslie at second, Ens to Bush. Donalds hit through short, Turkey holding second. Brownlow booted Bittle's grounder and Reilly scored. Coyle went out, Bush to Gardner. In the fourth, Grubb rolled to short, and Reilly walked. Donalds struck out. Bittle doubled to left, Reilly hooking third on a bay-window slide. Coyle filed to McCandless.

Another came across in the fifth. Malmquist was killed, third to first, but Conwell doubled to deep right-center. Tanner scored him with a single to left which Crouch bow-legged, and Buddy raced to second. Leslie and Grubb were infield outs.

After two were down in the sixth Bittle shot a whistling triple over Bush's head and crossed the pan on Coyle's hard drive to Gardner. Malmquist was hit by a pitched ball. Conwell popped to second.

Tanner singled to left in the seventh. Leslie hit into a double play, Brownlow to Bush to Gardner. Grubb flied to Gardner.

They went out one-two-three in the eighth. Wohlleben, batting for Reilly rolled to Sewell. Jesse James strode to the plate to whack for Donalds. Looked funny to see B. Hulen up there only one time in the afternoon. He bowed his neck thrice without connecting. Bittle flied to Crouch.

Coyle crossed up the Giant infield with a perfectly-placed bunt in the ninth. Mal fanned. Conwell ballooned to McCandless. It was all over when Tanner dumped a cinch to Sewell.

Y.M.B.L. Arranges Benefit to Navigators in Monday's Game

Waco will compliment the members of her ball club with a benefit game tomorrow through the co-operation of the Young Men's Business League. This will be the game with the Panthers, and the committee of the league, headed by W. T. Wheeler makes an earnest request that the merchants of the city give their employes a chance to enjoy the game. No request is being made that the merchants close their places of business, as was the case last year when the Navigators were given a veritable ovation. But loyalty demands a great attendance the committee insists.

Shreveport was asked by President Turner to fit into the players' benefit game plan but the management of the rivals for the pennant refused to yield. Therefore the committee was glad to make arrangements with Fort Worth and the Panthers yielded gracefully.

Chairman Wheeler and President Perry Duncan of the league met with the players at the club house after the game yesterday and made brief talks. The players took very enthusiastically to the plan and promised to put up a rare exhibition in honor of the day.

Chairman Wheeler and the other members of the committee—J. J. Hutchison, W. A. Holt, C. P. Link and Bill Burrows—will have tickets placed in various stores in the city tomorrow and every effort will be made to have a heavy attendance as a courtesy and benefit to the players.

Following are the telegrams which passed between President Turner and the Shreveport club:

Waco, Texas, Aug. 25.
Sydney Smith, Mgr. Shreveport, La.

Endeavoring to arrange a day for giving gate receipts to players either next Wednesday or Thursday. Are you willing to accept same amount as your portion that you receive on Tuesday? Kindly wire, day message.
C. R. TURNER, President.

Shreveport, La., Aug. 25.
C. R. Turner, Waco Baseball Assn.:
I have your telegram to Mr. Smith, manager Shreveport Baseball club, and in reply will advise that we cannot accept proposition you make and will expect our share of receipts, as provided by rules of the Texas league. Any further correspondence or telegrams please take up direct with Mr. Sullivan, secretary-treasurer and business manager Shreveport Baseball association.

Please let us prevail on you to accept Turner's proposition. The opening day naturally will be the big day. You would not be affected as we do not get the day unless you agree. Answer at once, so we can advertise during game if accepted.

TICKETS ON SALE AT HERZ BROTHERS TODAY

Tickets for the Fort Worth game today will be on sale at Herz Bros. this morning from 10 until 2 p. m. As this is the last Sunday affair this year, the largest crowd of the season is expected to jam the stands.

Waco is now but a half game behind the Gassers. A local win and a Shreveport loss would put the Skippers far enough out in front to hold any kind of a scant lead until Labor Day. Hardy's gang can't be stopped if they manage to catch those old spikes in first place. But the Panthers just licked Shreveport yesterday 10 to 0. Are they gonna repeat today? Come out and see.

The game starts at 4 o'clock. His umps is likely to sweep off the plate, toss down a new shiny rock and bawl:

"Lazies and Gemmen, battrees: Fort Worth, Redford an' Lourcey; Waco, Hill and Ku-en."

Just a guess, thassall.

DALLAS TAKES FINAL FIGHT

Little Lead-off Man Heads Tar Attack—Sage, Donalds and Causey Used by Manager Hardy.

Th' lower right-hand section of the score board at Katy park held all the afternoon's consolation for a full house yesterday. It simply told that three Shreveport twirlers were being slaughtered through a nine-inning walkover by the Klawless Kats. This silent little tale salved many a hurtin' heart—yea, bo, it made up in part for Jim Sewell's steadily pitched 5-to-2 victory over the Navs in the Quaker's getaway game. Jim struggled in heaps of trouble all along—some rank support helped to get him there—but when the bases held a growing population he changed an imaginery base hit into a harmless poop-up and thereby hangs the reason why Waco failed to garner more than three runs. If—the Tars hadda won yesterday and slipped to the lead, you can bet the wife's tailored fall suit that several hard-working preachers in this town would speak to crowded pews today. Nothing like a timely win in a close season to make 'em remember where they oughtta be when the big bell turns over on a Sabbath morn.

For the second time this season, J. James occupied a seat on the bench. Earlier in the year Jesse hurt his nose some way, and the doctor man told him to lay off one day. For a week or more the right fielder hasn't been busting them down the foul lines or breaking palings. Just needed a rest, that's all. But the shift in the line-up proved too much for Sage. George goes out there on the hill with a hunch that the nine's not going to hit behind him—he's got used to that. But for Jesse to be benched on his day to work! Gee, that took the shine right off. Brownlow's crew soon found it out.

Three runs drifted over in the first for the Quakers. Josefson opened by teasing a walk and went to second on McCandless' safety over second. Ens sacrificed, Grubb to Malmquist. Crouch singled to center, scoring Josefson. Brownlow sped one through second, which Malmquist barely deflected, McCandless scoring. The ball slipped past Conwell and rolled to the fence. "Peaches" crossed the plate before the return and Brownlow drew up at third. Donalds relieved Sage at this time. H. Smith hit to Grubb, who threw Brownlow out at the plate. The big catcher was nailed trying to steal in the third. Josefson rolled out to Grubb; McCandless bunted toward first and went to third when Donalds chunked wild to Leslie, the ball rolling to the clubhouse. Ens lifted a long fly to Coyle, the runner easily scoring after the catch. Crouch flied to Conwell. Brownlow met a fast one on the nose in the fourth for a four-bagger over the right-field wall. H. Smith popped to Tanner, Gardner grounded to short and Busa hoisted a foul to Reilly.

Injun Bluejacket was grunting a redskin melody on the third-base coaching line in the eighth and of course wasn't thinking of a ball field—which gave H. Smith credit for a glossy skull. Crouch started the sixth with a boost to Coyle. Brownlow popped to Grubb. Smith caromed one off Grubb's shins and reached first. Gardner's single to left sent Harry to third. He edged off the bag innocently and Bluejacket continued his crooning chant. Grubb shouted "Two down, Eddie," and then dashed for Smith with the ball in his mitt. It was the old hidden-ball trick and Smith didn't get through laughing at himself during the rest of the game.

Causey pitched the ninth inning. H. Smith took three swings at sure-enough zip and Gardner fited to Conwell. Bush drew a pass. Sewell rolled one to Causey for the last out.

Bittle got a life in the first when Brownlow played beanbag with his tap to short. Coyle never looked at four wide ones. Mal was in a big rush to lay one down—it looked like he mighta waited for one or two, but he didn't—and Sewell grabbed his bunt for Bittle's force-out at third. Conwell popped to Brownlow and Tanner gave McCandless an easy run.

Leslie walked in the second and Grubb flied to right. Reilly forced Leslie at second, Ens to Bush. Donalds hit through short, Turkey holding second. Brownlow booted Bittle's grounder and Reilly scored. Coyle went out, Bush to Gardner. In the fourth, Grubb rolled to short, and Reilly walked. Donalds struck out. Bittle doubled to left, Reilly hooking third on a bay-window slide. Coyle flied to McCandless.

Another came across in the fifth. Malmquist was killed, third to first, but Conwell doubled to deep right-center. Tanner scored him with a single to left which Crouch bow-legged, and Buddy raced to second. Leslie and Grubb were infield outs.

After two were down in the sixth Bittle shot a whistling triple over Bush's head and crossed the pan on Coyle's hard drive to Gardner. Malmquist was hit by a pitched ball. Conwell popped to second.

Tanner singled to left in the seventh. Leslie hit into a double play, Brownlow to Bush to Gardner. Grubb flied to Gardner.

They went out one-two-three in the eighth. Wohlleben, batting for Reilly rolled to Sewell. Jesse James strode to the plate to whack for Donalds. Looked funny to see B. Hulen up there only one time in the afternoon. He bowed his neck thrice without connecting. Bittle flied to Crouch.

Coyle crossed up the Giant infield with a perfectly-placed bunt in the ninth. Mal fanned. Conwell ballooned to McCandless. It was all over when Tanner dumped a cinch to Sewell.

Y.M.B.L. Arranges Benefit to Navigators in Monday's Game

Waco will compliment the members of her ball club with a benefit game tomorrow through the co-operation of the Young Men's Business League. This will be the game with the Panthers, and the committee of the league, headed by W. T. Wheeler makes an earnest request that the merchants of the city give their employes a chance to enjoy the game. No request is being made that the merchants close their places of business, as was the case last year when the Navigators were given a veritable ovation. But loyalty demands a great attendance the committee insists.

Shreveport was asked by President Turner to fit into the players' benefit game plan but the management of the rivals for the pennant refused to yield. Therefore the committee was glad to make arrangements with Fort Worth and the Panthers yielded gracefully.

Chairman Wheeler and President Perry Duncan of the league met with the players at the club house after the game yesterday and made brief talks. The players took very enthusiastically to the plan and promised to put up a rare exhibition in honor of the day.

Chairman Wheeler and the other members of the committee—J. J. Hutchison, W. A. Holt, C. P. Link and Bill Burrows—will have tickets placed in various stores in the city tomorrow and every effort will be made to have a heavy attendance as a courtesy and benefit to the players.

Following are the telegrams which passed between President Turner and the Shreveport club:

Waco, Texas, Aug. 25.
Sydney Smith, Mgr. Shreveport, La.

Endeavoring to arrange a day for giving gate receipts to players either next Wednesday or Thursday. Are you willing to accept same amount as your portion that you receive on Tuesday? Kindly wire, day message.
C. R. TURNER, President.

Shreveport, La., Aug. 25.
C. R. Turner, Waco Baseball Assn.:
I have your telegram to Mr. Smith, manager Shreveport Baseball club, and in reply will advise that we cannot accept proposition you make and will expect our share of receipts, as provided by rules of the Texas league. Any further correspondence or telegrams please take up direct with Mr. Sullivan, secretary-treasurer and business manager Shreveport Baseball association.

Waco, Aug. 26.
Mr. W. A. Sullivan, Pres. Baseball Club, Shreveport, La.—
Please let us prevail on you to accept Turner's proposition. The opening day naturally will be the big day. You would not be affected as we do not get the day unless you agree. Answer at once, so we can advertise during game if accepted.

TICKETS ON SALE AT HERZ BROTHERS TODAY

Tickets for the Fort Worth game today will be on sale at Herz Bros. this morning from 10 until 2 p. m. As this is the last Sunday affair this year, the largest crowd of the season is expected to jam the stands.

Waco is now but a half game behind the Gassers. A local win and a Shreveport loss would put the Skippers far enough out in front to hold any kind of a scant lead until Labor Day. Hardy's gang can't be stopped if they manage to catch those old spikes in first place. But the Panthers just licked Shreveport yesterday 10 to 0. Are they gonna repeat today? Come out and see.

The game starts at 4 o'clock. His ump is likely to sweep off the plate, toss down a new shiny rock and bawl:

"Lazies and Gemmen, battrees: Fort Worth, Redford an' Lourcey; Waco, Hill and Ku-en."

Just a guess, thassall.

Four Records Broken at Stagg Field

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Records fell in four events at the Central A. A. U. annual outdoor meet at Stagg Field today. Another was tied when Andy Ward of the Chicago Athletic association won the hundred yard dash from Jo Loomis in 9 4-5 seconds, but there was a wind at the sprinters' back and the mark probably will not be allowed.

Arlie Mucks of Wisconsin raised his A. A. U. shotput record two inches to 46 feet 8⅛ inches. Boyer of the Mystic Athletic club won the three-mile walk in new record time of 22:50 and Sherman Landis, the Oregon high school lad, set a new mark in the pole vault of 12 feet 7⅝ inches. In the half mile Earl Eby, Chicago A. A., won in 1:54 3-5, geating the previous mark of 1:55 4-5.

The meeting was a walkoved for the Chicago Athletic association in points.

BEARS HAVE CHANCE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

MEN ARE ANXIOUS FOR RETURN OF FOOTBALL SEASON, EXPECTING PHENOMENAL YEAR.

Freshmen Team Usually Strong, Will Play Strongest Junior College of the State.

Just as baseball is at the close of day and the dawn of the great sport of all colleges is at hand, Baylor University is making every preparation for the coming of her athletes this fall. The Carroll Athletic Field has been put in tip-top condition and is in the best shape that it has been in many years. Student Manager Silbert is arranging the uniforms and other paraphernalia, so there will be no hitch when training camp opens on September 11.

Graduate Manager Gantt has already reserved places for the men at the training camp. Every convenience will be given to the athletes this season in the camp so that the preparation of the big grind later will go through without the slightest hesitation. Mr. Gantt has worked faithfully this summer in regard to the freshman athletes.

The old men have written that they are anxious for the arrival of the season. Most of the athletes have been working on farms and in places where it requires a great amount of muscular power. It is expected that they will be in the best condition to commence work immediately.

Captain Fouts is expected to be in Waco about the ninth of September. The great fullback has been working hard in the wheat fields in Kansas and is expected to reach here in the pink of condition. Next season, many optimistic fans figure that Walter Camp in his selection of an All-American team will have to worry night and day in order to figure this boy out of a place on his high-prized team.

Mosley and Balenti are both expected in Waco during the first week in September and they have not said anything in regard to the championship team, but feel jubilant in regard to the prospects for next fall. Mosley again will have charge of the linemen and Balenti will be in charge of the backfield. It is supposed that the Big Chief will be in the Bear camp as soon as the Texas league baseball season is over. He is at present playing with Galveston. Mike will have the same backs as he did last season—Wilson, Crosslin, Captain Fouts, Lucian Roach, Holland, Walker, Eastland, and last season's substitutes, Short, Wood, and others. Mosley will have practically the same line, with Thompson, Mundy, Stanton, Reid, Norris, G. Roach, Turner, Tinsley and Fielder. The substitutes from last season who will be here are Jones of Moody, Bicksman, Stewart, White and others.

S. B. Jones, an all-Kentucky man, who entered last season, has added much to the Bears' hopes. He is about 6 feet 3 inches tall, weighs about 190 pounds—a rangy-built fellow. He played on the Georgetown University team and is expected to fill any gaps that may come in the line. Stewart also is a good prospect. He played on the team in 1913, but owing to certain difficulties was unable to continue. He is working diligently now and is expected to be in there to mix it with the rest of the boys.

The freshman team will open its season September 30th, when the Bears will go to Tyler and play Rusk Academy. The prospects are bright for a great team in the Cubs' camp. Dobney, a man from St. Edward's College at Austin, is here and much is expected of him next fall. He is a fine halfback and also baseball and track man. Sams, a recruit from Moody, will be in uniform when the cub camp opens and is a fine-looking athlete, a stumpy-built man and a fullback demon. There are several other first-year recruits here. The progress on the freshman schedule is being arranged by Student Manager Silbert and Graduate Manager Gantt. Some of the fastest prep and junior colleges in the state are to be on their schedule.

From all indications the Bears expect to annex the championship of Texas Universities next fall and if dope runs true they will be there.

Sporting Comment

The wreckers failed to wreck. Wohlleben and James pinch hitted in the eighth but failed to grab any noticeable share of applause. And again the "if" man pops in. What would Reilly and Donalds have done? Never'll know now.

Cliff Markle got off to a wild start in the International league. His first out for Toronto, Clifford walked six men in three innings. The Leafs' boss stopped the procession to first base long enough to jerk the ex-Texan. But we still believe in yuh, kid.

Panthers today at 4 o'clock. McIver and his waifs stay two days to serve as a sort of entree (here's hoping) for a flag-copping orgy on Gasser meat. And say, won't this lil' ol' village hear yeal rootin' on the afternoons of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday next. Betcha that the crowds on each of these days will put out opening day bunch to shame.

That moss-covered, mouldy-green, bewhiskered hidden-ball trick caught Harry Smith as slick as you like 'em yesterday. When Smith walked to the doghouse to don his anklets he threw away his chagrin in a giggle. The husky redman was to blame, not him. 'Course ol' Harry should 'v been heads-up, but where was Bluejacket. As announced sommers else, he was spillin' choice bits of melody about the greensward.

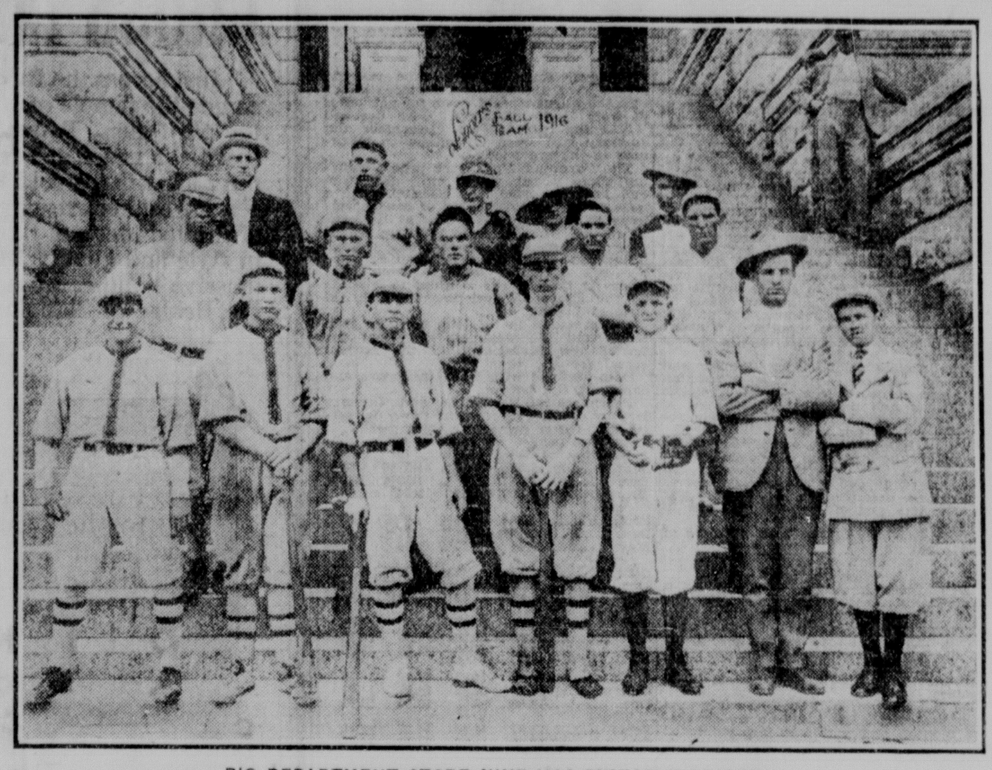

When Leslie slips that long left foot out in front of the bag on a close play, you c'n feel sure that the runner's gone unless of course the kid should happen to fozzle the peg. In Dallas' seventh yesterday, Josefson hit a mean grounder over Donalds' head which the pitcher barely touched. Tanner dashed across for a pretty gloved-hand scoop over second and made a true toss to first. Leslie reached away out and caught the Swede by a matter of inches.

St. Louis fans are a greedy set—just at present. When the Brownies win the first game of a double-header and drop the second, Mound City sport pages come out with headlines like the following: "Fielder Jones Gives Up All Hopes of Winning Rag," "Brown Drive About Finished," "St. Louis Lucks Through First Game, But Blows Up in Second." Yep, that's the way they do. Want the Browns to win so bad that they get all peeved up when the team does the handsome act and splits once in a while.

Never was a cleaner three-bagger knocked in the local park than that triple of Bittle's yesterday in the sixth. Right on a line between McCandless and Josefson the little one laid it. And with any ordinary leadfoot the smash would have gone for a long double. Speed did it. Bittle reached the last bag long before the ball was relayed to the infield. In the fourth his double down the left field line was a screamer. By the way, he's started to regain some of those points he lost on the road, and friend Al Niven hasn't carried away Texas league batting honors for the '16 season yet—no, not quite.

Now see what Shreveport's went and done. With everybody on razor age for the greatest series in the history of the Texas league, the Gassers have refused to help the Waco players to a great benefit day. If that don't put th fight in the Navs they ain't got no fight in 'em. Most fans were almost reconciled to the Gassers winning the pennant in case the Navs couldn't—but now just for that cockey answer to Hardy's appeal, every man jack and his brother will fight tooth and toenail during the coming series. If you ask us, we think Shreveport has done lost her a pennant. What say, gang?

TRAPSHOOTING.

(By George Peck.)

He was a brand-new game warden and had in no sense been spoiled by the little touch of rural politics which had punctuated his spotless career. He had heard of the grafter and his methods, but when Fate directed his steps to this honorable position, it directed wisely, for its choice was an honest man who would do his duty.

And so, when he heard the report of a shotgun one day in early June, his jaw set firmly and he turned his head quickly to get the direction. Again and again he heard the report and finally located the source beyond a lonely hill. Stealthily he took the trail of the miscreant and shortly came upon two of them standing beside an automobile, one with the telltale gun in his hand and the other holding a piece of machinery, undoubtedly a part of the automobile. He would remain in seclusion for a bit and perhaps catch this hunter in the very act of breaking the law.

Then, much to his astonishment, the man placed the gun to his shoulder, said pull, and instantly a black object was projected from the machine which the other man carried. With a quick aim the gunner fired at the flying object and a puff of black dust showed that his aim was accurate and he had centered the charge. As a game warden, he was wise in his generation, for he did not disclose his identity. On the other hand, appearing as a curious bystander, he soon learned that the greatest thrill-producing combination for the outdoor man is a hand-trap and a shotgun.

MONEY TO LOAN TO BUILD HOMES

This company now offers loans on improved Waco residence property, and having operated throughout Texas for over 25 years, has assisted thousands in securing their own homes. The loans of this company are with a few exceptions, made on homes, either to build or to remove existing incumbrances. Many who have transferred their mortgages into this company find that they are now paying principle and interest as easily as they have heretofore paid the interest alone. The reason is plain: The payments are always the same and are due at fixed intervals. Every mortgage made by this company contains a clause providing for its discharge after a fixed number of payments have been made, unless sooner discharged through maturity. The mortgagor has the option to pay off his mortgage in full, or in part, at any time without having to pay any unearned interest. A loan from this company has to be adjusted but once. There is no annual uneasiness. Each month takes care of itself. The burden is easily distributed throughout the whole time. There is absolutely no delay in furnishing a loan through this company.

SANGER MAN BRINGS BACK GREAT NOVELTY

J. C. Daniels, buyer for the laces, embroideries, ribbons, handkerchiefs, neckwear, veils, veilings, jewelry, art goods, shell and leather goods departments of the Sanger store, is back from his semi-annual trip to the markets, where he has spent considerable time in selecting new merchandise for the various departments of which he has charge. Much of his purchases are novelties of the highest order.

Mr. Daniels, who is a close observer, states that silk and chiffon velvet beaded bags are among the very newest novelties. The bags, he states, are beautiful beyond description. They are designed with a draw string at the top and finished with steel beads, some colored beads are utilized, but on ninety per cent steel beads are used. In New York the ladies are wearing pretty silk dresses and carrying silk and velvet bags to match.

Mr. Daniels everyone is wearing veils, and this will be an unusual season for them. The veils are worn draped over the hats, falling in the back rather than over the face. Purple is the leading color in veils and veilings with white and navy blue are also popular.

Gold and silver laces, Mr. Daniels says, will be the most popular for trimming this season, and this will be especially true as regards evening dresses, dance frocks and costumes.

In the ribbon department a large display of Mr. Daniels' purchases are already in evidence. High class brocade ribbons, warp print ribbons, also many pretty styles in Persian ribbons.

The new merchandise is daily arriving in all departments of the Sanger store and the result of the work and effort put forth by Sanger buyers during the past weeks is apparent almost hourly in new displays throughout the store.

Miss Theres Ullman also returned yesterday from New York and other points, where she has been busily engaged in selecting new merchandise for the corset department, the muslin underwear department and for the infants' department of the Sanger store. She is enthusiastic over fall business and predicts the best season in years.

Max Landman, in charge of linen and wash goods department of the Sanger store, returned from the markets the middle of the week. He states that his purchases in linens, wash goods, blankets, comforts, etc., are larger than heretofore, in anticipation of a big fall business.

Other of the department buyers are expected to reach Waco between now and the fifth of September, and the detail work of handling the formal opening and formal fashion show at the Sanger store is commanding the attention of the buyers and department managers. To make this the most elaborate and brilliant event ever presented in Waco has been the thought uppermost in the minds of all of these people while away and the plans that were laid out months ago are being put into shape for the event.

Will Preach This Morning.

Rev. Joseph Lee of Dallas will occupy the pulpit at Austin Avenue Methodist church at 11 o'clock this morning.

He is rated as a very strong preacher and will be heard with pleasure. The pastor of the church, Rev. F. P. Culver, has not yet returned from Mineral Wells.

Four Records Broken at Stagg Field

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Records fell in four events at the Central A. A. U. annual outdoor meet at Stagg Field today. Another was tied when Andy Ward of the Chicago Athletic association won the hundred yard dash from Jo Loomis in 9 4-5 seconds, but there was a wind at the sprinters' back and the mark probably will not be allowed.

Arlie Mucks of Wisconsin raised his A. A. U. shotput record two inches to 46 feet 8¼ inches. Boyer of the Mystic Athletic club won the three-mile walk in new record time of 22:50 and Sherman Landis, the Oregon high school lad, set a new mark in the pole vault of 12 feet 7⅛ inches. In the half mile Earl Eby, Chicago A. A., won in 1:54 3-5, geating the previous mark of 1:55 4-5.

The meeting was a walkoved for the Chicago Athletic association in points.

MEN ARE ANXIOUS FOR RETURN OF FOOTBALL SEASON, EXPECTING PHENOMENAL YEAR.

Freshmen Team Usually Strong, Will Play Strongest Junior College of the State.

Just as baseball is at the close of day and the dawn of the great sport of all colleges is at hand, Baylor University is making every preparation for the coming of her athletes this fall. The Carroll Athletic Field has been put in tip-top condition and is in the best shape that it has been in many years. Student Manager Silbert is arranging the uniforms and other paraphernalia, so there will be no hitch when training camp opens on September 11.

Graduate Manager Gantt has already reserved places for the men at the training camp. Every convenience will be given to the athletes this season in the camp so that the preparation of the big grind later will go through without the slightest hesitation. Mr. Gantt has worked faithfully this summer in regard to the freshman athletes.

The old men have written that they are anxious for the arrival of the season. Most of the athletes have been working on farms and in places where it requires a great amount of muscular power. It is expected that they will be in the best condition to commence work immediately.

Captain Fouts is expected to be in Waco about the ninth of September. The great fullback has been working hard in the wheat fields in Kansas and is expected to reach here in the pink of condition. Next season, many optimistic fans figure that Walter Camp in his selection of an All-American team will have to worry night and day in order to figure this boy out of a place on his high-prized team.

Mosley and Balenti are both expected in Waco during the first week in September and they have not said anything in regard to the championship team, but feel jubilant in regard to the prospects for next fall. Mosley again will have charge of the linemen and Balenti will be in charge of the backfield. It is supposed that the Big Chief will be in the Bear camp as roon as the Texas league baseball season is over. He is at present playing with Galveston. Mike will have the same backs as he did last season—Wilson, Crosslin, Captain Fouts, Lucian Roach, Holland, Walker, Eastland, and last season's substitutes, Short, Wood, and others. Mosley will have practically the same line, with Thompson, Mundy, Stanton, Reid, Norris, G. Roach, Turner, Tinsley and Fielder. The substitutes from last season who will be here are Jones of Moody, Bicksman, Stewart, White and others.

S. B. Jones, an all-Kentucky man, who entered last season, has added much to the Bears' hopes. He is about 6 feet 3 inches tall, weighs about 190 pounds—a rangy-built fellow. He played Sb the Georgetown University team and is expected to fill any gaps that may come in the line. Stewart also is a good prospect. He played on the team in 1913, but owing to certain difficulties was unable to continue. He is working diligently now and is expected to be in there to mix it with the rest of the boys.

The freshmaff team will open its season September 30th, when the Bears will go to Tyler and play Rusk Academy. The prospects are bright for a great team in the Cubs' camp. Dobney, a man from St. Edward's College at Austin, is here and much is expected of him next fall. He is a fine halfback and also baseball and track man. Sams, a recruit from Moody, will be in uniform when the cub camp opens and is a fine-looking athlete, a stumpy-built man and a fullback demon. There are several other first-year recruits here. The progress on the freshman schedule is being arranged by Student Manager Silbert and Graduate Manager Gantt. Some of the fastest prep and junior colleges in the state are to be on their schedule.

From all indications the Bears expect to annex the championship of Texas Universities next fall and if dope runs true they will be there.

Sporting Comment

The wreckers failed to wreck. Wohlleben and James pinch hitted in the eighth but failed to grab any noticeable share of applause. And again the "if" man pops in. What would Reilly and Donalds have done? Never'll know now.

Cliff Markle got off to a wild start in the International league. His first out for Toronto, Clifford walked six men in three innings. The Leafs' boss stopped the procession to first base long enough to jerk the ex-Texan. But we still believe in yuh, kid.

Panthers today at 4 o'clock. Meiver and his waifs stay two days to serve as a sort of entree (here's hoping) for a flag-copping orgy on Gasser meat. And say, won't this lil' ol' village hear real rootin' on the afternoons of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday next. Betcha that the crowds on each of these days will put out opening day bunch to shame.

That moss-covered, mouldy-green, bewhiskered hidden-ball trick caught Harry Smith as slick as you like 'em yesterday. When Smith walked to the doghouse to don his anklets he threw away his chagrin in a giggle. The husky redman was to blame, not him. 'Course ol' Harry should 'v been heads-up, but where was Bluejacket. As announced sommers else, he was spillin' choice bits of melody about the greensward.

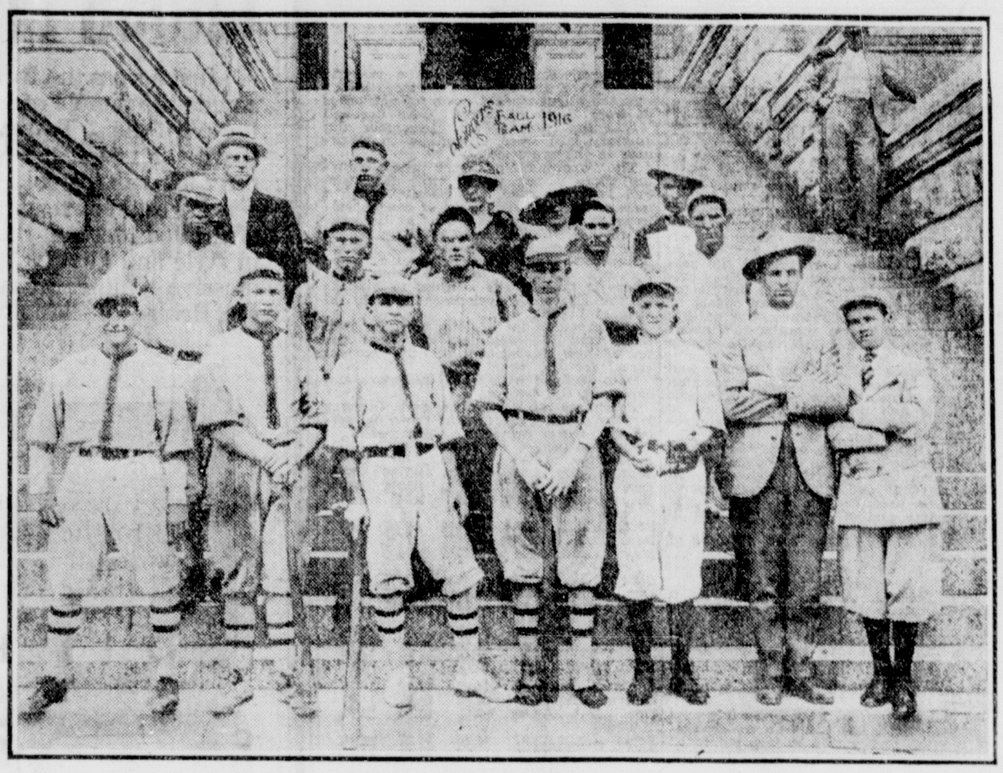

When Leslie slips that long left foot out in front of the bag on a close play, you c'n feel sure that the runner's gone unless of course the kid should happen to fozzle the peg. In Dallas' seventh yesterday, Josefson hit a mean grounder over Donalds' head which the pitcher barely touched. Tanner dashed across for a pretty gloved-hand scoop over second and made a true toss to first. Leslie reached away out and caught the Swede by a matter of inches.

St. Louis fans are a greedy set—just at present. When the Brownies win the first game of a double-header and drop the second, Mound City sport pages come out with headlines like the following: "Fielder Jones Gives Up All Hopes of Winning Rag." "Brown Drive About Finished." "St. Louis Lucks Through First Game, But Blows Up in Second." Yep, that's the way they do. Want the Browns to win so bad that they get all peeved up when the team does the handsome act and splits once in a while.

Never was a cleaner three-bagger knocked in the local park than that triple of Bittle's yesterday in the sixth. Right on a line between McCandless and Josefson the little one laid it. And with any ordinary leadfoot the smash would have gone for a long double. Speed did it. Bittle reached the last bag long before the ball was relayed to the infield. In the fourth his double down the left field line was a screamer. By the way, he's started to regain some of those points he lost on the road, and friend Al Nixon hasn't carried away Texas league batting honors for the '16 season yet—no, not quite.

Now see what Shreveport's went and done. With everybody on razor age for the greatest series in the history of the Texas league, the Gassers have refused to help the Waco players to a great benefit day. If that don't put th fight in the Navs they ain't got no fight in 'em. Most fans were almost reconciled to the Gassers winning the pennant in case the Navs couldn't—but now just for that cockey answer to Hardy's appeal, every man jack and his brother will fight tooth and toenail during the coming series. If you ask us, we think Shreveport has done lost her a pennant. What say, gang?

TRAPSHOOTING.

(By George Peck.)

He was a brand-new game warden and had in no sense been spoiled by the little touch of rural politics which had punctuated his spotless career. He had heard of the grafter and his methods, but when Fate directed his steps to this honorable position, it directed wisely, for its choice was an honest man who would do his duty.

And so, when he heard the report of a shotgun one day in early June, his jaw set firmly and he turned his head quickly to get the direction. Again and again he heard the report and finally located the source beyond a lonely hill. Stealthily he took the trail of the miscreant and shortly came upon two of them standing beside an automobile, one with the telltale gun in his hand and the other holding a piece of machinery, undoubtedly a part of the automobile. He would remain in seclusion for a bit and perhaps catch this hunter in the very act of breaking the law.

Then, much to his astonishment, the man placed the gun to his shoulder, said pull, and instantly a black object was projected from the machine which the other man carried. With a quick aim the gunner fired at the flying object and a puff of black dust showed that his aim was accurate and he had centered the charge. As a game warden, he was wise in his generation, for he did not disclose his identity. On the other hand, appearing as a curious bystander, he soon learned that the greatest thrill-producing combination for the outdoor man is a hand-trap and a shotgun.

MONEY TO LOAN TO BUILD HOMES

This company now offers loans on improved Waco residence property, and having operated throughout Texas for over 25 years, has assisted thousands in securing their own homes. The loans of this company are with a few exceptions, made on homes, either to build or to remove existing incumbrances. Many who have transferred their mortgages into this company find that they are now paying principle and interest as easily as they have heretofore paid the interest alone. The reason is plain: The payments are always the same and are due at fixed intervals. Every mortgage made by this company contains a clause providing for its discharge after a fixed number of payments have been made, unless sooner discharged through maturity. The mortgagor has the option to pay off his mortgage in full, or in part, at any time without having to pay any unearned interest. A loan from this company has to be adjusted but once. There is no annual uneasiness. Each month takes care of itself. The burden is easily distributed throughout the whole time. There is absolutely no delay in furnishing a loan through this company.

SANGER MAN BRINGS BACK GREAT NOVELTY

J. C. Daniels, buyer for the laces, embroideries, ribbons, handkerchiefs, neckwear, veils, veilings, jewelry, art goods, shell and leather goods departments of the Sanger store, is back from his semi-annual trip to the markets, where he has spent considerable time in selecting new merchandise for the various departments of which he has charge. Much of his purchases are novelties of the highest order.

Mr. Daniels, who is a close observer, states that silk and chiffon velvet beaded bags are among the very newest novelties. The bags, he states, are beautiful beyond description. They are designed with a draw string at the top and finished with steel beads, some colored beads are utilized, but on ninety per cent steel beads are used. In New York the ladies are wearing pretty silk dresses and carrying silk and velvet bags to match.

According to Mr. Daniels everyone is wearing veils, and this will be an unusual season for them. The veils are worn draped over the hats, falling in the back rather than over the face. Purple is the leading color in veils and veilings with white and navy blue are also popular.

Gold and silver laces, Mr. Daniels says, will be the most popular for trimming this season, and this will be especially true as regards evening dresses, dance frocks and costumes.

In the ribbon department a large display of Mr. Daniels' purchases are already in evidence. High class brocade ribbons, warp print ribbons, also many pretty styles in Persian ribbons.

The new merchandise is daily arriving in all departments of the Sanger store and the result of the work and effort put forth by Sanger buyers during the past weeks is apparent almost hourly in new displays throughout the store.

Miss Theres Ullman also returned yesterday from New York and other points, where she has been busily engaged in selecting new merchandise for the corset department, the muslin underwear department and for the infants' department of the Sanger store. She is enthusiastic over fall business and predicts the best season in years.

Max Landman, in charge of linen and wash goods department of the Sanger store, returned from the markets the middle of the week. He states that his purchases in linens, wash goods, blankets, comforts, etc., are larger than heretofore, in anticipation of a big fall business.

Other of the department buyers are expected to reach Waco between now and the fifth of September, and the detail work of handling the formal opening and formal fashion show at the Sanger store is commanding the attention of the buyers and department managers. To make this the most elaborate and brilliant event ever presented in Waco has been the thought uppermost in the minds of all of these people while away and the plans that were laid out months ago are being put into shape for the event.

CONVENTION DECLARE ELECTION'S RESULTS

F. M. Fitzpatrick Is Announced as Flotorial Representative—Compliment to Henry's Record.

The democratic convention of the eleventh congressional district which assembled at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the fifty-fourth district court room in this city, reaffirmed its endorsement of the national democratic platform adopted at St. Louis in 1916; heartily endorsed President Woodrow Wilson and the acts of the democratic administration, particularly as to the foreign policies, and the acts of the democratic senators and congressmen; endorsed strongly Hon. Tom T. Connally, who has been nominated by the democrats of this district for congress, and also expressed endorsement of the faithful services of Congressman R. L. Henry, who has long served as congressman from the eleventh Texas district.

CONNALLY FORMALLY DECLARED NOMINEE.

The convention declared Hon. Tom T. Connally of Marlin the nominee and standard bearer of the eleventh district for congress, on canvassing the vote cast in July at the primary.

When the convention was called to order Clay McClellan of Gatesville was nominated for temporary chairman and chosen by acclamation, as was Robert Higgins of Marlin for temporary secretary.

The convention then got down to business by the appointment by the chair of the following committees:

Credentials: L. P. Robertson, Marlin; Levi Anderson, Killeen; R. H. Rogers, Waco; J. H. Powell, Marlin.

The committees retired to make up their report, and the convention heard addresses from the following well known democrats: George Carter, Marlin; R. H. Rogers, Judge Sam R. Scott, Dr. H. F. Connally, Waco. The latter read a telegram from Hon. Tom T. Connally, who has been in California since the primaries, recuperating after his strenuous campaign, the telegram expressing deep appreciation of the act of the voters in selecting him for congress, pledging his very best efforts in behalf of all the people, and expressing deep regret that he could not be present at the convention.

The credentials committee reported, seating delegates to the convention, and the temporary organization was made permanent.

The executive committee submitted a report of the votes cast in the July primary, showing that Mr. Connally had received a plurality of all votes cast, and he was declared the nominee for democratic congressman from the eleventh congressional district.

On motion of Judge Sam R. Scott the following committee was named to officially notify Mr. Connally of his nomination: R. H. Rogers, Dr. H. F. Connally, George Carter.

NATIONAL ADMINISTRATION STRONGLY ENDORSED.

The platform and resolutions committee submitted the following resolutions, which were adopted, after which the convention adjourned:

Be it resolved by the democratic convention of the eleventh congressional district assembled at Waco, August 26, 1916:

That we reaffirm our allegiance to the fundamental principles of the democratic party, as the bulwark of the union and the hope of its people.

That we endorse and accept the national democratic platform adopted at St. Louis, Mo., in June, 1916, as the party's expression of principles and policies, that we pledge to its nominees our loyal and unswerving support to the end that republican misrule shall be avoided and the continued prosperity of the people of this union vouchsafed.

We unreservedly endorse the administration of our democratic president, Hon. Woodrow Wilson, and the record of our democratic senators and representatives in congress. With pride and satisfaction we point to the achievements of the present administration in the interest of all the people of the union. We especially endorse the eminently wise and patriotic course of Hon. Woodrow Wilson in dealing with the many complex conditions with respect to foreign affairs that have confronted the union during his incumbency of the presidency. Upon all occasions he has acted for the maintenance of peace with honor, and for the tranquility of the union and its people. We particularly endorse and approve his policy with reference to the Mexican and European situations.

We feel that in the selection of Hon. Tom Connally to represent the eleventh congressional district, the democrats of this district have honored a man who will in turn do honor to the district. We believe that his many qualifications of heart and mind fit him pre-eminently to represent this great people in the halls of congress, and that in the future we will have many occasions to feel proud of his selection as our representative.

COMPLIMENT PAID HENRY'S RECORD.

Whereas, after twenty years of faithful and efficient service to his constituency, his state and the union, Hon. Robert Lee Henry will, after March 4, next, retire as a member of the congress of the United States; be it therefore resolved:

That we express our approval of his record, conspicuous for its adherence to the ideals of democracy and fidelity to the people, and we tender to Hon. R. L. Henry sentiments of highest esteem and assure him of our profound appreciation for the distinguished service he has rendered to his district, his party and his country in the national halls of legislation.

FLOTORIAL RESULTS ARE ANNOUNCED.

The flotorial convention of the sixty-third flotorial district assembled yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the fifty-fourth district court room.

H. Elmer Brown of Ocee presided over the gathering, with R. V. McClain acting as secretary. The chief business of the convention was to canvass the returns of the democratic primary held July 22, and after this had been done the convention declared that Hon. Frank Fitzpatrick was the flotorial nominee from this district.

The following was declared to be the result of the vote on July 22: F. M. Fitzpatrick, 4,251; George W. Brown, 3,891; G. L. Williamson, 3,655; J. W. Alston, 2,796.

TEXAS TRAVELERS ARE HIGHLY COMPLIMENTED

Arkansas President Sends Congratulations—Next Meeting at Raleigh, Sunday, September 3.

The Texas Travelers will hold their next regular semi-monthly meeting on next Sunday morning, September 3, at the Raleigh, beginning at 9:30.

President J. S. McClintock will complete the personnel of several special committees and reports will be heard from the various subdivisions of the association that have matters in charge for the good of the men on the road.

President E. P. Kirkpatrick of the Alabama Travelers, in a letter to the Texas Travelers, extends sincerest congratulations upon the rapid growth and the splendid work of the Lone Star association, saying: "The way the Texas organization is growing your Alabama brother travelers are looking for an early enrollment of 1,000 active members over there in the Texas Travelers. The Alabama Travelers now number 1,000 and expect to reach the 2,000 mark by another year. The information that the Texas Travelers have grown to nearly 300 since organization last March calls for the heartiest commendation and congratulations, and I feel sure that all the traveling men in Texas will realize the good to come from a collective cooperation of the men on the road. In Alabama we have realized many times over on our investment of $2 per annum membership. We are doing splendid things, and from the good reports heard from Texas feel that the traveling men there are going to realize magnificent results also."

Chairman George B. Eubank of the membership committee of the Texas Travelers has in hand a good bunch of applications to be presented to the next meeting and is looking for the 300 goal to be reached in a very short time. "Our highest enrollment at any one meeting has been twenty-four," he said, "but I believe that one of our greatest ambitions will soon be realized, when at one meeting we will be able to double that number. I would like to see every member take it upon himself to secure another member at the earliest possible moment. It's certainly worth the $2 per annum several times over to be a Texas Traveler."

Chairman B. R. Mason of the employment committee of the Texas Travelers reports that every interest is being taken in seeing that no member of the Texas Travelers lacks employment, and the organization has received much praise for this splendid feature established. Chairman Mason and his committee will be a clearing house to connect high-class traveling salesmen and city salesmen with high-class positions, acting for the Texas Travelers.

The meeting of the organization next Sunday will be an open one for all traveling men and they are cordially invited to attend the same. The applications of bona fide white traveling salesmen and city salesmen of good moral character are at all times heartily solicited by the organization.

Woodmen Will Have Watermelon Cutting on August 30

Looking toward the formation of plans for the great W. O. W. day at the Texas Cotton Palace on November 16, the Woodmen will enjoy a watermelon cutting on Saturday evening, August 31. The general committee handling the details of the day earnestly request that all loyal choppers be present for the evening.

"Danes cause delay in sale of islands," says a headline. We wonder if there is anything rotten in Denmark in regard to that transaction.

COTTON

New York.

New York, Aug. 26.—Early reactions were followed by renewed firmness in cotton today and some of the later deliveries made new high records for the movement. December contracts sold up from 15.64 to 15.91 and closed at 15.88, while the general list closed steady at a net advance of 8 to 14 points.

The market was extremely nervous and unsettled during the day and particularly during the early trading. After the extraordinary advances of the past several days some traders were talking the possibility of violent reactions and there evidently a disposition to realize profits for over the wek-end. The market opened at an advance of 7 to 9 points but quickly eased off and active months sold about 8 to 12 points under last night's closing figures.

The decline to 15.56 for October and 15.69 for January represented a reaction of about 25 points from the high records of Friday and this seemed sufficient to bring in some covering and possibly rebuying by sold-out longs.

Trade interests also were believed to be among the buyers on the decline, while the bullish view of crop conditions was encouraged by one of the private reports indicating deterioration of 5 per cent in Alabama and of 10 to 15 per cent in Mississippi.

The close was within 3 or 4 points of the best.

New Orleans.

New Orleans, Aug. 26.—Again at a large volume of liquidation from the long side to secure profits, the price of cotton was maintained on this market today, well up toward the highest levels of the week. There were setbacks but they brought in fresh buying for long account from the strongest class of traders.

At one time prices were 14 to 16 points over yesterday's quotation on the strongest months and within a few points of the highest of the week. March, in which trading has not yet become as active as in the nearer months, made a new high level for the week at 15.91. On the close the tone was called irregular and prices were 6 to 9 points up net.

Owing to the high levels prices have reached and the violent fluctuations that have occurred recently and which were expected to occur again in the near future, there was gossip on the floor today that there was a general movement on foot among brokers to call original margins of $5 a bale.

WHEAT

Chicago, Aug. 26.Fears of a railroad strike were among the influences which sent the wheat market down for net losses of from ⅞ to 2c today. Corn declined ⅛@1c and oats ⅛@⅝c. December and January lard were exceptions to weakness in the provisions pit.

The Canadian Northern's report showing some wheat where only desolation had been reported, the possibility of a railroad strike, weakening of cash premiums on Pennsylvania wheat at the seaboard, and the desire to even up trades over Sunday were among the bearish influences. The spread between September and December widened from 1¼c, where it started the session, to 2 cents at the close, a development which restricted buying.

There was a lot of long corn for sale today and the weakness of wheat deterred new investment in the coarser cereal for the time being.

Oats declined with wheat and corn and closed at the bottom.

Purchases of December and January lard by eastern shorts sent those deliveries up. Other provisions were weak.

Futures ranged as follows:

Dr. Black Says Storm Was Mighty Spectacle

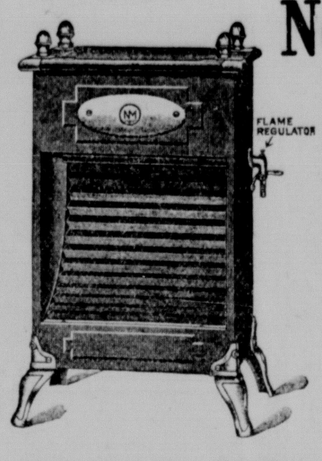

Dr. H. C. Black of this city is another one of the Waco people who witnessed the fury of the great tropical hurricane which visited the Texas coast recently, and while matters were very squally for awhile, Dr. Black said yesterday that the spectacle was one of the grandest he had ever witnessed.

Dr. Black and his wife were stopping at the hotel right down near the water's edge, and when two flags were put out, denoting the approach of a storm, it was known that it was a bad one, because two flags were put out as warnings instead of one; later along both flags were blown away and even the flag poles destroyed.

Dr. Black said that as the storm came on and increased it was easy to see sloops and other craft being torn from their moorings, masts snapped off and some capsized, practically all of them being destroyed before the storm ended. The proprietor of the hotel, growing alarmed at the fury of the storm, left for a stronger building further away from the water, but Dr. Black and wife and others remained preferring to take their chances in the building to getting out and battling with the winds and swirling, swishing, surging sheets of rain. No lives were lost, but everybody breathed a sigh of relief and thankfulness when the storm began to abate.

"How to Produce Children's Plays," by Constance D. Mackay. Gives the history of the children's play movements, a chapter on its sociological aspects and suggestions for new fields, with practical chapters on play producing, scenery, costumes and properties.

"The Beau of Bath, and Other One Act Plays," by C. D. Mackay. Six little plays, some hardly more than tableaux and dialogues, effective nevertheless, and written in simple, rhymed verse, with no much dramatic action, but with atmosphere and beauty.

"Rational Athletics for Boys," by F. J. Reilly. Aims to combine the benefits of all around athletic training with the keen joy of athletic competition, and to give every boy an equal chance, doing away entirely with the idea of a picked team. Suggestive to schools, clubs and camps.

"Education Through Play," by H. S. Curtis. Believes that the play problem of the school children is the chief play problem of our cities, that it is a school problem and that no other city department can deal with it satisfactorily. A suggestive book for all teachers and taxpayers.

"Play in Education," by Joseph Lee. The theories are not new, but are presented here with new emphasis and with many suggestions, which will show the value of play to those who are yet ignorant and will furnish practical help to those desiring suitable recreation for children of different ages.

"Youth, School and Vocation," by Meyer Bloomfield. A useful, practical book for those working at the problem of vocational guidance and training, not only presenting the author's philosophy on the subject, but giving definite help on administration, based on experience here and abroad.

"The Art of the Story Teller," by M. L. Shedlock. One of the best books on story telling, written from the author's own wide experience, richly illustrated with anecdotes and quotations from literature. Tells what to seek and what to avoid and suggestively answers many practical questions asked by teachers and story tellers; contains eighteen stories, and has a specialized list of stories chosen from private research and experience.

The Hog Does the Work.

A great many acres of corn and soy beans are to be hogged down this fall. The practice is growing in popularity because it is profitable. From the standpoint of fertility maintenance it is most successful, since it gives large returns from feed produced at a minimum cost of labor. The hog does the work. He harvests the crop, feeds himself, and leaves the crop residue and manure evenly distributed.

P. W. Kiser of Noble county, Indiana, is hogging down a large acreage of corn and soy beans because he says he knows of no other means of building up poor soil so rapidly at such a low cost. Mr. Kiser, like most farmers, wants to improve his fertility. This he knows is possible with the corn and soys, without the addition of large quantities of fertilizer which have been so costly of late. He says, too, that he gets returns from his poorest fields that are surprising as compared with a corn, wheat or oat crop. The organic matter is one of the biggest items on these thin soils, according to Mr. Kiser's experience.—Farm Life.

DR. BROOKS INVITED TO PEACE BANQUET WITH PRES. WILSON

An unusually high honor came to President S. P. Brooks of Baylor this week when he received a telegram notifying him that he had been appointed as one of a small committee of men who had been granted an audience and luncheon with President Wilson at Washington, on August 13, to confer concerning a conference of neutral nations in an effort to obtain peace among the warring nations. An organization of those interested in trying this plan had been formed some time ago, and an executive committee had been appointed to get the ear of President Wilson. When the latter deemed the plan worthy of consideration and appointed a day for a conference, the committee at once wired Dr. Brooks that he had been appointed as a member of the delegation which is to confer with the chief executive. This plan of a neutral conference has been one of Dr. Brooks' platform planks in the recent race and he regrets very much that he cannot be present to be one of those who shall present it for President Wilson's consideration. The press of duties in connection with the opening of the university will also make it impossible for him to accept the invitation from the democratic campaign management to speak in the doubtful states in behalf of President Wilson before the November election.

CONVENTION DECLARE ELECTION'S RESULTS

F. M. Fitzpatrick Is Announced as Flotorial Representative—Compliment to Henry's Record.

The democratic convention of the eleventh congressional district which assembled at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the fifty-fourth district court room in this city, reaffirmed its endorsement of the national democratic platform adopted at St. Louis in 1916; heartily endorsed President Woodrow Wilson and the acts of the democratic administration, particularly as to the foreign policies, and the acts of the democratic senators and congressmen; endorsed strongly Hon. Tom T. Connally, who has been nominated by the democrats of this district for congress, and also expressed endorsement of the faithful services of Congressman R. L. Henry, who has long served as congressman from the eleventh Texas district.

CONNALLY FORMALLY DECLARED NOMINEE.

The convention declared Hon. Tom T. Connally of Marlin the nominee and standard bearer of the eleventh district for congress, on canvassing the vote cast in July at the primary.

When the convention was called to order Clay McClellan of Gatesville was nominated for temporary chairman and chosen by acclamation, as was Robert Higgins of Marlin for temporary secretary.

The convention then got down to business by the appointment by the chair of the following committees:

Credentials: L. P. Robertson, Marlin; Levi Anderson, Killeen; R. H. Rogers, Waco; J. H. Powell, Marlin.

The committees retired to make up their report, and the convention heard addresses from the following well known democrats: George Carter, Marlin; R. H. Rogers, Judge Sam R. Scott, Dr. H. F. Connally, Waco. The latter read a telegram from Hon. Tom T. Connally, who has been in California since the primaries, recuperating after his strenuous campaign, the telegram expressing deep appreciation of the act of the voters in selecting him for congress, pledging his very best efforts in behalf of all the people, and expressing deep regret that he could not be present at the convention.

The credentials committee reported, seating delegates to the convention, and the temporary organization was made permanent.

The executive committee submitted a report of the votes cast in the July primary, showing that Mr. Connally had received a plurality of all votes cast, and he was declared the nominee for democratic congressman from the eleventh congressional district.

On motion of Judge Sam R. Scott the following committee was named to officially notify Mr. Connally of his nomination: R. H. Rogers, Dr. H. F. Connally, George Carter.

NATIONAL ADMINISTRATION STRONGLY ENDORSED.

The platform and resolutions committee submitted the following resolutions, which were adopted, after which the convention adjourned:

Be it resolved by the democratic convention of the eleventh congressional district assembled at Waco, August 26, 1916:

That we reaffirm our allegiance to the fundamental principles of the democratic party, as the bulwark of the union and the hope of its people.

That we endorse and accept the national democratic platform adopted at St. Louis, Mo., in June, 1916, as the party's expression of principles and policies, that we pledge to its nominees our loyal and unswerving support to the end that republican misrule shall be avoided and the continued prosperity of the people of this union vouchsafed.

We unreservedly endorse the administration of our democratic president, Hon. Woodrow Wilson, and the record of our democratic senators and representatives in congress. With pride and satisfaction we point to the achievements of the present administration in the interest of all the people of the union. We especially endorse the eminently wise and patriotic course of Hon. Woodrow Wilson in dealing with the many complex conditions with respect to foreign affairs that have confronted the union during his incumbency of the presidency. Upon all occasions he has acted for the maintenance of peace with honor, and for the tranquility of the union and its people. We particularly endorse and approve his policy with reference to the Mexican and European situations.

We feel that in the selection of Hon. Tom Connally to represent the eleventh congressional district, the democrats of this district have honored a man who will in turn do honor to the district. We believe that his many qualifications of heart and mind fit him pre-eminently to represent this great people in the halls of congress, and that in the future we will have many occasions to feel proud of his selection as our representative.

COMPLIMENT PAID HENRY'S RECORD.

Whereas, after twenty years of faithful and efficient service to his constituency, his state and the union, Hon. Robert Lee Henry will, after March 4, next, retire as a member of the congress of the United States; be it therefore resolved:

That we express our approval of his record, conspicuous for its adherence to the ideals of democracy and fidelity to the people, and we tender to Hon. R. L. Henry sentiments of highest esteem and assure him of our profound appreciation for the distinguished service he has rendered to his district, his party and his country in the national halls of legislation.

FLOTORIAL RESULTS ARE ANNOUNCED.

The flotorial convention of the sixty-third flotorial district assembled yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the fifty-fourth district court room.

H. Elmer Brown of Ocee presided over the gathering, with R. V. McClain acting as secretary. The chief business of the convention was to canvass the returns of the democratic primary held July 22, and after this had been done the convention declared that Hon. Frank Fitzpatrick was the flotorial nominee from this district.

The following was declared to be the result of the vote on July 22: F. M. Fitzpatrick, 4,251; George W. Brown, 3,891; G. L. Williamson, 3,655; J. W. Alston, 2,796.

TEXAS TRAVELERS ARE HIGHLY COMPLIMENTED

Arkansas President Sends Congratulations—Next Meeting at Raleigh, Sunday, September 3.

The Texas Travelers will hold their next regular semi-monthly meeting on next Sunday morning, September 3, at the Raleigh, beginning at 9:30.

President J. S. McClintock will complete the personnel of several special committees and reports will be heard from the various subdivisions of the association that have matters in charge for the good of the men on the road.

President E. P. Kirkpatrick of the Alabama Travelers, in a letter to the Texas Travelers, extends sincerest congratulations upon the rapid growth and the splendid work of the Lone Star association, saying: "The way the Texas organization is growing your Alabama brother travelers are looking for an early enrollment of 1,000 active members over there in the Texas Travelers. The Alabama Travelers now number 1,000 and expect to reach the 2,000 mark by another year. The information that the Texas Travelers have grown to nearly 300 since organization last March calls for the heartiest commendation and congratulations, and I feel sure that all the traveling men in Texas will realize the good to come from a collective cooperation of the men on the road. In Alabama we have realized many times over on our investment of $2 per annum membership. We are doing splendid things, and from the good reports heard from Texas feel that the traveling men there are going to realize magnificent results also."

Chairman George B. Eubank of the membership committee of the Texas Travelers has in hand a good bunch of applications to be presented to the next meeting and is looking for the 300 goal to be reached in a very short time. "Our highest enrollment at any one meeting has been twenty-four," he said, "but I believe that one of our greatest ambitions will soon be realized, when at one meeting we will be able to double that number. I would like to see every member take it upon himself to secure another member at the earliest possible moment. It's certainly worth the $2 per annum several times over to be a Texas Traveler."

Chairman B. R. Mason of the employment committee of the Texas Travelers reports that every interest is being taken in seeing that no member of the Texas Travelers lacks employment, and the organization has received much praise for this splendid feature established. Chairman Mason and his committee will be a clearing house to connect high-class traveling salesmen and city salesmen with high-class positions, acting for the Texas Travelers.

The meeting of the organization next Sunday will be an open one for all traveling men and they are cordially invited to attend the same. The applications of bona fide white traveling salesmen and city salesmen of good moral character are at all times heartily solicited by the organization.

Woodmen Will Have Watermelon Cutting on August 30

Looking toward the formation of plans for the great W. O. W. day at the Texas Cotton Palace on November 16, the Woodmen will enjoy a watermelon cutting on Saturday evening, August 31. The general committee handling the details of the day earnestly request that all loyal choppers be present for the evening.

"Danes cause delay in sale of islands," says a headline. We wonder if there is anything rotten in Denmark in regard to that transaction.

COTTON

New York.

New York, Aug. 26.—Early reactions were followed by renewed firmness in cotton today and some of the later deliveries made new high records for the movement. December contracts sold up from 15.64 to 15.91 and closed at 15.88, while the general list closed steady at a net advance of 8 to 14 points.

The market was extremely nervous and unsettled during the day and particularly during the early trading. After the extraordinary advances of the past several days some traders were talking the possibility of violent reactions and there evidently a disposition to realize profits for over the wek-end. The market opened at an advance of 7 to 9 points but quickly eased off and active months sold about 8 to 12 points under last night's closing figures.

The decline to 15.50 for October and 15.69 for January represented a reaction of about 25 points from the high records of Friday and this seemed sufficient to bring in some covering and possibly rebuying by sold-out longs.

Trade interests also were believed to be among the buyers on the decline, while the bullish view of crop conditions was encouraged by one of the private reports indicating deterioration of 5 per cent in Alabama and of 10 to 15 per cent in Mississippi.

The close was within 3 or 4 points of the best.

New Orleans.

New Orleans, Aug. 26.—Again at a large volume of liquidation from the long side to secure profits, the price of cotton was maintained on this market today, well up toward the highest levels of the week. There were setbacks but they brought in fresh buying for long account from the strongest class of traders.

At one time prices were 14 to 16 points over yesterday's quotation on the strongest months and within a few points of the highest of the week. March, in which trading has not yet become as active as in the nearer months, made a new high level for the week at 15.91. On the close the tone was called irregular and prices were 6 to 9 points up net.

Owing to the high levels prices have reached and the violent fluctuations that have occurred recently and which were expected to occur again in the near future, there was gossip on the floor today that there was a general movement on foot among brokers to call original margins of $5 a bale.

WHEAT

Chicago, Aug. 26.Fears of a railroad strike were among the influences which sent the wheat market down for net losses of from ⅞ to 2c today. Corn declined ⅛@1c and oats ⅛@⅝c. December and January lard were exceptions to weakness in the provisions pit.

The Canadian Northern's report showing some wheat where only desolation had been reported, the possibility of a railroad strike, weakening of cash premiums on Pennsylvania wheat at the seaboard, and the desire to even up trades over Sunday were among the bearish influences. The spread between September and December widened from 1¼c, where it started the session, to 2 cents at the close, a development which restricted buying.

There was a lot of long corn for sale today and the weakness of wheat deterred new investment in the coarser cereal for the time being.

Oats declined with wheat and corn and closed at the bottom.

Purchases of December and January lard by eastern shorts sent those deliveries up. Other provisions were weak.

Futures ranged as follows:

Dr. Black Says Storm Was Mighty Spectacle

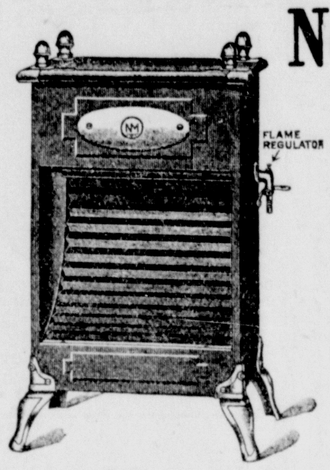

Dr. H. C. Black of this city is another one of the Waco people who witnessed the fury of the great tropical hurricane which visited the Texas coast recently, and while matters were very squally for awhile, Dr. Black said yesterday that the spectacle was one of the grandest he had ever witnessed.

Dr. Black and his wife were stopping at the hotel right down near the water's edge, and when two flags were put out, denoting the approach of a storm, it was known that it was a bad one, because two flags were put out as warnings instead of one; later along both flags were blown away and even the flag poles destroyed.

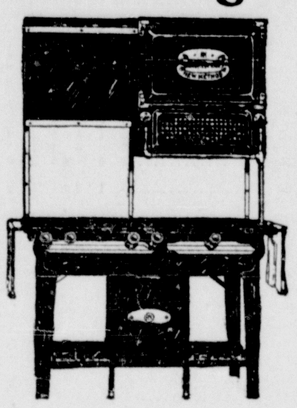

Dr. Black said that as the storm came on and increased it was easy to see sloops and other craft being torn from their moorings, masts snapped off and some capsized, practically all of them being destroyed before the storm ended. The proprietor of the hotel, growing alarmed at the fury of the storm, left for a stronger building further away from the water, but Dr. Black and wife and others remained preferring to take their chances in the building to getting out and battling with the winds and swirling, swishing, surging sheets of rain. No lives were lost, but everybody breathed a sigh of relief and thankfulness when the storm began to abate.

New Books of Interest to Teachers at Library

The books listed below have recently been added to the shelves of the library. Any of them may be borrowed for two weeks with the privilege of renewal for two weeks more. The library is open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. on week days, and from 2 to 6 p. m. on Sundays. No books may be borrowed on Sundays, but one may return them and use the reading rooms where there may be found 100 magazines and twelve newspapers. Visitors in the city are cordially invited to use the library.

"How to Produce Children's Plays," by Constance D. Mackay. Gives the history of the children's play movements, a chapter on its sociological aspects and suggestions for new fields, with practical chapters on play producing, scenery, costumes and properties.

"The Beau of Bath, and Other One Act Plays," by C. D. Mackay. Six little plays, some hardly more than tableaux and dialogues, effective nevertheless, and written in simple, rhymed verse, with no much dramatic action, but with atmosphere and beauty.

"Rational Athletics for Boys," by F. J. Reilly. Aims to combine the benefits of all around athletic training with the keen joy of athletic competition, and to give every boy an equal chance, doing away entirely with the idea of a picked team. Suggestive to schools, clubs and camps.

"Education Through Play," by H. S. Curtis. Believes that the play problem of the school children is the chief play problem of our cities, that it is a school problem and that no other city department can deal with it satisfactorily. A suggestive book for all teachers and taxpayers.

"Play in Education," by Joseph Lee. The theories are not new, but are presented here with new emphasis and with many suggestions, which will show the value of play to those who are yet ignorant and will furnish practical help to those desiring suitable recreation for children of different ages.

"Youth, School and Vocation," by Meyer Bloomfield. A useful, practical book for those working at the problem of vocational guidance and training, not only presenting the author's philosophy on the subject, but giving definite help on administration, based on experience here and abroad.

"The Art of the Story Teller," by M. L. Shedlock. One of the best books on story telling, written from the author's own wide experience, richly illustrated with anecdotes and quotations from literature. Tells what to seek and what to avoid and suggestively answers many practical questions asked by teachers and story tellers; contains eighteen stories, and has a specialized list of stories chosen from private research and experience.

The Hog Does the Work.

A great many acres of corn and soy beans are to be hogged down this fall. The practice is growing in popularity because it is profitable. From the standpoint of fertility maintenance it is most successful, since it gives large returns from feed produced at a minimum cost of labor. The hog does the work. He harvests the crop, feeds himself, and leaves the crop residue and manure evenly distributed.

P. W. Kiser of Noble county, Indiana, is hogging down a large acreage of corn and soy beans because he says he knows of no other means of building up poor soil so rapidly at such a low cost. Mr. Kiser, like most farmers, wants to improve his fertility. This he knows is possible with the corn and soys, without the addition of large quantities of fertilizer which have been so costly of late. He says, too, that he gets returns from his poorest fields that are surprising as compared with a corn, wheat or oat crop. The organic matter is one of the biggest items on these thin soils, according to Mr. Kiser's experience.—Farm Life.

DR. BROOKS INVITED TO PEACE BANQUET WITH PRES. WILSON

An unusually high honor came to President S. P. Brooks of Baylor this week when he received a telegram notifying him that he had been appointed as one of a small committee of men who had been granted an audience and luncheon with President Wilson at Washington, on August 13, to confer concerning a conference of neutral nations in an effort to obtain peace among the warring nations. An organization of those interested in trying this plan had been formed some time ago, and an executive committee had been appointed to get the ear of President Wilson. When the latter deemed the plan worthy of consideration and appointed a day for a conference, the committee at once wired Dr. Brooks that he had been appointed as a member of the delegation which is to confer with the chief executive. This plan of a neutral conference has been one of Dr. Brooks' platform planks in the recent race and he regrets very much that he cannot be present to be one of those who shall present it for President Wilson's consideration. The press of duties in connection with the opening of the university will also make it impossible for him to accept the invitation from the democratic campaign management to speak in the doubtful states in behalf of President Wilson before the November election.

"GRAN'MUVVER."

(By W. Livingston Larned.)

When little hearts are full of ache, and all the world is gray;
One haven reaches out to them to kiss the tears away;
One pair of arms is always wide to take the wayward in;
One room in all the lonely house is where the smiles begin.
And like a little sacred shrine, far from the hurt and pain,
Granmuvver's rocking chair awaits to make Youth smile again.

"There, there, don't cry,"
I hear her whisper softly in his ear;
"Grandmother loves her little boy.
'Twill all come right, my dear."

When little men are spanked and sent, eyes-brimming, off to bed,
And lips are parched and brow is hot, and there's a splitting head;
When, somehow, Mother seems to want to lose her Soljer Boy,
Because he ate an extra sweet or stumbled on a toy,
Then, then Gran'muvver's Room is best; Gran'muvver's sympathy
Puts back the love and sunshine where they always used to be.

"There, there, don't cry,"
I hear her, in the shadows, say, to him,
"Grandmother loves her little boy"
And her eyes, too, are dim.

When little storms blow up from skies that yesterday were fair,
And griefs as poignant as a blade are extra hard to bear;
When Daddy doesn't hug his son, nor take him "pick-a-back,"
Nor pat his curly, golden head, nor care at all, alack!
And, very much alone, a boy runs sobbing for relief,
Then Gran'mas prove themselves, I guess, as antidote for grief.

"There, there, don't cry,"
We hear her, but her own voice trembles, too,
"Grandmother loves her little boy.

In Memory of Mrs. Bert Rowe Brodie.

The Death Angel flew over the city on Saturday morning and carried in its flight to heaven Mrs. James Brodie. It was only during the last Yuletide week that Bert Rowe became a loving and much beloved young wife, but God saw fit to call her nearer home and now friends and loved ones are shedding tears for the loss of this gentle young life. "None knew her but to love her; none named her but to praise." The flowers on her grave will wither, but the memory of her character can never fade.

Sunrise Breakfast at Cameron Park.

On Wednesday the Misses Whitehurst gave a pretty breakfast naming these visitors and Miss Rose Fehr of New Orleans as honorees. The breakfast table was unusually attractive in its decorations of morning glories with its center of ferns and roses. Those gathered by invitation for this early pleasure were the Misses Minnie and Mary Harper of Fort Worth, Rose Fehr of New Orleans, Willie Killough, Hattie Hartigan and Misses Whitehurst with Craven Sneed, J. B. Jean, Clarence Redford, Hardy Smith, Robert McCulloch, Jack Sneed and Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Byus.

The game of "Winkum" was enjoyed especially. Later other pleasures were introduced: Among them a contest in which little Miss Kate McCullough was successful in capturing the prize, a pretty box of stationery. A similar prize was presented the honoree. Delicious refreshments were served by these joint hostesses to Misses Vivian Harder, Kate McCullough, Vivian Jukes, Hallie May Nicholds, Bessie Earle Gilders of Gatesville, Katherine Chambers of Gatesville, Pauline Barrett, Georgie Irwin, Marie Blomeyer, Gertrude Epperson, Verona Amiott, Susan Moore, Flake Steger and Dora Kirkpatrick.

Movie Actresses and Their Hair

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief beauty? In fact, (this is a secret), many are leading ladies just because of their attractive locks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or makeshift, but with a simple mixture which they make up for themselves by putting a teaspoonful of canthrox, (which they get from the druggist), in a cup of hot water and applying this instead of soap. After its use their hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness is delightful, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.

Waco Girls at Home From Encampment.

Misses Virginia Lazenby, Lucy Lazenby, Mildred Fink of Marlin, Katherine Stratton and Ruth Lazenby reached home yesterday from the Girls' Encampment near Fort Worth. They report a splendid trip and much good accomplished. Along with the training came several social affairs; among those mentioned was a dance on Wednesday evening given by the young men of the Steple Chase Club, Fort Worth. And on Thursday quite a number of the soldier girls enjoyed a drive over to Mineral Wells followed by a delightful dance.

Waconns feel justly proud of their soldier girls and the important places they filled at the encampment, this especially refers to Miss Virginia Lazenby.

Announcement of an Approaching Marriage.

One of the liveliest bunco parties of the season was given by Miss Bertha Berkman on last Wednesday at the home of her mother, Mrs. I. Berkman. The spacious hall, dining room and parlor were decorated in hearts and Cupids—pink and white being the color scheme. At the close of the game delicious cream moulded in heart design with angel food cake was served. The head prize in bunco was won by Miss Hanna Friedman, the booby went to Miss Sara Rosenburg while the consolation was awarded Miss Ida Rosenburg. This revealed the motive of the occasion for enclosed within this consolation gift were found three tiny cards announcing the coming nuptial of Miss Sophia Cohen to Louis Rosen both of this city. The wedding is to take place in October.

Congratulations were at once showered on Miss Cohen, who is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Cohen of North Seventh street. Mr. Rosen is formerly of New York but is now connected with the firm of Rosen & Corey Auto Supply company, and their many friends wish for them much happiness.

The Misses Bruyere Have Porch Party.

The Misses Edith and Ruth Bruyere entertained delightfully with a porch party at their home on West avenue as a parting courtesy to their friend, Sterling McMurrain, who is leaving at once for Iowa. The game of "travel" was introduced by the hostess. Tables were placed to represent a train and each table reresented different states in the United States. At intervals the butcher boy would appear with his pop corn, peanuts and candy, much to the merriment and enjoyment of those on board the improvised train. Later the guests were regaled with delicious refreshments. The tally cards were miniature suit cases suggestive of Mr. McMurrain's early departure. Those in this party were Misses Carrie Morgan, Bruce Morgan, Edith Bruyere, Ruth Bruyere, Ruth Appell, Beverly Lastinger and Messrs. Sterling McMurrain, Milton Mount, Marvin Felf, Frank Jones, Cecil McGriffin, Bolton Bruyere, Mr. Jean and Mr. and Mrs. Schaeffer and Mr. and Mrs. Will Andrews.

Last Outing of This Season for the Business Women and Girls.

Through invitation extended by Mrs. Thomas Padgitt the last and we might say the best of the series of weekly outings was enjoyed by the Business Women and Girls of the Y. W. C. A. on last Friday evening, at the Fish Pond. Cars were provided and left the Y. W. C. A. at different hours after 4 o'clock. The first and foremost of the diversions enjoyed by these young women at the Fish Pond is rowing on the lake.

There were seventy of club members present and with chaperones and those running automobiles all counted, the number was swelled to eighty-seven when all were gathered for the bacon and egg supper. Then came cheers and more cheers from the girls to the social committee of the Y. W. C. A. of which Mrs. W. W. Woodson is chairman. Mrs. Benson gave a toast to the social committee who has worked so faithfully to bring about these delightful affairs.

Miss Kate Friend was escorted to the piano and furnished inspiration for the singing of old fashioned songs, and later Miss Nellie Lee Hill gave one of her creditable readings. Then to the

(By W. Livingston Larned.)

When little hearts are full of ache, and all the world is gray;
One haven reaches out to them to kiss the tears away;
One pair of arms is always wide to take the wayward in;
One room in all the lonely house is where the smiles begin.
And like a little sacred shrine, far from the hurt and pain,
Granmuvver's rocking chair awaits to make Youth smile again.

"There, there, don't cry,"
I hear her whisper softly in his ear;
"Grandmother loves her little boy,
'Twill all come right, my dear."

When little men are spanked and sent, eyes-brimming, off to bed,
And lips are parched and brow is hot, and there's a splitting head;
When, somehow, Mother seems to want to lose her Soljer Boy,
Because he ate an extra sweet or stumbled on a toy,
Then, then Gran'muvver's Room is best; Gran'muvver's sympathy
Puts back the love and sunshine where they always used to be.

"There, there, don't cry,"
I hear her, in the shadows, say, to him,
"Grandmother loves her little boy"
And her eyes, too, are dim.

When little storms blow up from skies that yesterday were fair,
And griefs as poignant as a blade are extra hard to bear;
When Daddy doesn't hug his son, nor take him "pick-a-back,"
Nor pat his curly, golden head, nor care at all, alack!
And, very much alone, a boy runs sobbing for relief,
Then Gran'mas prove themselves, I guess, as antidote for grief.

"There, there, don't cry,"
We hear her, but her own voice trembles, too,
"Grandmother loves her little boy,

In Memory of Mrs. Bert Rowe Brodie.

The Death Angel flew over the city on Saturday morning and carried in its flight to heaven Mrs. James Brodie. It was only during the last Yuletide week that Bert Rowe became a loving and much beloved young wife, but God saw fit to call her nearer home and now friends and loved ones are shedding tears for the loss of this gentle young life. "None knew her but to love her; none named her but to praise." The flowers on her grave will wither, but the memory of her character can never fade.

Those gathered by invitation for this early pleasure were the Misses Minnie and Mary Harper of Fort Worth, Rose Fehr of New Orleans, Willie Killough, Hattie Hartigan and Misses Whitehurst with Craven Sneed, J. A similar prize was presented the honoree... Movie Actresses and Their Hair

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief beauty? In fact, (this is a secret), many are leading ladies just because of their attractive locks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or makeshift, but with a simple mxiture which they make up for themselves by putting a teaspoonful of canthrox, (which they get from the druggist), in a cup of hot water and applying this instead of soap. After its use their hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness is delightful, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.

Waco Girls at Home From Encampment.

Misses Virginia Lazenby, Lucy Lazenby, Mildred Fink of Marlin, Katherine Stratton and Ruth Lazenby reached home yesterday from the Girls' Encampment near Fort Worth. They report a splendid trip and much good accomplished. Along with the training came several social affairs; among those mentioned was a dance on Wednesday evening given by the young men of the Steple Chase Club, Fort Worth. And on Thursday quite a number of the soldier girls enjoyed a drive over to Mineral Wells followed by a delightful dance.

Wacoans feel justly proud of their soldier girls and the important places they filled at the encampment, this especially refers to Miss Virginia Lazenby.

Announcement of an Approaching Marriage.

One of the liveliest bunco parties of the season was given by Miss Bertha Berkman on last Wednesday at the home of her mother, Mrs. I. Berkman. The spacious hall, dining room and parlor were decorated in hearts and Cupids—pink and white being the color scheme. At the close of the game delicious cream moulded in heart design with angel food cake was served. The head prize in bunco was won by Miss Hanna Friedman, the booby went to Miss Sara Rosenburg while the consolation was awarded Miss Ida Rosenburg. This revealed the motive of the occasion for enclosed within this consolation gift were found three tiny cards announcing the coming nuptial of Miss Sophia Cohen to Louis Rosen both of this city. The wedding is to take place in October.

Congratulations were at once showered on Miss Cohen, who is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Cohen of North Seventh street. Mr. Rosen is formerly of New York but is now connected with the firm of Rosen & Corey Auto Supply company, and their many friends wish for them much happiness.

The Misses Bruyere Have Porch Party.

The Misses Edith and Ruth Bruyere entertained delightfully with a porch party at their home on West avenue as a parting courtesy to their friend, Sterling McMurrain, who is leaving at once for Iowa. The game of "travel" was introduced by the hostess. Tables were placed to represent a train and each table reresented different states in the United States. At intervals the butcher boy would appear with his pop corn, peanuts and candy, much to the merriment and enjoyment of those on board the improvised train. Later the guests were regaled with delicious refreshments. The tally cards were miniature suit cases suggestive of Mr. McMurrain's early departure. Those in this party were Misses Carrie Morgan, Bruce Morgan, Edith Bruyere, Ruth Bruyere, Ruth Appell, Beverly Lastinger and Messrs. Last Outing of This Season for the Business Women and Girls.

Through invitation extended by Mrs. Thomas Padgitt the last and we might say the best of the series of weekly outings was enjoyed by the Business Women and Girls of the Y. W. C. A. on last Friday evening, at the Fish Pond. Cars were provided and left the Y. W. C. A. at different hours after 4 o'clock. The first and foremost of the diversions enjoyed by these young women at the Fish Pond is rowing on the lake.

There were seventy of club members present and with chaperones and those running automobiles all counted, the number was swelled to eighty-seven when all were gathered for the bacon and egg supper. Then came cheers and more cheers from the girls to the social committee of the Y. W. C. A. of which Mrs. W. W. Woodson is chairman. Mrs. Benson gave a toast to the social committee who has worked so faithfully to bring about these delightful affairs.

Miss Kate Friend was escorted to the piano and furnished inspiration for the singing of old fashioned songs, and later Miss Nellie Lee Hill gave one of her creditable readings. Then to the

MRS. BRODIE ANSWERS THE LAST SUMMONS

Mrs. Alberta Rowe Brodie died yesterday morning at 7:45 o'clock at 1108 Austin avenue, aged 34 years.

The funeral will take place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon from the Episcopal church, Rev. W. P. Witsell officiating. The active pall bearers are Dr. M. Colgin, G. B. Higginson, R. M. Killough, Edgar Yinger, Joe Willis, William Morrow; honorary, J. J. Abernathy, J. D. Douglass, B. W. Glasgow, W. E. Darden, A. C. Patton, George W. King, W. J. Neale, N. M. Gay. Interment will be at Oakwood cemetery.

Mrs. Alberta Rowe Brodie was the daughter of Horace Rowe, and the granddaughter of Albert Chalmers, one of the estimable pioneer citizens of Waco. This sad shock to the family and many friends of Mrs. Brodie will bring to mind the noble life of Bert Rowe, who performed every duty faithfully, and gained the love and affection of all with whom she became associated.

Having in early life displayed evidence of a bright mind, her education was rapid and full, and soon her literary talents became known and appreciated by the leading magazines of the state, in which her writings were published and won deserved prizes. At an early age she became identified with the educational institutions of Waco, and taught school for several years. Many youths and maidens in Waco will remember her kind teachings and careful guidance of their first steps on the ladder of learning.

Her home life was beautiful, and marked by kind deeds and substantial aid to those who leaned upon her. Considering her life not yet full and complete, she assumed the duties of wife, and hoped to realize the blessings in that sphere of life that come to all good women—but His will decreed otherwise, and she sleeps in eternal rest in the room where she was born in her grandmother's home on Austin street.

The sympathies of the community are extended to her surviving relatives, her husband, James T. Brodie; her sister, Mrs. Lawrence McGee of Dallas; her aunts, Mrs. Horace Pickett and Mrs. T. N. McMullen; her brothers, George, Frank and Ray Bagby, and sister, Mary Lou Bagby, and her numerous friends in Waco, where she was born, reared and died, after a noble and useful life.

New Oil Well Will Be Cased and Pumped as Soon as Possible

"It only remains to get casing for the well, case it and begin taking out the oil; it is there, and another well will be drilled soon," said W. H. Jones yesterday, referring to the oil which he found near the Fish Pond four miles west of Waco, samples of this oil having been sent to Corsicana to experts, who are expected to pass on it very soon, though it is known to be high-grade oil.

Mr. Jones drew the baler up full of oil two or three times, getting probably two barrels from the well at one time yesterday, the quality being excellent, he thinks.

He will case the well at once, having ordered the casing already, and it can then be pumped. If the well turns out as well as expected the chances are that scores of holes will be found in that section within a short time, and some even closer to Waco, as it is known positively that there is oil and a lot of it within six or eight hundred yards of the Huaco club in West End. Mr. Jones is jubilant over his find, and seems to have no doubt whatever that he has struck a good paying pumping proposition, with excellent opportunities for profitable development.

ENTERTAINMENT ON ROOF OF PRAETORIAN BUILDING

The standing entertainment committee of Waco council No. 265, Modern Order of Praetorians, planned a very pleasant evening for the officers and members of the council for Friday, August 25. Ten tables were arranged for playing bunco on the roof of the new Praetorian building and besides those playing a number of visitors came during the evening. The time passed all too quickly and soon ice-cold watermelons were cut and served. T. Edgar Johnson proved to be the lucky one at bunco and was awarded the high-score prize.

Mrs. Robert Hatton invited a few congenials for a spend-the-day pleasure in her home on Washington street and in quite a happy way was enjoyment dispensed throughout the day. The highly polished luncheon table with its lace doilies and beautiful center piece of American Beauties was much admired during the serving of a tempting menu. Afterwards games were provided. Parent-Teachers Association of Lakeview Have Silver Tea.

The Parent-Teachers association of Lakeview school realized a nice sum of money from a silver tea given by Circle No. 2 of the association at the home of Mrs. Slubiski at Lacy. This was one of the most enjoyable social affairs held in the community in some time. Sandwiches and ice tea were temptingly served to the guests.

MRS. BRODIE ANSWERS THE LAST SUMMONS

Mrs. Alberta Rowe Brodie died yesterday morning at 7:45 o'clock at 1108 Austin avenue, aged 34 years.

The funeral will take place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon from the Episcopal church, Rev. W. P. Witsell officiating. The active pall bearers are Dr. M. Colgin, G. B. Higginson, R. M. Killough, Edgar Yinger, Joe Willis, William Morrow; honorary, J. J. Abernathy, J. D. Douglass, B. W. Glasgow, W. E. Darden, A. C. Patton, George W. King, W. J. Neale, N. M. Gay. Interment will be at Oakwood cemetery.

Mrs. Alberta Rowe Brodie was the daughter of Horace Rowe, and the granddaughter of Albert Chalmers, one of the estimable pioneer citizens of Waco. This sad shock to the family and many friends of Mrs. Brodie will bring to mind the noble life of Bert Rowe, who performed every duty faithfully, and gained the love and affection of all with whom she became associated.

Having in early life displayed evidence of a bright mind, her education was rapid and full, and soon her literary talents became known and appreciated by the leading magazines of the state, in which her writings were published and won deserved prizes. At an early age she became identified with the educational institutions of Waco, and taught school for several years. Many youths and maidens in Waco will remember her kind teachings and careful guidance of their first steps on the ladder of learning.

Her home life was beautiful, and marked by kind deeds and substantial aid to those who leaned upon her. Considering her life not yet full and complete, she assumed the duties of wife, and hoped to realize the blessings in that sphere of life that come to all good women—but His will decreed otherwise, and she sleeps in eternal rest in the room where she was born in her grandmother's home on Austin street.

The sympathies of the community are extended to her surviving relatives, her husband, James T. Brodie; her sister, Mrs. Lawrence McGee of Dallas; her aunts, Mrs. Horace Pickett and Mrs. T. N. McMullen; her brothers, George, Frank and Ray Bagby, and sister, Mary Lou Bagby, and her numerous friends in Waco, where she was born, reared and died, after a noble and useful life.

New Oil Well Will Be Cased and Pumped as Soon as Possible

"It only remains to get casing for the well, case it and begin taking out the oil; it is there, and another well will be drilled soon," said W. H. Jones yesterday, referring to the oil which he found near the Fish Pond four miles west of Waco, samples of this oil having been sent to Corsicana to experts, who are expected to pass on it very soon, though it is known to be high-grade oil.

Mr. Jones drew the baler up full of oil two or three times, getting probably two barrels from the well at one time yesterday, the quality being excellent, he thinks.

He will case the well at once, having ordered the casing already, and it can then be pumped. If the well turns out as well as expected the chances are that scores of holes will be found in that section within a short time, and some even closer to Waco, as it is known positively that there is oil and a lot of it within six or eight hundred yards of the Huaco club in West End. Mr. Jones is jubilant over his find, and seems to have no doubt whatever that he has struck a good paying pumping proposition, with excellent opportunities for profitable development.

ENTERTAINMENT ON ROOF OF PRAETORIAN BUILDING

The standing entertainment committee of Waco council No. 265, Modern Order of Praetorians, planned a very pleasant evening for the officers and members of the council for Friday, August 25. Ten tables were arranged for playing bunco on the roof of the new Praetorian building and besides those playing a number of visitors came during the evening. The time passed all too quickly and soon ice-cold watermelons were cut and served. T. Edgar Johnson proved to be the lucky one at bunco and was awarded the high-score prize.

Helpful Suggestions Made for Care Storage Batteries

The following from the booklet on storage battery care, issued by the Willard Storage Battery company of Cleveland, furnished by the Waco Storage Battery company, may prove helpful to car owners.

"In examining a battery that appears to be dead, a hydrometer syringe should be used to determine the specific gravity of the electrolyte or the solution inside the battery. This test should be made before adding water. Should the battery charge prove to be lower than 1.275 it is necessary to have the battery recharged. This may be done in cases where the battery is not too weak by doing considerable running with small use of starter and lights. In this connection, it is very important to see that the generator is working properly.

"Inspection of wiring to make sure that there are no grounded wires from insulation being worn off, no corroded terminals and no poor connections; testing of lamps and cleaning of generator brushes are always as essential to efficient electrical performance as the cleaning of carburetor and gasoline is to motor efficiency.

"Sometimes the generator does not charge the battery sufficiently to meet the unusual demand of some particular driver for cranking the motor and operating the lights. In such cases the Willard Storage Battery company recommends that the owner visit the nearest Willard service station where expert assistance can be had, to secure satisfactory lighting and starting service. Never trust a novice to repair or recharge a storage battery and do not tamper with your own battery beyond filling it with pure water and testing it with a hydrometer syringe. By following these precautions and operating the starter and electric lights with some degree of intelligence and economy good results are bound to follow."

MAXWELL IS AUTO OF LITTLE AFTER-COST

"Service—endurance—efficiency—mean to the Maxwell Motor company giving a completely equipped three-speed automobile, of full five-passenger capacity that can be easily operated over any kind of a road at the lowest possible cost per year. This at a most reasonable price," says V. M. Washam, local distributor.

"This is the kind of a car that the Maxwell is. In addition to giving a really powerful five-passenger family automobile, the Maxwell company has incorporated in the new model a host of features which were not in last year's car. The Maxwell car embodies every essential quality with every necessary feature found in the highest-priced cars.

"The Maxwell has some features not found in other cars, irrespective of price.

"Evidence that the Maxwell car gives really satisfactory service may be found in the fact that more than 65,000 Maxwells of the present model are daily proving the quality, the value, the economy, the efficiency and service of this light, sturdy, powerful car.

"Admitting, then, that the Maxwell knows no superior for service given by the car itself, what kind of service is given Maxwell owners after they have bought a Maxwell?

"I believe that no other automobile is backed by a stronger service during the entire life of the car than that which is guaranteed every Maxwell owner. Right now, there are close to 2,500 Maxwell dealers in the United States and Canada. To this number new dealers are being added daily. Every one of these men stands ready at all times to give you expert advice, to make adjustments for you and to supply the replacement of parts if at any time you need such assistance and service."

Auto Is Key to Great Outdoors

"Nothing in all the world of pleasure equals the sheer delight of a motor car. To sweep along the river's edge; to conquer stubborn hill and obstinate mountain; to drink in the health-laden air of the open country as the tireless, beautiful motor car skims silently from panorama to panorama and unrolls before you an endless reel of wondrous vistas; to rest and relax as the ribbon of roads unwinds but never reaches its end; to learn how really big the blue sky is; to see with what marvelous skill the Divine Magician performs the great miracles of nature—what joys, what pleasures, what enchantments can equal these?" comes from W. E. Brown, manager of the Herrick Hardware auto department.

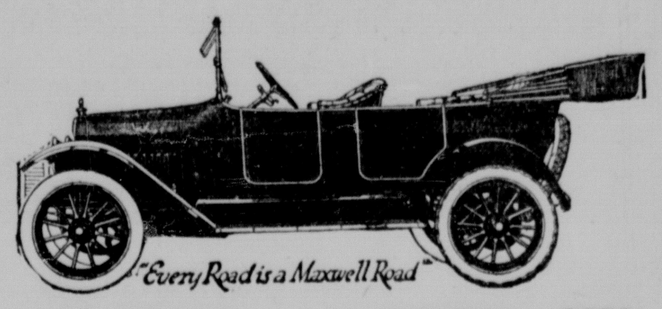

"The Buick Motor company is proud, indeed, to have a part of such ever-growing importance in the making of so much happiness."

Nothing Adds Quite So Much

To the sheer joy of living—to pleasure—to efficiency that comes from health and happiness—as a GOOD AUTOMOBILE.

A few years ago they were luxuries. Today they are necessities.

They have made the country and city clasp hands as nothing else could ever do. They've brought the healthy atmosphere of the open to the city dweller and the comforts of the city to those who live in the country. There's no use talking, YOU need a car your own self.

And when you think of A car it's just as easy to think of THE car—the Maxwell. Then you will "play safe."

The Big Value Car of Today

Bear in mind that the Maxwell HAS NOT been changed—except in minor respects where there was an opportunity to make refinements and additional improvements.

Nor will it be changed except as it is found possible to make alterations for increased comfort or efficiency.

The Maxwell car is STANDARDIZED. In lowering the price to the purchasar, the QUALITY and REAL VALUE of the car was NOT lowered.

This lower price was made possible solely by reason of greatly increased factory production, and a lower "overhead" selling cost. The price might have been kept the same way—(many cars are increasing their price)—and as many cars have been sold.

But WE preferred to give our patrons the benefit of our prosperity.

Last year the Maxwell car represented a BIG value. Many thousands of satisfied owners are evidence of THAT.

But THIS year—at the greatly reduced price of $595—the Maxwell stands out as the one greatest automobile value of all time.

Nothing like it has ever been offered for the money.

Fully equipped as it is, it has everything that the very expensive cars have—and good looks, comfort and economy of operation that some of them do not have.

IT IS THE ONE "BEST BET" OF TODAY.

54,700 Chevrolets Are Sold During the Year

"The Chevrolet Motor company during the year ended August 1 turned out 54,700 cars, including the output of the Canadian factory, thereby entering the list of the seven largest producers in the country," says T. D. Humphrey, general manager of the Herrick & McLarty Auto Co.

"The company will turn out about 10,000 cars this month, and plans for next year call for 100,000 to 125,000 cars. The maximum schedule projected for the summer months of this year has not been completely met on account of the delays in obtaining raw materials, particularly brass and copper.

"The treasury position has been improving steadily. Current assets are now over $25,000,000 as against $8,000,000 at the time of the organization last fall."

Hudson, Chalmers and Romano Take the Honors at Pike's Peak

Colorado Springs, Colo.—Rae Lentz, Ralph Mulford and Fred Junk, driving respectively the Romano, Hudson Super-Six and Chalmers, divided honors in climbing Pike's Peak during the two-day motoring festival that ended here today. It was predicted before the events took place that the winner's time in each of the three events would be close to fifteen minutes; but the prognosticators did not take into consideration several factors, among which were the weather, carburetor troubles and proper gearing.

Two events were run yesterday, one for cars of 231 cubic inches displacement and under and one for cars with a displacement ranging from 231 to 300 cubic inches.

Six cars were entered in the 231 to 300 cubic inches event. These were sent away in two groups, the first including Hughes, Mulford, Parish and Oldfield, and the second Buzane and Patterson. Hughes went out in his car above timberline with motor trouble, and a faulty timing device made it necessary to recall Oldfield and Parish after they reached Glencove, as their time at the start was not registered. This left the course free for Mulford and he covered the 12 1-2 mile course in 18 minutes, 24.7 seconds. The maximum grade is 10 1-2 per cent; average 7 1-2.

Sending two cars back put four in the second group to start, and Patterson's Hudson seemed to have second place cinched but ran off the course when about twenty feet from the finish line and was disqualified. This left Buzane, in a Duesenberg, second and Parish, in a Mercer, third, as Oldfield's Delage did not do anything spectacular. In fact, Barney did not get his car on the course until the morning of the race.

Today's event, which was for the Penrose trophy and $3,000 in cash, was won by Rae Lentz in a Romano special having an eight-cylinder aeroplanemotor with a displacement of 402.12 cubic inches. Ever since Lentz began to perform on the course he was predicted to be a likely winner, but his time today was not equal to that shown by Mulford in winning yesterday's event; but, of course, physical conditions were different today, for most of the race was run in rain, sleet and snow. Mulford finished second in today's race, and he, too, found climbing more difficult today.

Conditions were anything but auspicious for today's event. Most of the climb was through a driving storm of rain, hail and snow, and the spectators, who journeyed far up the mountain to watch the drivers zigzagging far below them, shivered in the cold. Goggles worn by the racing crews were so covered with rain and sleet that they had to be discarded.

Helpful Suggestions Made for Care Storage Batteries

The following from the booklet on storage battery care, issued by the Willard Storage Battery company of Cleveland, furnished by the Waco Storage Battery company, may prove helpful to car owners.

"In examining a battery that appears to be dead, a hydrometer syringe should be used to determine the specific gravity of the electrolyte or the solution inside the battery. This test should be made before adding water. Should the battery charge prove to be lower than 1.275 it is necessary to have the battery recharged. This may be done in cases where the battery is not too weak by doing considerable running with small use of starter and lights. In this connection, it is very important to see that the generator is working properly.

"Inspection of wiring to make sure that there are no grounded wires from insulation being worn off, no corroded terminals and no poor connections; testing of lamps and cleaning of generator brushes are always as essential to efficient electrical performance as the cleaning of carburetor and gasoline is to motor efficiency.

"Sometimes the generator does not charge the battery sufficiently to meet the unusual demand of some particular driver for cranking the motor and operating the lights. In such cases the Willard Storage Battery company recommends that the owner visit the nearest Willard service station where expert assistance can be had, to secure satisfactory lighting and starting service. Never trust a novice to repair or recharge a storage battery and do not tamper with your own battery beyond filling it with pure water and testing it with a hydrometer syringe. By following these precautions and operating the starter and electric lights with some degree of intelligence and economy good results are bound to follow."

FUTURE AUTO INDUSTRY IN AMERICA IS SAFE

Present Annual Market Is 2,350,000. Market Will Remain Healthy for Years.

"Frequently the fear is expressed that the market is becoming glutted with automobiles, that the time is not far distant when the supply will be far ahead of the demand, and that the great motor car industry, upon which many thousands of persons are dependent for support, will stagnate and wither from its present proud eminence," says V. M. Washam, local distributor for the Maxwell.

"That such predictions are groundless and are not based on the actual conditions in this country, is the statement of Walter E. Flanders, president and general manager of the Maxwell Motor company, Inc., who backs up his belief with a series of vital statistics that are of interest to the entire industry. These statistics show conclusively that the doubting Thomases who are making dire predictions of the future of the automobile are speaking without a knowledge of the real situation, or if they have that knowledge, they are ignoring the facts.

REASON FOR BIG PRODUCTION.

"There is a very good reason for the increased production in the Maxwell factories," said Mr. Flanders. "That reason lies in the fact that there are at least 5,000,000 owners of homes and 4,000,000 farmers in this country who are not owners of motor cars and who are natural prospects. (This takes no account of hundreds of thousands of home renters who are well able to buy the kind of a motor car they desire). There you have a minimum of 7,000,000 who will buy cars within the next four years. This means that 1,750,000 will buy each year.

"We have in the United States 11,000 cities and towns of 500 or more population and in these cities and towns are 5,000,000 home owners, of whom only 2,000,000 have bought cars.

"There are 6,500,000 farmers in this country. Their average income last year was $1,552. Of this number, 1,000,000 now own cars, while 1,500,000 are poor or illiterate. This leaves 4,000,000 farmers unsold.

"Approximately 3,000,000 cars are owned and in use in the United States. The life of the average car is five years. A man who has once owned a car will never be without one. That statement will stand with but isolated exceptions. Assuming that the life of a car is five years, then the annual re-order market is 20 per cent or 600,000 cars yearly.

"With the yearly market 1,750,000 and the present re-order market 600,000, the total present annual market is 2,350,000.

"You cannot get behind the figures. There is a good, healthy market for motor cars and there is no immediate prospect of it diminishing. The social, business, agricultural and economic value of the automobile is generally admitted by our population, both urban and rural. With each individual, it is merely a question of the most convenient time for him to buy."

Buick

Right Principles and Their Public Reward

The motorist who watches the signs of the times is deeply interested in the ever growing dominance of the road by the Buick.

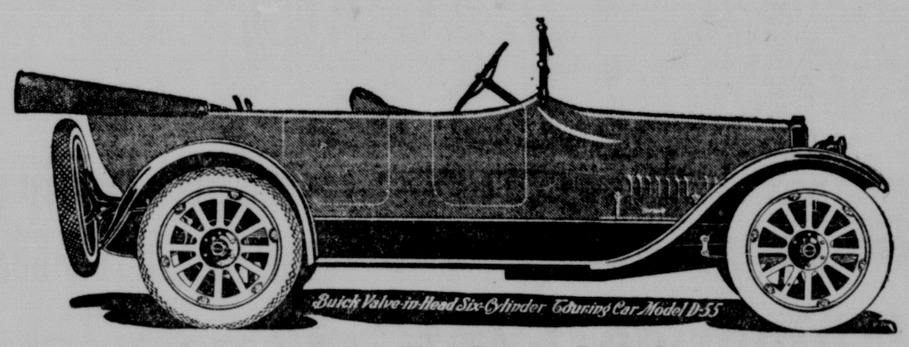

It is significant of that appreciation which the American public always accords to the pioneer genius who builds consistently on the right foundation principles.

The Buick Valve-in-Head motor has been proved to be the logical application of power. Power that means swiftness with grace and smooth, dependable action.

Measuring miles by the gallon—it is easy to prove the extra mileage which Buick engineering obtains from every gallon of gasoline.

This economy is a point of consideration nowadays, when a motor-car, from being a hobby or a luxury, is a necessity in the world's affairs.

Associated Ad Clubs Expose Fake of "Automobile League"

New York.—Those who advertise falsely are being brought to time by the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, whose motto is "Truth." A vigilance committee is maintained for this work. Postoffice fraud orders are secured where advisable against those whose claims are not true.

One New York City retailer who advertised "Genuine Panama hats at $2.85—values $5, $6 and $7.50," was prosecuted and fined $25 when it was proven the hats were not Panama.

A Spokane piano merchant advertised "Weiler pianos, regularly $400, on sale at the special price of $195." It was found that these pianos cost $75 at the factory and were laid down in Spokane at $90. The advertiser was fined $50.

A fraud order has been issued against a Niagara Falls concern which advertised for men to travel and appoint agents at a salary of $80 a month. It was disclosed that the principal object was to sell sample cases to salesmen at $6 each. These are but instances of the cases that are being brought from time to time. The Associated clubs had much to do with the recent case of A. C. Bidwell of the International Automobile league.

One Hundred Victims in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Aug. —Matthew F. Morse, secretary of the Automobile club of St. Louis, who aided in obtaining the fraud orders against the International Automobile league and kindred organziations, estimates that more than 300 St. Louis car owners paid membership fees to this organization. Some of these people were mulcted of large amounts before they decided to heed privately circulated warnings. The St. Louis license list was the basis of membership solicitation here.

Firestone Company's Organization Is Highly Efficient

More and more the nation is coming to realize the value in a highly organized army of experts industrially trained to the highest pitch of efficiency with quality the watchword.

We have a forcible example of the successful working of such an organization in the recent announcement by the Firestone Tire and Rubber company of the phenomenal growth of its business and the 257 per cent increase of sales in the past five years.

In that short space of time—since they moved into the new factory, the organization has advanced at this rate, tripling the size of the factory, which was, five years ago, already the largest exclusive tire plant in the world.

When you get such efficiency, with quality ever ahead, you get also the demand, the volume of sales which bring down cost of production.

In the colossal success of the Firestone organization you have an industrial benefit to the country which, in time of need, might prove the answer to a national crisis.

Savage Tire Company Will Add Equipment to San Diego Plant

C. L. Climes, factory overseer at the Savage Tire company's San Diego plant, arrived home a few days ago after a trip to Chicago and other eastern points, where he made arrangements for the addition of considerable equipment to the San Diego factory. The Savage Tire company's plant has been working to its full capacity all year, but at that have found it difficult to supply the demand. When the new equipment for which Mr. Climes has arranged has been installed, a material increase in the factory output is promised.

Incidentally, Mr. Climes reports that Savage tires and Savage Grafinite tubes have already established enviable reputations for themselves all through the middle west. Motorists have nothing but words of praise for Savage products wherever used. A man, prominent in the tire industry, when asked the most popular tire, said that it was hard to decide now between three well-known makes, but at the rate Savage tires were forging to the front, it looked as though they would be undisputed leaders before the end of the year, in every mid-west locality in which they are sold.

Automobilists Still Reckless on Long Island Roads.

In a statement made on July 31 by J. A. McCrea, general manager of the Long Island railroad, emphasis is placed upon the fact that reckless driving of automobiles and other vehicles over Long Island grade crossings is increasing rather than diminishing. Mr. McCrea said:

"It is very difficult to believe that we are making any headway in the prevention of accidents at our grade crossings. We have records of 140 distinct cases of recklessness which have occurred in the last seven months and if drivers continue to violate the safety rules at this rate for the remainder of the year, the total number of reckless accidents in 1916 will exceed that of 1915.—Electric Railway Journal.

Ambitious Collegian Makes His Expenses Selling Gas

Los Angeles, Cal.—Gasoline is putting W. E. "Slim" Hibbard through college. A member of the next senior class at Occidental college, Los Angeles, he takes part in all student activities and operates a supply station a short distance from the campus which supplies him with the necessary funds for his education.

While other students work their way through college by waiting on table, doing gardening work and acting as janitors in the college building, young Hibbard dishes out gasoline and oil. The supply station pays well and provides employment for two young men.

Occidental college boasts of the only college automobile club in the west. There are more than 100 cars on the campus and the faculty has constructed two garages for the motoring students. Hibbard has a corner on the college automobile club's business, and as a special inducement offers gasoline and oils at a reduced rate to the students. This trade alone is enough to keep the supply station busy, but located on the San Fernando boulevard, better known as El Camino Real, Hibbard gets a lot of business from motorists traveling between Los Angeles and San Francisco over the inland route or coast road.

The station is known as the Glasswell Park Service station. The owner's slogan is "A station of quality."

The building is well covered with signs proclaiming the merits of the goods handled. Puente Gasoline stands out in letters a foot high. Valvoline motor oils is another sign which stands out like a headlight. A line of accessories is also carried. The boys specialize in Howe inner tubes and Lee tires.

W. G. Stidston is in charge of the station while Hibbard is in class or taking part in athletics on the campus. Hibbard is a baseball star and one of the best high jumpers in the state. The proprietor lives between the supply station and the college, so that he is able to divide his time between the two places without loss of precious moments.

Between classes Hibbard is often seen studying in the shade of the station, while Stidston is busy elsewhere. There are times when several cars will be lined up, taking on oil and gas, and there are times when business is so brisk for the college "gent" that he has no time for study but contents himself with taking in the price of gasoline.

The money to start the station was supplied by Hibbard's father, but he has cleared the mortgage and now has a flourishing business. The young supply man also owns his own touring car, which is to be seen in all college doings, such as football parades, class tours and automobile rides for prominent visitors to the college; he has piled up a neat little bank account.

Champion Fish Story.
(New York Herald.)

The fish story to be told herewith is at the outset admitted to be the hardest to believe ever emanating from New Jersey. However, truth crushed to the ground will rise again, and, though the narrative gets a rise out of the crushers, there can be no denying that:

Louis G. Bowden of Little Falls road was fishing in the waters of Peckman river on Saturday and caught a pickerel. It was a great big one, and as he snapped it out of the water he gave a triumphant cry. A fish hawk flying over his head seized the fish and continued on his way, allowing the hook to flop down empty. Mr. Bowden, as might be expected, was exceedingly annoyed. He was especially anxious to eat some pickerel, and he whipped the river for an hour in an effort to get one. No luck.

The fish hawk who deliberately stole that pickerel flew over the truck farm of Jacob Gissing after leaving the scene of the robbery. The pickerel was heavy, and the hawk with difficulty flew on. Mr. Gissing saw the bird swooping low and, throwing up his hat, shouted with energy. The bird dropped the fish.

When Mr. Gissing took the fish home his wife said it was so large and fine that she would call up Mr. and Mrs. Bowden, who lived nearby, and have a splendid fish dinner with new peas, new potatoes, fresh beets and strawberry shortcake.

Mr. Bowden, angry beyond words, arrived home just as his wife was ready to go to the Gissing home. He went. What a night! What a triumph! His own fish!

Present Annual Market Is 2,350,000. Market Will Remain Healthy for Years.

"Frequently the fear is expressed that the market is becoming glutted with automobiles, that the time is not far distant when the supply will be far ahead of the demand, and that the great motor car industry, upon which many thousands of persons are dependent for support, will stagnate and wither from its present proud eminence," says V. M. Washam, local distributor for the Maxwell.

"That such predictions are groundless and are not based on the actual conditions in this country, is the statement of Walter E. Flanders, president and general manager of the Maxwell Motor company, Inc., who backs up his belief with a series of vital statistics that are of interest to the entire industry. These statistics show conclusively that the doubting Thomases who are making dire predictions of the future of the automobile are speaking without a knowledge of the real situation, or if they have that knowledge, they are ignoring the facts.

REASON FOR BIG PRODUCTION.

"There is a very good reason for the increased production in the Maxwell factories," said Mr. Flanders. "That reason lies in the fact that there are at least 3,000,000 owners of homes and 4,000,000 farmers in this country who are not owners of motor cars and who are natural prospects. (This takes no account of hundreds of thousands of home renters who are well able to buy the kind of a motor car they desire). There you have a minimum of 7,000,000 who will buy cars within the next four years. This means that 1,750,000 will buy each year.

"We have in the United States 11,000 cities and towns of 500 or more population and in these cities and towns are 5,000,000 home owners, of whom only 2,000,000 have bought cars.

"There are 6,500,000 farmers in this country. Their average income last year was $1,552. Of this number, 1,000,000 now own cars, while 1,500,000 are poor or illiterate. This leaves 4,000,000 farmers unsold.

"Approximately 3,000,000 cars are owned and in use in the United States. The life of the average car is five years. A man who has once owned a car will never be without one. That statement will stand with but isolated exceptions. Assuming that the life of a car is five years, then the annual re-order market is 20 per cent or 600,000 cars yearly.

"With the yearly market 1,750,000 and the present re-order market 600,000, the total present annual market is 2,350,000.

"You cannot get behind the figures. There is a good, healthy market for motor cars and there is no immediate prospect of it diminishing. The social, business, agricultural and economic value of the automobile is generally admitted by our population, both urban and rural. With each individual, it is merely a question of the most convenient time for him to buy."

Buick

Right Principles and Their Public Reward

The motorist who watches the signs of the times is deeply interested in the ever growing dominance of the road by the Buick.

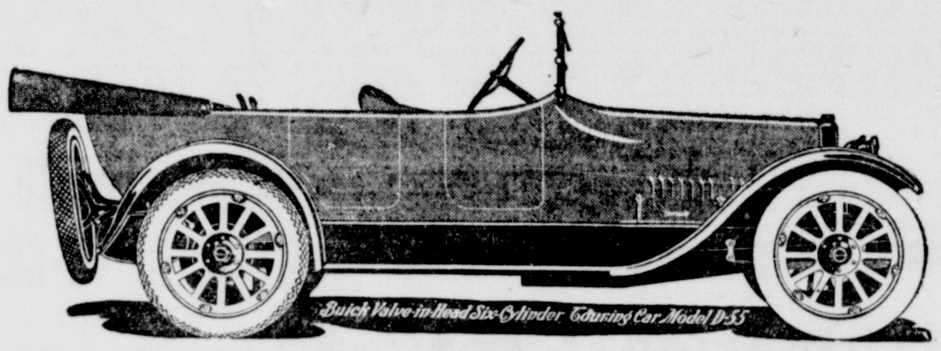

It is significant of that appreciation which the American public always accords to the pioneer genius who builds consistently on the right foundation principles.

The Buick Valve-in-Head motor has been proved to be the logical application of power. Power that means swiftness with grace and smooth, dependable action.

Measuring miles by the gallon—it is easy to prove the extra mileage which Buick engineering obtains from every gallon of gasoline.

This economy is a point of consideration nowadays, when a motor-car, from being a hobby or a luxury, is a necessity in the world's affairs.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT MAKES CHALMERS ORDER

AFTER PUTTING FIRST ORDER THROUGH HEAVY TESTS, 20 MORE CARS ORDERED.

Cars Are Being Used by the Army Officers and Have to Stand Taxing Service.

"Following up the original order for forty-one cars placed with the Chalmers Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., at Walkerville, Canada, the department of Militia and Defense of Canada has registered a repeat order for twenty more 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers for the use of army officials. This brings the total of sixty-one Chalmers cars now owned by the Canadian government," says D. C. Ryburn, manager auto department for the McLendon Hardware company.

"Before selecting any cars for army service, government engineers experimented wtih various makes of cars on the Canadian market. Chassis were torn down and every part was subjected to a gruelling test. The 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers was chosen at the end of these experiments because it qualified best as to all-around performance, fuel economy and excellence of workmanship.

"The first order for forty-one cars was distributed among the different concentration camps from Halifax to Victoria, individual cars being placed at Halifax, Victoria, St. John, Quebec, Montreal, Valcartier, Ottawa, Toronto, London, Seward, Winnipeg, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Camp Borden, Regina, Calgary, Vancouver, etc.

"After six weeks in active service the officials were so well pleased with the performance of these Chalmers that a repeat order has been placed with the Chalmers Motor Co. of Canada, Limited, for twenty more, and present indications point to an early call for additional cars in substantial quantities.

"The Chalmers Motor Company of Canada, Limited, is now in a position to make prompt deliveries and the large factory at Walkerville is working on full schedule."

Goodyear Owners Are Cautioned About Tire Sizes

"In equipping their cars with Goodyear cord tires, motorists should be careful that cord tires of sufficient over-all diameter and air capacity are used to replace oversize fabric tires," declares L. C. Rockhill, manager auto tire department, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

"Inasmuch as Goodyear cord tires are considerably larger than Goodyear fabric tires, some motorists have erroneously figured that regular size cord tires should be just as satisfactory as oversize fabric tires.

"For testing purposes or on dealers' demonstrators, regular size cord tires may compare with oversize fabric tires, so far as speed and gasoline consumption is concerned. But they are not correspondingly easy riding nor as durable, because they are badly overloaded.

"Goodyear cord tires are built oversize for several definite reasons. One of the most desirable results of this feature is easy riding. Another is the greater strength of the tire.

"To insure economical use cord tires must be more durable than fabric tires because they are slightly higher in price. Hence the oversize. But they are not recommended to carry heavier loads.

"Goodyear cord tires can be carried at about ten per cent lower air pressure than fabric tires, but, obviously, overloading counterbalances the easy riding qualities which the lower air pressure is intended to give.

"So we do not recommend cord tires of a smaller rated size, because the desirable qualities which cord tires provide can only be obtained when they are large enough to bear the load. In replacing fabric tires with Goodyear cord tires great care should be taken that the cord tires are not smaller than the fabric tires replaced."

Safety First Means No Smoking About the Garage

Many newspapers in the middle west have taken cognizance of the eastern ruling with respect to the garageman who knocked a cigar from the lips of a patron. The following is a characteristic editorial on the subject, which appeared in the Southwest American of Fort Smith, Ark.:

According to a ruling by a Massachusetts judge, a smoker has no redress if the proprietor of a garage knocks a cigar from his mouth, even if he knocks so hard as to injure the smoker's face. And the decision of the court will be approved by all sensible persons who take the time to stop and think of the danger of smoking in a place where oils and gasoline are kept.

The average American is the most careless person in the world in the matter of fire. He thinks nothing of striking a match on a powder magazine, and he smokes while filling the gasoline tank of his car. He doesn't take the trouble to remove the fire menaces about his own home, where the safety of his family is at stake, and when he takes out an insurance policy he considers his full duty done in the matter of prevention.

Of course, the average American pays the price of his carelessness, and the price is tremendous. It runs into the hundreds of millions of dollars every year and the number of lives claimed would be appalling to any other people. But all the preaching that can be done doesn't seem to improve him, and we have the daily fires in all American cities which we would not have if only the average American would pay a little attention to fire prevention.

Chalmers was chosen at the end of these experiments because it qualified best as to all-around performance, fuel economy and excellence of workmanship.

"The first order for forty-one cars was distributed among the different concentration camps from Halifax to Victoria, individual cars being placed at Halifax, Victoria, St. John, Quebec, Montreal, Valcartier, Ottawa, Toronto, London, Seward, Winnipeg, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Camp Borden, Regina, Calgary, Vancouver, etc.

"After six weeks in active service the officials were so well pleased with the performance of these Chalmers that a repeat order has been placed with the Chalmers Motor Co. of Canada, Limited, for twenty more, and present indications point to an early call for additional cars in substantial quantities.

"The Chalmers Motor Company of Canada, Limited, is now in a position to make prompt deliveries and the large factory at Walkerville is working on full schedule."

Goodyear Owners Are Cautioned About Tire Sizes

"In equipping their cars with Goodyear cord tires, motorists should be careful that cord tires of sufficient over-all diameter and air capacity are used to replace oversize fabric tires," declares L. C. Rockhill, manager auto tire department, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

"Inasmuch as Goodyear cord tires are considerably larger than Goodyear fabric tires, some motorists have erroneously figured that regular size cord tires should be just as satisfactory as oversize fabric tires.

"For testing purposes or on dealers' demonstrators, regular size cord tires may compare with oversize fabric tires, so far as speed and gasoline consumption is concerned. But they are not correspondingly easy riding nor as durable, because they are badly overloaded.

"Goodyear cord tires are built oversize for several definite reasons. One of the most desirable results of this feature is easy riding. Another is the greater strength of the tire.

"To insure economical use cord tires must be more durable than fabric tires because they are slightly higher in price. Hence the oversize. But they are not recommended to carry heavier loads.

"Goodyear cord tires can be carried at about ten per cent lower air pressure than fabric tires, but, obviously, overloading counterbalances the easy riding qualities which the lower air pressure is intended to give.

"So we do not recommend cord tires of a smaller rated size, because the desirable qualities which cord tires provide can only be obtained when they are large enough to bear the load. In replacing fabric tires with Goodyear cord tires great care should be taken that the cord tires are not smaller than the fabric tires replaced."

Safety First Means No Smoking About the Garage

Many newspapers in the middle west have taken cognizance of the eastern ruling with respect to the garageman who knocked a cigar from the lips of a patron. The following is a characteristic editorial on the subject, which appeared in the Southwest American of Fort Smith, Ark.:

According to a ruling by a Massachusetts judge, a smoker has no redress if the proprietor of a garage knocks a cigar from his mouth, even if he knocks so hard as to injure the smoker's face. And the decision of the court will be approved by all sensible persons who take the time to stop and think of the danger of smoking in a place where oils and gasoline are kept.

The average American is the most careless person in the world in the matter of fire. He thinks nothing of striking a match on a powder magazine, and he smokes while filling the gasoline tank of his car. He doesn't take the trouble to remove the fire menaces about his own home, where the safety of his family is at stake, and when he takes out an insurance policy he considers his full duty done in the matter of prevention.

Of course, the average American pays the price of his carelessness, and the price is tremendous. It runs into the hundreds of millions of dollars every year and the number of lives claimed would be appalling to any other people. But all the preaching that can be done doesn't seem to improve him, and we have the daily fires in all American cities which we would not have if only the average American would pay a little attention to fire prevention.

As general manager of the sales department of these cars, I have tried to leave nothing undone that would render our customers a greater service and help each customer select the car that fits his or her particular requirements—for the record we have been able to make, I am fully appreciative. ¶ Our new home which will be completed soon will give us greater opportunity to leave nothing undone that will add to the efficiency of our service, and with four cars that I know from a thorough and careful investigation are the greatest four car-values on the American market, together with the fact that fortune has favored us with crop prosperity and plenty, I am making preparations for a greater ascendency and greater record, and I wish to thank my friends and customers and the friends and customers of the company I am with for their business favors. Mr. Pothinger of Lott, Texas, is the proud owner of an Oakland Six since Friday of the past week. Mr. Robert Russell made the sale and in so doing made a better friend out of Mr. Pothinger.

Sam Stratton was the purchsaer of a Chalmers Six-30 during the week and has made a trip to Temple and back in his car. He says it cannot be beat for hill climbing and easy riding qualities on the road.

We gladly correct an error of last week's items in which was stated Brutus Oradn spent his vacation in Mineral Wells. Brutus says that Mineral Wells is no place for a pleasure seeker, so accordingly he has bound himself toward Comanche, Texas, for a week or so.

Oscar J. Rhea of Clifton, Texas, drove home in an Oakland Six, bought of the Herrick-McLarty Auto company. Mr. Rhea is agent for the Oakland car in his home town, and as a result of his visit a car of Oaklands is being shipped to Clifton to fill awaiting orders.

Sheriff S. S. Fleming has placed his order for another Buick Six. Mr. Fleming believes in buying the best that is to be had of everything and he especially is fond of good automobiles, he having owned a Buick for the past two years which has given him the service demanded by his office.

This concern is operated by two "live wires," Scott Hill and Herman Olenbush. They are two of the young enterprising business men in the local automobile field. Mr. Olenbush stated that the company made three unusually large sales of Goodyear cord tires the past week—each one a big order. Their regular run of business in tire sales, auto accessories, oil and gasoline, was also very good. Mr. Olenbush predicts that business will get eve nbetter in September.

The Raleigh garage, 120 South Eighth street, has been enjoying a very fine business since they opened up a week ago. There was a half page announcement of their opening for business in the News last Sunday. They state that the effects of the ad were unexpectedly good. The Raleigh is operated by Clyde Beard and W. L. Crain, two well known men in the local auto field. Mr. Crain states that they are daily expecting their gasoline tank. They have been compelled to disappoint many patrons who have wanted oil and gas service through the delay in the arrival of the tank. Mr. Crain says that the tank is expected early in the week and that when it comes the service station will be one of the big features of their business. They have done a fine business in repairs the past week, and many auto owners have placed their cars there for storage, due, Mr. Crain states, to the convenient location and roomy storage space.

HUDSON BREAKS HILL CLIMBING RECORD

A Super-Six special, again driven by Ralph Mulford, has added the record of the fastest time in climbing to the summit of Pikes Peak, the world's greatest hill climbing test, to its already long string of victories.

Mulford's time was eighteen minutes and twenty-four seconds, which is 2 1-2 minutes faster than the next fastest car of the more than twenty contestants for supremacy of the world's greatest highway. Mulford in the Hudson car ran through rain clouds while making the dangerous hairpin turns at terrific speed, with a bottomless chasm yawning but a few feet from the pathway at one side of the road.

But for a running off the course when within 100 feet of the finish, a second Hudson Super-Six special, driven by Patterson, of Stockton, California, famed as a car pilot on the Pacific coast, would have shared honors with Mulford by running a close second. Patterson's front axle slid up over a large boulder, which brought him to a full stop. He and his mechanician were unable to dislodge the car from its wedged-in position. Spectators rushed to their assistance, got them back on the road and Patterson drove over the finish line only twenty-two minutes and fifteen seconds from the time he started. Because of the assistance rendered him by spectators, Patterson was disqualified.

DANCED INTO DIVORCE COURT.

Married Life of California Couple Lasted Only Twenty-two Days.

(San Francisco Chronicle.)

Oakland, Cal.—When Elizabeth York, wife of Carl Henry York, manager of the fashionable Sequoyan Country Club, persisted in exhibitions of the terpsichorean art in the main dancing hall of the institution, her husband left humiliated, he says. But when she insisted upon having for a partner an employe of the establishment named "Dan," the husband could stand no more, and commenced suit for divorce, although they have been married less than a month.

The wife, according to the complaint, not only danced suggestive dances, but did other improper things, one of which was to go into the kitchen and talk to an employe named "Jack." When her husband remonstrated with her and begged her to act in a manner more becoming the wife of the manager of so fashionable an institution, the wife, he says, used foul language, incidentally referring to her husband as "a bull-headed Dutchman." He says in the complaint her actions were such that the directors of the club warned him he would be "fired" if he kept her any longer.

The Yorks were married June 29 and lived together twenty-two days.

DEATH VALLEY DODGE REALLY A STOCK CAR

Since the country has become familiar with the many thrilling feats of "Death Valley Dodge" the famous Dodge Brothers car that traversed Death Valley, descended into the Grand Canyon and made many other exciting trips, there have been many inquiries as to whether this car had been specially built for rough work.

In order to present an authoritative statement, Dodge Brothers asked O. K. Parker, the Los Angeles engineer who drove the car on its many hazardous journeys, to make a declaration on this point.

In response Mr. Parker said:

"Death Valley Dodge" is Car No. 474, manufactured by Dodge Brothers. It is, and always has been, absolutely stock throughout. Not a single change was ever made in the car, the only addition to it being that of a spotlight for night driving in the mountains, and the addition of a rope bumper swung between the front springs to enable the car to smash its way through the cactus, mesquite brush and greasewood through which the car is forced, as shown in the motion pictures.

"I will gladly make affidavit to the above facts and to the further statement that not a single break ever occurred in "Death Valley Dodge" on any of its trips The drive through eight miles of sand dunes and terrific heat on the floor of Death Valley was probably the most strenuous trip ever recorded in the annals of western motoring. From that scorching trip below sea level, "Death Valley Dodge" was sent to the highest point ever reached by automobile on the Pacific coast where it successfully negotiated the great Glacial moraine region of the high Sierras over two miles above sea level. After twenty-five thousand miles of driving in Western America, "Death Valley Dodge" was driven last month to the bottom of Grand Canyon in Arizona. The motion picture camera recorded the car being driven to the edge of the rapids of the Colorado river, where walls of the canyon towered over a mile in precipitous height above the car. It was then driven to the highest point on the south rim of the Grand Canyon, six thousand feet above the floor of the gorge, a point never reached before by automobile. The combination of strenuous records held by "Death Valley Dodge" represents the roughest mileage of driving ever undertaken in America.

"I believe that these statements will answer your inquiry in such a manner as to satisfy the most curious.

"There is one point, however, I see I have omitted to mention, and that was the question, how many tires were used on the various trips which the car has made? "Death Valley Dodge" has now been driven over 24,000 miles and in that period of time has had three sets of tires. We have been fortunate in having but few punctures on our trips, and have had but one blow-out, that being due to running a sharp mesquite stub into one of the rear tires in making one of our dashes through the desert brush."

Good Crops in Texas Will Mean Much to Auto Market

Good crops and high prices for the products of the farms in Central Texas means much to the motor car trade. Money from the sale of this season's crops is beginning to circulate and the benefit that it is having on all lines of business already is apparent. Cotton picking has become general. Cotton that has been marketed up to this time has brought a record-breaking price and the best authorities point to even higher prices throughout the entire remainder of the season. According to the best statistical information and crop forecasts, Texas will gather over four million, two hundred thousand bales and it will bring an increase of more than one-hundred million dollars over the returns of last year. Crop conditions throughout Waco's trade territory already has created a demand, statistical forecasters tell us, for at least twenty-five hundred cars within the next four months in Waco's trade territory—in fact, right here under our very doors.

Who's going to get this business? Week by week the Waco Morning News is gaining a wider circulation and you will find more prospective auto buyers among its circulation than any two papers in Central Texas.

Here's a crop forecast for Texas that is not only reliable but interesting:

As a Katydid Orchestra Begins to Tune Fiddles.

(Virginia Ballen in the San Francisco Bulletin.)

I was with two persons who care for the things I care for, so, of course, we were happy together. We were eating a basket supper far afield, under a gnarled old apple tree on the edge of a wide acred ranch. The dusk was around us; low, curving hills and great, leaning oaks. Crickets and locusts were timorously venturing to key and tune their leg bows and wings.

"Strike up, strike up," nervously fiddled the katydid. "Ear-rrr-lrr-rr," cautioned the soft and drawling timbrels of the tree cricket.

Birds from far foragings were coming home to roost and covert. Those lingerers, the tree swallows, were staying out, for an hour or more, with gaping bills skimming over the stubble, through swarms of mosquitoes. We were glad to know that thousands of gnats were snared in the wide and sticky mouths, though nothing lessened the numbers devouring us. In the sunset light, flocks of settling band-tailed pigeons had looked as bright as bluejays, but when they rose, disturbed by our passing, the noise of their wings proclaimed them the loud flapping ones.

Across the hustle of their beating wings three mourning doves had flown, cutting the air with a clear and musical whistle, without swerving, straight and far over the hills. The pointed tailed mourning dove is generally on a long errand—the broad tailed pigeon usually roosts where it feeds. The pigeons were still fussing about in the elder and sycamore trees on the high ridge we had left, hooting and cooing about their disputed perches.

Two bluebirds fluttered gently to the fence railing, watching us without obtrusion, twittering to each other concerning us.

Birds of the dusk followed close upon the afterglow. I caught the shimmer of the golden owl's wings as it rose over the ridge. A few moments after, another vague flutter crossed where it had flown, turned and flew upon the first owl's track. What boding had given the owl's mate news of his unseen trail?

A shadow swam above the amber stubble and slid past the apple tree, so silent and indistinct I would not have known the whippoorwill had passed if I had not before this followed that mothlike flutter. The western bird is kinder than the eastern whippoorwill, for it only says "Poor Will" in a soft and soothing tone.

The katydids were jigging away merrily now. A berumpled tree cricket fell. It had been fighting probably. These frail, blanched green night cricketts—so delicate a breath lifts their feet—are terrible fighters. More surprising than their pugnacious tendencies is the blurred and yet resonant volume of sound struck from those tink wisps of wings.

A slender billed nuthatch came to the apple tree. I called to it, "Come on down here, little nuthatch, come on." It came nearer, creeping down a bough head first, jerking back and peeking around the limb at us—a blue gray, white throated, black capped fleck of a bird, with a saucy, uptilted toothpick bill. It wavered up the boughs, dropped again closer, fretfully uttering a whining "yank."

Then the nuthatch bounced into a knothole low on the trunk, stuck its bill out, peered around at us and disappeared. What did it care for my "come along, brother nuthatch?" It had no curiosity or interest in me, just a sleepy little bird wanting to get into its bed.

A long linie of sound whizzed over the fields, coming from nowhere, coming from everywhere.

Four locusts were playing now, oecanthus, the katydid and two I did not know. One a soft voice like the tree cricket, but separated into phrases, the other this continuous high whizzing.

As we walked home across the fields in the dusky light, the great oaks seemed to walk with us, seemed to come looming up behind us on the road.

Good Crops in Texas Will Mean Much to Auto Market

Good crops and high prices for the products of the farms in Central Texas means much to the motor car trade. Money from the sale of this season's crops is beginning to circulate and the benefit that it is having on all lines of business already is apparent. Cotton picking has become general. Cotton that has been marketed up to this time has brought a record-breaking price and the best authorities point to even higher prices throughout the entire remainder of the season. According to the best statistical information and crop forecasts, Texas will gather over four million, two hundred thousand bales and it will bring an increase of more than one-hundred million dollars over the returns of last year. Crop conditions throughout Waco's trade territory already has created a demand, statistical forecasters tell us, for at least twenty-five hundred cars within the next four months in Waco's trade territory—in fact, right here under our very doors.

Who's going to get this business? Week by week the Waco Morning News is gaining a wider circulation and you will find more prospective auto buyers among its circulation than any two papers in Central Texas.

Here's a crop forecast for Texas that is not only reliable but interesting:

	1915	1916
Cotton (bales)	2,322,480	4,200,000
Cotton (price)	$227,000,000	$326,000,000
Wheat (bu.)	22,862,000	12,000,000
Corn (bu.)	171,675,000	165,000,000
Oats (bu.)	44,275,000	12,000,000
Rice, (bu.)	7,113,000	10,000,000
Maize (bu.)		75,000,000

DEATH VALLEY DODGE REALLY A STOCK CAR

Since the country has become familiar with the many thrilling feats of "Death Valley Dodge" the famous Dodge Brothers car that traversed Death Valley, descended into the Grand Canyon and made many other exciting trips, there have been many inquiries as to whether this car had been specially built for rough work.

In order to present an authoritative statement, Dodge Brothers asked O. K. Parker, the Los Angeles engineer who drove the car on its many hazardous journeys, to make a declaration on this point.

In response Mr. Parker said:

"Death Valley Dodge" is Car No. 474, manufactured by Dodge Brothers. It is, and always has been, absolutely stock throughout. Not a single change was ever made in the car, the only addition to it being that of a spotlight for night driving in the mountains, and the addition of a rope bumper swung between the front springs to enable the car to smash its way through the cactus, mesquite brush and greasewood through which the car is forced, as shown in the motion pictures.

"I will gladly make affidavit to the above facts and to the further statement that not a single break ever occurred in "Death Valley Dodge" on any of its trips The drive through eight miles of sand dunes and terrific heat on the floor of Death Valley was probably the most strenuous trip ever recorded in the annals of western motoring. From that scorching trip below sea level, "Death Valley Dodge" was sent to the highest point ever reached by automobile on the Pacific coast where it successfully negotiated the great Glacial moraine region of the high Sierras over two miles above sea level. After twenty-five thousand miles of driving in Western America, "Death Valley Dodge" was driven last month to the bottom of Grand Canyon in Arizona. The motion picture camera recorded the car being driven to the edge of the rapids of the Colorado river, where walls of the canyon towered over a mile in precipitous height above the car. It was then driven to the highest point on the south rim of the Grand Canyon, six thousand feet above the floor of the gorge, a point never reached before by automobile. The combination of strenuous records held by "Death Valley Dodge" represents the roughest mileage of driving ever undertaken in America.

"I believe that these statements will answer your inquiry in such a manner as to satisfy the most curious.

"There is one point, however, I see I have omitted to mention, and that was the question, how many tires were used on the various trips which the car has made? "Death Valley Dodge" has now been driven over 24,000 miles and in that period of time has had three sets of tires. We have been fortunate in having but few punctures on our trips, and have had but one blow-out, that being due to running a sharp mesquite stub into one of the rear tires in making one of our dashes through the desert brush."

As a Katydid Orchestra Begins to Tune Fiddles.

(Virginia Ballen in the San Francisco Bulletin.)

I was with two persons who care for the things I care for, so, of course, we were happy together. We were eating a basket supper far afield, under a guarled old apple tree on the edge of a wide acred ranch. The dusk was around us; low, curving hills and great, leaning oaks. Crickets and locusts were timorously venturing to key and tune their leg bows and wings.

"Strike up, strike up," nervously fiddled the katydid. "Ear-rrr-lrr-rr," cautioned the soft and drawling timbrels of the tree cricket.

Birds from far foragings were coming home to roost and covert. Those lingerers, the tree swallows, were staying out for an hour or more, with gaping bills skimming over the stubble, through swarms of mosquitoes. We were glad to know that thousands of gnats were snared in the wide and sticky mouths, though nothing lessened the numbers devouring us. In the sunset light, flocks of settling band-tailed pigeons had looked as bright as bluejays, but when they rose, disturbed by our passing, the noise of their wings proclaimed them the loud flapping ones.

Across the hustle of their beating wings three mourning doves had flown, cutting the air with a clear and musical whistle, without swerving, straight and far over the hills. The pointed tailed mourning dove is generally on a long errand—the broad tailed pigeon usually roosts where it feeds. The pigeons were still fussing about in the elder and sycamore trees on the high ridge we had left, hooting and cooing about their disputed perches.

Two bluebirds fluttered gently to the fence railing, watching us without obtrusion, twittering to each other concerning us.

Birds of the dusk followed close upon the afterglow. I caught the shimmer of the golden owl's wings as it rose over the ridge. A few moments after, another vague flutter crossed where it had flown, turned and flew upon the first owl's track. What boding had given the owl's mate news of his unseen trail?

A shadow swam above the amber stubble and slid past the apple tree, so silent and indistinct I would not have known the whippoorwill had passed if I had not before this followed that mothlike flutter. The western bird is kinder than the eastern whippoorwill, for it only says "Poor Will" in a soft and soothing tone.

The katydids were jigging away merrily now. A berumpled tree cricket fell. It had been fighting probably. These frail, blanched green night crickets—so delicate a breath lifts their feet—are terrible fighters. More surprising than their pugnacious tendencies is the blurred and yet resonant volume of sound struck from those tink wisps of wings.

A slender billed nuthatch came to the apple tree. I called to it, "Come on down here, little nuthatch, come on." It came nearer, creeping down a bough head first, jerking back and peeking around the limb at us—a blue gray, white throated, black capped fleck of a bird, with a saucy, uptilted toothpick bill. It wavered up the boughs, dropped again closer, fretfully uttering a whining "yank."

Then the nuthatch bounced into a knothole low on the trunk, stuck its bill out, peered around at us and disappeared. What did it care for my "come along, brother nuthatch?" It had no curiosity or interest in me, just a sleepy little bird wanting to get into its bed.

A long line of sound whizzed over the fields, coming from nowhere, coming from everywhere.

Four locusts were playing now, oecanthus, the katydid and two I did not know. One a soft voice like the tree cricket, but separated into phrases, the other this continuous high whizzing.

As we walked home acress the fields in the dusky light, the great oaks seemed to walk with us, seemed to come looming up behind us on the road.

NINETY-THREE YEARS OLD: BUYS OVERLAND

"You can't teach an old dog new tricks," is a saying that is old as the hills.

But Robert Doak of Carbondale, Pa., does not practice it, according to information just received by Percy Willis, Overland dealer.

That's why he bought himself a birthday present of an Overland new service model 75-B touring car the other day, thereby qualifying for the honors of the oldest Overland owners.

There's nothing remarkable about the purchase of a touring car for birthday present, except that Mr. Doak is 93 years of age.

He was born long before the days of steam traffic. During his lifetime he has seen the development of many wonderful inventions. It was not very long ago that he never even dreamed of seeing an automobile, much less owning ose.

Unlike the proverb, however, Mr. Doak believes in learning new tricks despite his age.

Not only is he the owner of an Overland 75-B, but he is quite a proficient driver as well.

This is just one more example of the popularity of the ne wseries 75-B due to the comfort and easy riding qualities of this car, as it was largely owing to these two qualities that the Overland dealer at Carbondale was able to make the sale to Mr. Doak.

Its simplicity of operation and the power, pep, dash and economy of the four-cylindered motor which develops 31.5 horsepower, were points in which Mr. Doak was greatly interested. But the comfort and easy riding qualities most appealed to a man of his years. The convenient arrangement of the control buttons on the steering column; the four-inch tires, the roominess of both front and rear seats as well as the shock-absorbing cantilever springs were points that were largely responsible for the completion of this sale.

RALPH DE PALMA IS STILL SPEED DEMON

GREAT DRIVER IS THROWN OUT OF GRAND PRIX CLASSIC BY BROKEN ROD.

As an Exhibition He Makes 105 Miles Per Hour, Using Goodyear Cord Tires.

The stamina of Goodyear cord tires was again forcefully shown at the Chicago speedway grand prix classic, last week, when Ralph De Palma, the world-famed French driver, piloting one of the new Packard racing cars, Goodyear equipped, covered an exhibition ten miles in 5 minutes 43 seconds, an average speed of 105 miles an hour.

In the grand prix race De Palma was forced to retire early, while leading the field, having broken a connecting rod on the third lap. Association rules did not permit him to re-enter the race, as the required five laps had not been covered.

But just to prove that, barring accidents, he was the same master driver as of yore, he circled the two-mile track five times at the rate of 105 miles an hour, five miles faster than the time made in the grand prix race.

Goodyear cord tires hold the world's fastest non-stop record. In the most successful speedway meet ever held in the Northwest, at Tacoma, Washington, on August 6, Pete Henderson, in a Maxwell car, established a non-stop record of 300 miles at the rate of 84 1-2 miles an hour. When it is taken into consideration that a tire, after a ten-mile grind at such terrific speed, becomes so heated that the hand cannot be held on it, the wonderful performance of the Goodyear tires in this 500-mile, non-stop run can be appreciated.

For heat and rubber are natural enemies. It was not until Charles Goodyear discovered a vulcanization process whereby rubber was rendered immune from the effects of ordinary heat, that its use became practical. So that success in building a tire that will withstand such terrific grinds is contingent upon the heat-resisting properties built into it. That Goodyear has solved this problem is evident from the remarkable performances of Goodyear cord tires on the race track this season.

New Buick Fours Measure Up to Traditions

"In these four-cylinder cars, it goes without saying, of course, the famous Buick valve-in-head motor constitutes the mechanical foundation upon which the cars are built. In all essentials the cars measure up to all Buick traditons. There are the same excellence of materials and workmanship, the same correctness and beauty of design and the same in-built durability that always have characterized the Buick. We offer these cars to the motoring public, confident in the conviction that they will win the same enthusiastic approval that the Buick product has won in the past, and that the Buick Motor company sincerely aspires to retain in the futures as its greatest single asset," says W. E. Brown, manager of the Auto Department of the Herrick Hardware company.

"The four-cylinder models that we are now introducing are sure to be leaders in their class, just as the sixes are leaders in the whole field of motor car manufacturing and selling. The four-cylinder cars are designed and built to meet the particular needs of certain of our dealers and certain Buick patrons, particularly those who insist upon Buick valve-in-head power and general worth but who do not care to invest in the refinements and extra details found only in Buick six-cylinder models. Thus we are certain that by adding the four-cylinder cars to our line we will be able to please more of those who desire Buicks and to increase the business of those of our dealers who cannot conscientiously handle any except the Buick valve-in-head motor car."

Herrick-McLarty Auto Co. Manager Says Business Good

"Business is sure-enough good," is the glad tidings that come from T. D. Humphreys, general manager of the Herrick-McLarty Auto company. "We have already felt the effects of the good price of cotton and we are making preparations to take care of the greatest business the next few months that we ever have had in our history. We have given a great lot of time and study to getting the cars that the people want and adding everything possible for greater efficiency and greater service, and when we get into out new home, which is nearing completion, we will be good and ready to take care of all the business we can get," continued Mr. Humphreys.

The Herrick-McLarty company is local distributors for the Paige, Glide, Oakland and Chevrolet cars, and in them have four cars that are winning public approval as the weeks go. The place has been since establishment one of the busiest places in Central Texas and the large volume of business done has been a great factor in the putting of Waco on the map from an automobile standpoint.

The cars they handle have been very fittingly named the "Famous Four," and their customers not only come from all over Waco and McLennan county, but from the different towns and communities throughout Waco's trade territory.

HUGHES OPENED HIS CAMPAIGN ON TEST TRACK OF AUTO CO.

A former justice of the supreme court stood within the test track of an automobile factory the other day and delivered the first speech on his campaign for the presidency of the United States to a crowd of men in their working clothes.

Opening a presidential campaign on test track of an automobile factory is no common occurrence! Motor car men and politicians are talking about it.

The plant was Dodge Brothers'. The candidate was Charles E. Hughes. The speaker's stand was situated in the Dodge Brothers' oval test track—the track on which cars make their first run after being assembled and their last before going on the market. It is the track on which the car must give proof of quality before going out into the world seeking public approval.

Ten thousand men cheered wildly and waved 10,000 American flags as the judge circled the track after his speech and went the way of the motor car—out through the immense building where the car is housed while under probation, down the long and now gaily decorated passageway to the factory gates, then out—out into the world seeking public approval.

BEE SEEKS FORGET-ME-NOTS.

Flower's Golden Circle Shows its Richest Draughts of Nectar.

(National Geographic Magazine.)

The forget-me-not is a delightful immigrant belonging to that numerous flower family which includes the Virginia cowslip, hound's tongue and comfrey. As far back as we are able to trace flower history it held an honored place in the flower garden, and when America was settled it was brought along to cheer the colonist's life and to remind him of the old roof tree across the sea.

Have you ever noticed the little golden circle around the center of the flower? That little circle is put there by the flower as a honey guide to tell the bee just where to insert its tongue to get the richest draught of nectar and at the same time to touch both anther and stigma and thus fertilize the plant.

There are many legends concerning the forget-me-not. Tennyson once wrote that it grows for happy sweethearts. Another writer tells us that once upon a time a youth, trying to gather a bunch of these lovely blossoms for his sweetheart, slipped into the water and as he was sinking tossed the flowers to her and asked her to keep them and not to forget him.

S. G. Davis of Dallas Is Placing New Auto Agencies

S. G. Davis of Dallas has been in Waco for the past few days looking over the field here and making arrangements for the appointment of county representatives for the Oldsmobile and Scripps-Booth cars, of which he is distributor.

Mr. Davis is highly elated over the prospects Waco and this section of Texas offer for the sale of cars and in his own language "has fallen in love with the city on the Brazos."

Waco and the section of country around it is indeed a fertile field for the sale of automobiles. There is no section of all Texas in which the people are more able to buy cars or need cars more than in Waco and its trade territory.

PARIS STILL SETS FASHIONS.

Women Are Taking Place of Men in Smart Design Houses.

(Grace Goulder in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

Elyria, O.—Out of earshot of whirring aeroplanes and booming guns for the first time in a year, Mrs. William G. Sharp, wife of the United States ambassador to France, arrived here several days ago for a six weeks' visit in her home town with her mother, Mrs. H. H. Clough. She is accompanied by her two youngest children, Effie, 14, and Baxter, 11.

"Paris is a city of black figures, for every woman is in mourning," Mrs. Sharp said. "The little splotches of color here and there are from the soldiers' uniforms. There is the soft gray blue of the French, the khaki color of the English and here and there the red velvet hats of special French officers. Some men are saying that after the war the men will adopt colors and the women keep to the somber tones of these war days.

"But do you know, for all this war," Mrs. Sharp said, "I believe Paris is still as much the leader of the fashion world as ever. The women are taking the places of the men in the smart houses of design just as they are in everything else all over France. And they are doing most remarkably well."

Mrs. Sharp, let it be said right here, is an enthusiast for the French woman's work in the war.

Styles in Paris, she says, show the influence of the army. The very blue of the uniforms is being copied in women's suits. Coats are cut with the flare of the army coat and hats are most severe. "Although they told me that plumes were to be used as trimming this winter," Mrs. Sharp added.

Paris' summer hat has been the black velvet, and the very latest shape is the "tam." This is modeled after the caps of the regiment which calls itself the "Blue Devils."

According to Mrs. Sharp, the Parisian designer does not send the same cut of gowns to the American markets as is sold to the native madame. Ours are more extreme. But we will be wearing a great deal of black and gray with "tam" hats and very full skirts this winter, the diplomat's wife predicts.

"The women are taking the war very quietly, very courageously, but you cannot get away from their suffering. Why, every one of my household has some relative in the trenches. My secretary has three nephews, my cook has a son, my personal maid some brothers, all fighting, and before I left, my cuisinier, a man of fifty, was drafted for service. Only the very young boys and the old men are left at home."

Asked what influence she thought this entrance of women in the trades would have on woman suffrage, she said:

"It cannot but bring the franchise nearer, but the French women, unlike the English, have not yet thought of votes.

"The women who do not have to go to work are devoting all their energies to war charities and these have been established by dozens. The warmest feeling for America's donation to these is felt by the French. The American ambulance hospital just outside of Paris is one of the most popular with the French soldier. Here they have five hundred beds."

Mrs. Sharp is chairman of the women's auxiliary of this hospital and has been active in the work of the "Light House," a school directed by an American, Miss Winifred Holt, and established to teach vocations to soldiers who have been blinded in battle. Mrs. Sharp says she has not adopted any one war relief as her special work, but has tried to do what she could for many.

Some of the Catts men intimated at the meeting Thursday night that Mr. Knott hailed himself up to such an extent that it was not necessary to "bawl him out."

We offer these cars to the motoring public, confident in the conviction that they will win the same enthusiastic approval that the Buick product has won in the past, and that the Buick Motor company sincerely aspires to retain in the futures as its greatest single asset," says W. E. Brown, manager of the Auto Department of the Herrick Hardware company.

"The four-cylinder models that we are now introducing are sure to be leaders in their class, just as the sixes are leaders in the whole field of motor car manufacturing and selling. The four-cylinder cars are designed and built to meet the particular needs of certain of our dealers and certain Buick patrons, particularly those who insist upon Buick valve-in-head power and general worth but who do not care to invest in the refinements and extra details found only in Buick six-cylinder models. Thus we are certain that by adding the four-cylinder cars to our line we will be able to please more of those who desire Buicks and to increase the business of those of our dealers who cannot conscientiously handle any except the Buick valve-in-head motor car."

Herrick-McLarty Auto Co. Manager Says Business Good

"Business is sure-enough good," is the glad tidings that come from T. D. Humphreys, general manager of the Herrick-McLarty Auto company. "We have already felt the effects of the good price of cotton and we are making preparations to take care of the greatest business the next few months that we ever have had in our history. We have given a great lot of time and study to getting the cars that the people want and adding everything possible for greater efficiency and greater service, and when we get into out new home, which is nearing completion, we will be good and ready to take care of all the business we can get," continued Mr. Humphreys.

The Herrick-McLarty company is local distributors for the Paige, Glide, Oakland and Chevrolet cars, and in them have four cars that are winning public approval as the weeks go. The place has been since establishment one of the busiest places in Central Texas and the large volume of business done has been a great factor in the putting of Waco on the map from an automobile standpoint.

The cars they handle have been very fittingly named the "Famous Four," and their customers not only come from all over Waco and McLennan county, but from the different towns and communities throughout Waco's trade territory.

HUGHES OPENED HIS CAMPAIGN ON TEST TRACK OF AUTO CO.

A former justice of the supreme court stood within the test track of an automobile factory the other day and delivered the first speech on his campaign for the presidency of the United States to a crowd of men in their working clothes.

Opening a presidential campaign on test track of an automobile factory is no common occurrence! Motor car men and politicians are talking about it.

The plant was Dodge Brothers'. The candidate was Charles E. Hughes. The speaker's stand was situated in the Dodge Brothers' oval test track—the track on which cars make their first run after being assembled and their last before going on the market. It is the track on which the car must give proof of quality before going out into the world seeking public approval.

Ten thousand men cheered wildly and waved 10,000 American flags as the judge circled the track after his speech and went the way of the motor car—out through the immense building where the car is housed while under probation, down the long and now gaily decorated passageway to the factory gates, then out—out into the world seeking public approval.

BEE SEEKS FORGET-ME-NOTS.

Flower's Golden Circle Shows its Richest Draughts of Nectar.

(National Geographic Magazine.)

The forget-me-not is a delightful immigrant belonging to that numerous flower family which includes the Virginia cowslip, hound's tongue and comfrey. As far back as we are able to trace flower history it held an honored place in the flower garden, and when America was settled it was brought along to cheer the colonist's life and to remind him of the old roof tree across the sea.

Have you ever noticed the little golden circle around the center of the flower? That little circle is put there by the flower as a honey guide to tell the bee just where to insert its tongue to get the richest draught of nectar and at the same time to touch both anther and stigma and thus fertilize the plant.

There are many legends concerning the forget-me-not. Tennyson once wrote that it grows for happy sweethearts. Another writer tells us that once upon a time a youth, trying to gather a bunch of these lovely blossoms for his sweetheart, slipped into the water and as he was sinking tossed the flowers to her and asked her to keep them and not to forget him.

S. G. Davis of Dallas Is Placing New Auto Agencies

S. G. Davis of Dallas has been in Waco for the past few days looking over the field here and making arrangements for the appointment of county representatives for the Oldsmobile and Scripps-Booth cars, of which he is distributor.

Mr. Davis is highly elated over the prospects Waco and this section of Texas offer for the sale of cars and in his own language "has fallen in love with the city on the Brazos."

Waco and the section of country around it is indeed a fertile field for the sale of automobiles. There is no section of all Texas in which the people are more able to buy cars or need cars more than in Waco and its trade territory.

PARIS STILL SETS FASHIONS.

Women Are Taking Place of Men in Smart Design Houses.

(Grace Goulder in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

Elyria, O.—Out of earshot of whirring aeroplanes and booming guns for the first time in a year, Mrs. William G. Sharp, wife of the United States ambassador to France, arrived here several days ago for a six weeks' visit in her home town with her mother, Mrs. H. H. Clough. She is accompanied by her two youngest children, Effie, 14, and Baxter, 11.

"Paris is a city of black figures, for every woman is in mourning," Mrs. Sharp said. "The little splotches of color here and there are from the soldiers' uniforms. There is the soft gray blue of the French, the khaki color of the English and here and there the red velvet hats of special French officers. Some men are saying that after the war the men will adopt colors and the women keep to the somber tones of these war days.

"But do you know, for all this war," Mrs. Sharp said, "I believe Paris is still as much the leader of the fashion world as ever. The women are taking the places of the men in the smart houses of design just as they are in everything else all over France. And they are doing most remarkably well."

Mrs. Sharp, let it be said right here, is an enthusiast for the French woman's work in the war.

Styles in Paris, she says, show the influence of the army. The very blue of the uniforms is being copied in women's suits. Coats are cut with the flare of the army coat and hats are most severe. "Although they told me that plumes were to be used as trimming this winter," Mrs. Sharp added.

Paris' summer hat has been the black velvet, and the very latest shape is the "tam." This is modeled after the caps of the regiment which calls itself the "Blue Devils."

According to Mrs. Sharp, the Parisian designer does not send the same cut of gowns to the American markets as is sold to the native madame. Ours are more extreme. But we will be wearing a great deal of black and gray with "tam" hats and very full skirts this winter, the diplomat's wife predicts.

"The women are taking the war very quietly, very courageously, but you cannot get away from their suffering. Why, every one of my household has some relative in the trenches. My secretary has three nephews, my cook has a son, my personal maid some brothers, all fighting, and before I left, my cuisinier, a man of fifty, was drafted for service. Only the very young boys and the old men are left at home."

Asked what influence she thought this entrance of women in the trades would have on woman suffrage, she said:

"It cannot but bring the franchise nearer, but the French women, unlike the English, have not yet thought of votes.

"The women who do not have to go to work are devoting all their energies to war charities and these have been established by dozens. The warmest feeling for America's donation to these is felt by the French. The American ambulance hospital just outside of Paris is one of the most popular with the French soldier. Here they have five hundred beds."

Mrs. Sharp is chairman of the women's auxiliary of this hospital and has been active in the work of the "Light House," a school directed by an American, Miss Winifred Holt, and established to teach vocations to soldiers who have been blinded in battle. Mrs. Sharp says she has not adopted any one war relief as her special work, but has tried to do what she could for many.

Some of the Catts men intimated at the meeting Thursday night that Mr. Knott balled himself up to such an extent that it was not necessary to "bawl him out."

Waco Logical Concentration Point for Greatest Poultry Section in United States

Is there any reason why Waco should not become a great concentrating point for poultry, butter and eggs? Experts declare that the country around this city, particularly to the west, is ideal for the raising of poultry.

The large cities of the North and East are constantly clamoring for a greater supply of these articles of food. The demand is increasing every year faster than the supply.

There is a great opportunity awaiting this city and the surrounding country. Why not shake off a layer or two of moss and don't-give-a-continental-ness and get busy on this proposition?

Waco will never get anything that it does not go after with the same determination that a cop or a constable goes after a crapshooter, or a politician after an office. They never give up.

H. D. Driscoll, the traffic commissioner of the Waco Chamber of Commerce, is firmly convinced that Waco has an excellent chance to make a great success along these lines. Mr. Driscoll is one of those exceedingly rare birds who has the ability to back up his views with readable and understandable facts and figures.

He has made a comprehensive study of this phase of food supply and commerce in other sections of the country, and is prepared to discuss the matter in an intelligent manner.

When asked by a representative of the Morning News to give some idea of the quantity of eggs, butter and poultry that is produced in this state each year, Mr. Driscoll said:

"The production figures furnished by the department of commerce of the United States show that for the year 1909 there were 77,845,047 dozens of eggs produced in the state, as against 58,000,000 dozens in 1899. The same authority gives the number of fowls raised in Texas during 1909, 25,656,356, as against 14,000,000 in 1899. The butter production is given as 67,126,804 pounds, of which 2,133,590 pounds were produced in factories, the remaining 65,000,000 pounds being produced on farms. The total butter production in Texas in 1899 was 48,000,000 pounds."

"The milk production in 1909 is given as 197,000,000 gallons, as against 251,000,000 gallons in 1899. The figures for Texas would seem to indicate that the butter, egg and poultry development is making rapid progress, but when the size of Texas is taken into consideration, it is found that Texas is far behind many other states in this class of products. As an illustration, Wisconsin produces 458,000,000 gallons of milk per annum as against Texas' 197,000,000 gallons; Texas being the seventeenth state in the milk production. Wisconsin produces 55,000,000 pounds of cheese per annum as against Texas' production of 146,000 pounds, Texas being the twenty-eighth state in cheese production; Wiscinsin produces 131,100,000 pounds of butter per annum, as against Texas' 67,000 000 pounds, and Wisconsin makes 104,000,000 pounds of butter in factories, as against Texas' 2,000,000 pounds in factories. Texas is the twenty-second state in factory butter production."

Speaking of the production of these articles in McLennan county, Mr. Driscoll says that in 1909, McLennan county had almost 10,000 dairy cows which produced 3,134,000 gallons of milk, and 1,127,000 pounds of butter, the marketed portion of which brought $125,000. McLennan county produced in 1909 345,000 head of poultry and 1,032,000 dozens of eggs. Of this number was sold 390,000 dozens of eggs and 76,300 head of poultry, for which was received $90,000.

100-Mile Radius.

Within a hundred mile radius of Waco there were in 1909, 547,000 dairy cows worth about $28,000,000. They produced 200,000,000 gallons of milk valued at $20,000,000, from which was produced 24,000,000 pounds of butter worth $4,200,000. Within this radius was produced 9,000,000 head of poultry, of which approximately 1,000,000 were turkeys. The value of all poultry produced within this radius was about $5,500,000. The eggs produced in this radius were 26,000,000 dozen, worth $4,400,000.

200-Mile Radius.

Within a two hundred mile radius there was produced in 1909 nearly $15,000,000 worth of dairy products, including butter, eggs and poultry. Inside this circle 59,000,000 dozen eggs were produced at a value of more than $9,000,000.

Methods of Manufacture.

With the increased production comes better facilities for caring for the products and better methods employed in taking care of the goods. In the northern and west central states a very considerable portion of the eggs are frozen in cans or dried for baker's purposes. This furnishes a market for broken, cracked, dirty, small and poor quality of eggs and brings up the quality of the remaining eggs which are sold in the shell, giving a better reputation to the egs from the districts where this method of manufacture is employed. "Frozen eggs" is a term employed to describe eggs which are broken into cans and frozen into a solid chunk of ice which can be kept for years. "Desicated eggs" are eggs that have been broken and churned with sugar or other preservatives spread in a very thin layer on sheets of metal, dried in ovens and scraped off, leaving a product closely resembling some of the breakfast cereals on the market. This product is soluble in water and is used very considerable by the bakers.

A very considerable portion of the chickens from Texas are shipped alive in regular live poultry equipment. On that portion of course no manufacturing is done and does not mean as much to the state as paultry which is dressed at point of origin or at the concentrating point. In many sections of the northern and west central states it is not unusual to see several thousand head of poultry feeding at one time and several hundred people employed in the operation of the packing plant. Texas turkeys have quite a reputation in the consuming market and are practically all shipped dressed.

Transportation Risks.

If the commodities are properly prepared for market in up-to-date plants the chance of damage in transit is negligible. Figures by the interstate commerce commission for all railroads having annual revenues exceeding one million dollars for the year 1915 show that for all claims paid, less than one per cent represented claims on butter and cheese; 2.1 per cent represented claims on eggs and three-quarters of one per cent represented the claims on poultry, game and fish. Of all claims paid by those carriers, 2.8 per cent of the total amount represents claims on boots and shoes; 6.8 per cent represents claims on dry goods; 8 per cent represents claims on fruits and vegetables; 2.1 per cent represents claims on iron and steel castings and bars.

"From this will be seen that the claims on butter, eggs and poultry are comparatively light, indeed, and the figures indicate that with the improved methods of packing, better facilities for cooling the products before entering cars, better railroad equipment, better handling at the hands of carriers, the claims are gradually growing less. Higher rates on butter, eggs and poultry than on many other commodities with which they come in competition, have in the past been justified on the theory that on account of the perishable nature of the butter and poultry the carriers are compelled to pay large amounts through loss and damage claims. The figures compiled by the commission show that it will be more difficult to justify increased rates on these commodities than formerly.

Industry Should Be Encouraged.

"Every increase in rates of this character influences the production and the manufacturing to a certain extent, either diverting the business to other channels or keeping it at home instead of shipping it to the market.

"The dairy and poultry industry in Texas needs all the encouragement possible to give it not only at the hands of the federal and state departments of agriculture, but from the carriers operating in the state. When Texas is highly developed along this line as is Wisconsin, Northern Iowa, Eastern Kansas and Eastern Nebraska, the factory problem will solve itself, and the farmer will be more independent and more prosperous."

By a strange coincidence, just at the time when the farmers and business men of Texas were beginning to realize the tremendous benefits that would accrue to them through the development of the poultry, egg and butter business, the interstate commerce commission decided to make a stiff advance in rates.

Mr. Driscoll made the following statement concerning the rate situation:

As a result of protests from representatives of Texas shippers, the interstate commerce commission has suspended until December 18 large increases in rates for butter, eggs and dressed poultry from Texas to interstate points, which were scheduled to become operative August 27. In the meantime, investigation of the increased rates will be made by the interstate commerce commission and unless the carriers justify the advanced rates they will be ordered cancelled by the commission.

The carriers not only have advanced rates from Texas points to the interstate markets but have dismembered the Texas common point adjustment by publishing lower rates from certain sections of common point territory than apply from the remainder of the group.

From Waco, Fort Worth and Dallas the present and proposed rates to New York are as follows:

Eggs, carloads, present $1.30, proposed $1.69; butter, carloads, present $1.43, proposed $1.69; mixed carloads of butter, eggs and poultry, present $1.43, proposed $1.69; dressed poultry, carloads, present $1.43, proposed $1.55.

To Memphis, Tenn., the present rate on eggs, carloads is 45c, the proposed rate is 96c. On dressed poultry to Memphis, the present rate, carloads, is 62c, the proposed rate is 96c.

To Chicago, the present rate on eggs, carloads, is 92c; butter, carloads, $1; mixed butter, eggs and poultry $1.05. The new rate to Chicago on all these commodities is to be $1.16.

To New Orleans, the present rate is 55c in carloads, the proposed rate is 94c; while to Vicksburg, Miss., the present rate is 45c, and the proposed rate is 94c. Increases were proposed to practically all the interstate markets but probably most of this class of products is shipped to New York, Chicago, New Orleans and to points basing on Memphis, where there are no through rates in effect, hence the above will serve as illustrations of the effect of the increases upon the industry of this state.

Texas Editors Will Set Date for Press Day

Speaking of accommodation, the program committee of the Texas Cotton Palace has decided to let the editors of Texas name their own choice for Press Day. If his honor "puts his sheet to bed on Thursday" and has Friday free to hike down to the greatest exposition of them all, W. V. Crawford, director in charge of the day, is anxious to know it. Every day is a feature day, so there won't be any mistake in setting the date.

The following letter has been mailed to the editors of the state with a post card inclosed for an expression:

"Dear Sir: We have been planning the 1916 Cotton Palace exposition program for the last twelve months. We have agreed on all features, but Press Day. The reason we haven't agreed on Press Day is because we want the Texas editors to be here with their friends and families on the best day of the entire exposition. After the program was completed we went carefully over it in an endeavor to select this 'best' day and start it off by naming it 'Press Day.' A careful examination led us to believe, and we are not egotistical either, that every day as planned is a feature day. We are therefore undecided what day will interest the press people and their families most.

"To make a long story short, we are inclosing a proof of the 1916 Cotton Palace program for the first day, November 4, to the last day, November 19, and also a postal card. We want you to look over the proof, OK and return the card to us, voting on the card which of the sixteen days you favor as Press Day. Please understand that you will be welcome any and all days, but we want one day upon which we can entertain in Texas Cotton Palace style the representatives of the press of Texas. You select the day with the features that appeal to you most, and the day receiving the highest number of votes will be declared Press Day.

"Once the day is decided, we will map out the special entertainment features that we have arranged for Press Day and we assure you now that they will be so tempting that you'll not miss this day of days at the Texas Cotton Palace.

"Your early vote will be appreciated.

"Yours sincerely,

"W. V. CRAWFORD,

"Director in Charge of Press Day."

Transportation Risks.

If the commodities are properly prepared for market in up-to-date plants the chance of damage in transit is negligible. Figures by the interstate commerce commission for all railroads having annual revenues exceeding one million dollars for the year 1915 show that for all claims paid, less than one per cent represented claims on butter and cheese; 2.1 per cent represented claims on eggs and three-quarters of one per cent represented the claims on poultry, game and fish. Of all claims paid by those carriers, 2.8 per cent of the total amount represents claims on boots and shoes; 6.8 per cent represents claims on dry goods; 8 per cent represents claims on fruits and vegetables; 2.1 per cent represents claims on iron and steel castings and bars.

"From this will be seen that the claims on butter, eggs and poultry are comparatively light, indeed, and the figures indicate that with the improved methods of packing, better facilities for cooling the products before entering cars, better railroad equipment, better handling at the hands of carriers, the claims are gradually growing less. Higher rates on butter, eggs and poultry than on many other commodities with which they come in competition, have in the past been justified on the theory that on account of the perishable nature of the butter and poultry the carriers are compelled to pay large amounts through loss and damage claims. The figures compiled by the commission show that it will be more difficult to justify increased rates on these commodities than formerly.

Industry Should Be Encouraged.

"Every increase in rates of this character influences the production and the manufacturing to a certain extent, either diverting the business to other channels or keeping it at home instead of shipping it to the market.

"The dairy and poultry industry in Texas needs all the encouragement possible to give it not only at the hands of the federal and state departments of agriculture, but from the carriers operating in the state. When Texas is highly developed along this line as is Wisconsin, Northern Iowa, Eastern Kansas and Eastern Nebraska, the factory problem will solve itself, and the farmer will be more independent and more prosperous."

By a strange coincidence, just at the time when the farmers and business men of Texas were beginning to realize the tremendous benefits that would accrue to them through the development of the poultry, egg and butter business, the interstate commerce commission decided to make a stiff advance in rates.

Mr. Driscoll made the following statement concerning the rate situation:

As a result of protests from representatives of Texas shippers, the interstate commerce commission has suspended until December 18 large increases in rates for butter, eggs and dressed poultry from Texas to interstate points, which were scheduled to become operative August 27. In the meantime, investigation of the increased rates will be made by the interstate commerce commission and unless the carriers justify the advanced rates they will be ordered cancelled by the commission.

The carriers not only have advanced rates from Texas points to the interstate markets but have dismembered the Texas common point adjustment by publishing lower rates from certain sections of common point territory than apply from the remainder of the group.

From Waco, Fort Worth and Dallas the present and proposed rates to New York are as follows:

Eggs, carloads, present $1.30, proposed $1.69; butter, carloads, present $1.43, proposed $1.69; mixed carloads of butter, eggs and poultry, present $1.43, proposed $1.69; dressed poultry, carloads, present $1.43, proposed $1.55.

To Memphis, Tenn., the present rate on eggs, carloads is 45c, the proposed rate is 96c. On dressed poultry to Memphis, the present rate, carloads, is 62c, the proposed rate is 96c.

To Chicago, the present rate on eggs, carloads, is 92c; butter, carloads, $1; mixed butter, eggs and poultry $1.05. The new rate to Chicago on all these commodities is to be $1.16.

To New Orleans, the present rate is 55c in carloads, the proposed rate is 94c; while to Vicksburg, Miss., the present rate is 45c, and the proposed rate is 94c. Increases were proposed to practically all the interstate markets but probably most of this class of products is shipped to New York, Chicago, New Orleans and to points basing on Memphis, where there are no through rates in effect, hence the above will serve as illustrations of the effect of the increases upon the industry of this state.

Texas Editors Will Set Date for Press Day

Speaking of accommodation, the program committee of the Texas Cotton Palace has decided to let the editors of Texas name their own choice for Press Day. If his honor "puts his sheet to bed on Thursday" and has Friday free to hike down to the greatest exposition of them all, W. V. Crawford, director in charge of the day, is anxious to know it. Every day is a feature day, so there won't be any mistake in setting the date.

The following letter has been mailed to the editors of the state with a post card inclosed for an expression:

"Dear Sir: We have been planning the 1916 Cotton Palace exposition program for the last twelve months. We have agreed on all features, but Press Day. The reason we haven't agreed on Press Day is because we want the Texas editors to be here with their friends and families on the best day of the entire exposition. After the program was completed we went carefully over it in an endeavor to select this 'best' day and start it off by naming it 'Press Day.' A careful examination led us to believe, and we are not egotistical either, that every day as planned is a feature day. We are therefore undecided what day will interest the press people and their families most.

"To make a long story short, we are inclosing a proof of the 1916 Cotton Palace program for the first day, November 4, to the last day, November 19, and also a postal card. We want you to look over the proof, OK and return the card to us, voting on the card which of the sixteen days you favor as Press Day. Please understand that you will be welcome any and all days, but we want one day upon which we can entertain in Texas Cotton Palace style the representatives of the press of Texas. You select the day with the features that appeal to you most, and the day receiving the highest number of votes will be declared Press Day.

"Once the day is decided, we will map out the special entertainment features that we have arranged for Press Day and we assure you now that they will be so tempting that you'll not miss this day of days at the Texas Cotton Palace.

"Your early vote will be appreciated.

"Yours sincerely,

"W. V. CRAWFORD,
"Director in Charge of Press Day."
